

LOCAL ADVERTISERS.

SATURDAY MORNING Sept. 2, 1871.

A CHANCE FOR THE LADIES—A Splendid Offer.—We have in this office a splendid Wilcox & Gibbs Sewing Machine, which we will give to any lady in the county who will bring us the names of 75 new subscribers...

N.B.—If any ladies should compete for the machine and fail to get the requisite number of names, we will give for their lists, other premiums...

A Fine Opening—Wanamaker & Brown Fall Trade.

Two rival Base Ball clubs, composed of boys, played a match game last Wednesday afternoon on Pea Hill, in this town.

This county has been visited with refreshing rains this week.

A very heavy storm of wind and rain passed over here last Sunday afternoon, and did considerable damage to fences and old out houses.

A negro girl, was fined by Justice Bush, $2 and costs on last Wednesday, for engaging in a fight the night previous.

C. F. Holland, of the Bachelor, after quite an extended tour of the watering places and mountains, returned this week looking "hearty as a buck."

Now that the season is approaching when vegetation begins to decay, it would be well for our citizens to clean off all weeds and other superfluous matter about their premises...

E. J. Hutchens was arraigned before Justice Bush yesterday, charged with assaulting and beating Amanda Booth. He was held to bail for a further hearing on the 4th of September.

Make Money—by patronizing Oak Hill this Fall.

A Card.

Messrs Editors:

I have always intended to give one thousand dollars to aid in the erection of Public Buildings for this county, and have so declared on many occasions. But I did not intend to make the donation until the proper time had arrived when the work of construction had commenced...

For this reason I have concluded to anticipate a few months, or perhaps a year, my intentions. I hope thereby to silence these lying innuendoes and malicious falsehoods...

By publishing the above card and the accompanying paper, you will much oblige, Yours truly WM. J. LEONARD.

August 31, 1871.

A Generous Donation.

Whereas, Wm. J. Leonard has, from time to time, and at divers times since 1867, expressed a willingness to give one thousand dollars for the purpose of aiding in the erection of Public Buildings in Wicomico County...

Received of Wm. J. Leonard, one thousand dollars, to be applied to the erection of Public Buildings for the use of Wicomico County.

THOMAS B. TAYLOR, Treasurer for Wicomico County.

We have always understood that Col. Leonard intended to donate one thousand dollars toward the erection of the public buildings in Wicomico County, and we are pleased to publish in this morning's Advertiser, the indubitable evidence of the fulfillment of that intention.

Now's the time—to visit Wanamaker & Brown's Oak Hall.

We have received the prospectus of a new Democratic evening journal, to be published in Baltimore city, beginning on the 4th instant.

Victor Mortimer.—Your novelette entitled "The Vision or the Dream of Love," is not such as we desire to grace the columns of the Advertiser, and we must therefore decline it.

PENINSULAR ITEMS.

SOMERSET COUNTY.

The chicken cholera has made its appearance in this county.

A negro man, aged about 21 years, had his right hand badly lacerated, while working in a saw mill near Princess Anne.

Dr. Lewis Morris has returned home from White Sulphur Springs, very much improved in health.

On Friday last the ladies of Salem M.P. Church held a festival at Potato Neck, in the woods of Mr. J. S. Suller.

Last week, six boats and captains, engaged in dredging for oysters in Tangier sound, were captured by Capt. Robert H. McCready, of the Marlard Oyster Police force.

The people of Berlin and vicinity are engaged in cutting an inlet to the Synepuxent Bay through the beach, at Hammock Point.

On Friday afternoon of the 25th ultimo, the stable and carpenter shop on the premises of Mr. Samuel K. Dennis, near Newtown, with 15,000 feet of lumber, together with a variety of farming implements, were entirely destroyed by fire.

The residence of Jesse Truitt, Esq., was entered on the night of the 17th ultimo, and a tin safe containing $15 or $20, together with other valuable papers, was taken therefrom.

The saddest affair that has been our duty to record happened on Thursday last. Three persons were in a small boat paddling on Cambridge Creek, and one of them, a little boy, son of Prof. J. F. Baugher, fell overboard.

The young life of the sweet girl had passed away, though four or five physicians were soon in attendance, and every effort possible was made to call back life, it was too late, and after persistent efforts of over one hour and a half all hope ended.

CAROLINE COUNTY. A County Temperance Convention will be held at Hillsborough on the 7th inst.

Last week, a festival and tournament was held at Queenstown. It was one of the most pleasant and agreeable sources of amusement that has ever been held in this county.

DELAWARE. The price of peaches are so low that the peach-growers of Delaware are despondent. It will not pay them to ship to the city, on account of the supply being greater than the demand.

Leaves is quite gay; hops, picnics and excursions are the order of the day. Last week the Sussex County Medical Society met there, and after the Society adjourned many of the M. D.'s "tripped the light fantastic toe."

The public schools will be open on Monday.

During the past week 24,500 crates of peaches have been shipped from Leaves to New York.

A new Presbyterian Church in the Gothic style of architecture, with tower and spire, is being erected at Georgetown.

The Wilmington Commercial gives the following as a summary of the peach shipments for the week ending Tuesday, 22d inst., to which is added previous shipments:

Table with 2 columns: Destination and Amount. To New York - 662 331,000; To Philadelphia - 72 30,000; To interior of Penn. 25 12,500; To Wilmington - 12 6,000; To Baltimore - 6 3,000; To Chester - 3 1,500.

Total for week - 780 390,000; Previous shipments 1,597,400; Total - 3,377 1,988,400.

Our Trappe Letter.

A Bloodless Duel—Outrage at Eden—Crop Prospects, &c.

Messrs. Editors:—Several weeks have elapsed since you heard from me last, but nothing remarkable or worthy of note has occurred in the interim.

Ready for you—Fall Clothes at Wanamaker & Brown's.

A REALLY GOOD INVENTION.—It is very seldom we commend to the public in this way patent improvements and inventions, which belong more properly to our advertising columns. What we have to commend, however, so deeply concerns the health, happiness and comfort of our American women, that we make no apology for giving it our most emphatic approval and endorsement.

Radway's Ready Relief.—It is the only Pain Remedy. It is the most powerful and desirable feature in this "washer," which is an inducement in itself, worthy of special commendation.

CONSUMPTION, Its Cure, Its Prevention.

By J. H. SCHENCK, M. D.

Many a human being has passed away, for whose death the cause was a simple case of consumption, which was not detected until it was too late to be cured.

DR. JOSEPH H. SCHENCK'S SIMPLE TREATMENT and scalded themselves of his wonderful efficacy in such cases, that they could not but be convinced that where ever sent out orally remains, that vitality, by his medicine, and the direction of their use, is quickened and revived.

Coliseum at Rome.

The Emperor Vespasian, after his return from the Jewish war in the year 72 of the Christian era, caused this wonderful Amphitheatre to be built in that part of Ancient Rome where were the ponds and gardens of Nero. It was completed in four years, and his son Titus dedicated it by the slaughter of five thousand wild beasts in the arena.

Adrian caused the colossal statue of Nero to be removed from the vestibule of his own palace, and placed in this amphitheatre, where it was worshipped as Apollo.

The Coliseum derives its name from its colossal dimensions, being about 1700 English feet in circumference. The form is oval. It was built of immense blocks of Travertine stone, and consists of four stories. The first story is adorned with Doric columns, the second with Ionic, the third and fourth with Corinthian. The entrances were eighty in number, seventy-six being for the people, two for the Emperor and his suite. Within the walls were twenty staircases leading to seats appropriated to the different classes of the people. The seats are said to have held eighty-seven thousand spectators, and the portico, or gallery above them, twenty thousand. There was an awning which covered the whole edifice, in case of rain or intense heat. In the wall of the uppermost story, an open hole supposed to have contained the rings for fastening the cords of this awning.

Clateaubriand in his Martyrs, says: "There were rails of gold before the seat of the Roman Senators to guard them from the attacks of the wild beasts. The air was refreshed by machines, ingeniously contrived to pump up wine and steam again descended in a dew. Three thousand statues, fine pictures, columns of copper and porphyry, crystal chandeliers, vases of precious workmanship decorated this scene of savage cruelty."

An Hippopotamus and some crocodiles swam in an artificial canal which surrounded the arena. Five hundred lions, forty elephants, tigers, panthers, bulls and bears, kept for the purpose of tearing human beings to afford amusement to their savage species, were heard roaring in the caverns of the amphitheatre.

Such were the sports of the Romans when their empire was in the plenitude of its power.

An exchange moralizes on the alleged fact that no "beautiful and towering" monument marks the grave of any eminent American statesman or soldier except Henry Clay. Webster has none, nor Calhoun, nor Hamilton, nor Harrison; nor is this fact greatly to be regretted, since with the decline of sentimentalism has passed, if indeed, it ever existed. We are not a people; never, nor do we in our sober moments attach much importance to any individual man except as he represents some passing phase of thought, and is selected by circumstances and ourselves to do our present will. Republics are not mere ungrateful fillets they can help towards their soldiers and statesmen, to whom self-interest is not to be attributed, nor, in general, any nobler sentiment than the desire to further the interests of the people as an incident of the furtherance of their own interests. When we erect monuments to do so rather with the intention of beautifying our parks and public places than of honoring the men to whom we rear them; the men are the pretext rather than the motive. And so well has this come to be understood that living men hire monumental architects to fashion hideous representations of their own forms and place them in conspicuous places; nor is such action considered shameful, for the reason, probably, that we attach no great importance to commemorating great deeds in bronze or marble, and therefore do not feel that anything like sacrilege has been committed by him who, having nothing to commendate, takes Walt Whitman's view of the case and celebrates himself for his own private satisfaction. No harm is done, and if we are moved at all it is only to laughter.

"Reading," says Bacon, "makes a full man; confidence, a ready man; writing, an exact man." The mind must be fed as well as the body. If the body depended as much on chance diet as the mind of men generally do upon what they catch up, as it passes, or what is, in a manner, forced on them, where would be the healthful vigor of our frames? We would starve in the midst of plenty, or, at least, would maintain but a feeble or sickly existence.

"Love is the diamond amongst the jewels of the believer's breastplate." The other graces shine, like the precious stones of nature, with their own peculiar lustre and various hues, but the diamond is white—now, in white, all the colors are united, so in love is centered every other Christian grace and virtue—love is the fulfilling of the law.

Natures Gifts Scientifically Developed.

As mankind, from indolence or other causes, has been led to suffer from disease, so also has nature provided for the cure. Her hills and valleys abound with roots and herbs, which if scientifically prepared and compounded, will restore health and vigor to the invalid. There is a remedy for every disease, and we should seek one that has stood the test of age.

OFFICE BOOTH & GARRETT LABORATORY, &c.
 Philadelphia, March 24th, 1871.

It is our constant practice to make chemical analysis of the Phosphate manufactured by Messrs. WANTON & CLARK, of this city.—We analyze the materials employed in the manufacture, the materials in the course of manufacturing, and the finished product ready for commerce. We know from our analysis that it is the constant endeavor of W. & C. to throw into market a uniform and reliable fertilizer, which shall not be inferior to the best, but rather superior than them. The average analysis of the past year's work shows the contents of their fertilizer to be:

Soluble Phosphoric Acid about 7 per cent. equivalent to total Bone Phosphate 15 per cent.
 Total Phosphoric Acid about 15 per cent. equivalent to total Bone Phosphate 32 1/2 per cent.
 Ammonia about 1 per cent., equivalent to Sulphate of Ammonia, 4 per cent.

The Soluble Phosphoric Acid fluctuates from 42 to 74 per cent. (total from 14 to 16 per cent., and the Ammonia, from 1 to 1.20 per cent.)

As we have made numerous analysis of similar fertilizers, made by other firms, we can assure that the article made by W. & C. is not surpassed by any others on sale that we have examined, but that it is decidedly superior to the greater part of them, and is, moreover, very uniform in composition.
 Respectfully yours,
BOOTH & GARRETT.

 The symptoms of Liver Complaint are increased and pain in the side. Sometimes the liver is enlarged, and is mistaken for Rheumatism. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness, bowels in general constipated, sometimes alternating with lax. The head is troubled with pain, and dull, heavy sensation, considerable of memory, accompanied with painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. Often complaining of weakness, debility, and loss of spirits. Sometimes many of the above symptoms attend the disease, and at other times very few of them; but the liver is generally the organ most involved. Cure the Liver with Selected Poetry.

AT THE MORGUE.
 K. E. H. OUNT, MAY 1.
 Deal gently, preacher,
 With this poor creature,
 So frail of feature,
 So mute and cold!
 One lily hand,
 One lily wonder,
 Who scorned to proffer
 Her charms for gold.
 Come nigh and study
 Her winsome body;
 Those lips once ruddy,
 Now dank and pale;
 The hair, whose silken
 Tresses the table;
 Would we were able
 To guess her fate!
 The Morgue hath paid her
 Its last grim duty;
 That sacred beauty
 Lies all confessed,
 What impress fingers
 Of holy fingers
 (Was there no ring here?)
 On you white breast!
 For this she yielded
 Life's strong enchantments,
 Think what her tear meant,
 What her despair!
 Was there no sorrow
 From which to borrow
 Other than sorrow
 For one so fair?
 Father above us,
 Save these who love us!
 Read what her hand wrote,
 Just ere she died:
 "No friend, no dear one,
 Hath helped or hindered;
 I have no kindred
 In the wide world."
 No stay was given
 Of earth or heaven,
 How she had striven
 Unto this last!
 Honor was left her;
 Ere man bereft her
 Her spirit passed.
 Spites and pure
 She doth endure,
 The stab, the sewer,
 How she's ashamed;
 It all defies us,
 To the stern bending,
 She made this ending,
 Hiding her name.
 Poor soul and lonely,
 Thy Father only
 Saw thy immortal
 Anguish that night:
 Thou couldst forgive us,
 (Men could not save thee.)
 When from its portal
 Thy breath took flight,
 With no delusion
 Of thy sublimity,
 Our pitying vision
 On thee dost fall,
 Would we might aid thee,
 Ere we had laid thee
 Here in Death's hall!
 EDWARD C. BREXMAN.

Death of Nero.
 Most of our readers are more or less familiar with the character of the Roman Emperor Nero, and with the persecution the Christians suffered under his reign.—A graphic description of the sufferings to which the Christians were exposed by this merciless despot would but harrow the feelings of the reader. Demonic ingenuity was employed in inflicting the most revolting and terrible tortures. The victims were so disgusted, by being sewed up in the skins of wild beasts, or wrapped up in tarred sheets to be set on fire as torments to illuminate the gardens of Nero, that they were deprived of all sympathy, and exposed only to the derision of the brutal mob. Tender Christian maidens passed through ordeals of exposure, sufferings, and death, too dreadful for us in these modern days, even to contemplate. That Divine apparatus which Christ promised his disciples in these predicted hours of persecution, sustained them.
 One night Nero, dressed in woman's clothes, was in one of the palaces of Rome, surrounded by his boon companions, male and female, indulging in the most leathern and orgiastic pleasures, when a great uproar was heard in the streets. A messenger was sent to ascertain the cause. He returned with the appalling tidings that Galba, at the head of an avenging army, was marching rapidly upon Rome; that insurrection had broken out in the streets and that a countless mob, breathing threatening and slaughter, were surging toward the palace.
 The wretched tyrant, as cowardly as he was infamous, was struck with dismay. He sprang from the table so suddenly, as to overturn it, dashing the most costly vase to fragments upon the floor. "Hasting his forehead like a mad-man, he cried out, "I am ruined, I am ruined," and called for a cup of poison. Suicide was the common resort, in those days, of the cowardly in their hours of wretchedness. Nero took the poisoned cup, but dared not drink it. He called for a dagger, examined its polished point, but had not sufficient nerve to press that to his heart. He then rushed from the palace in his woman's garb, and with his long hair fluttering in the wind. Thus disguised, he almost flew through the dark and narrow streets, intending to plunge into the Tiber. As he reached the bank, and gazed upon his gloomy waves, again his courage failed.
 Several of his companions had accompanied him. One of them suggested that he should flee to a country seat, about three miles from Rome, and there conceal himself. Issued with terror, bare-headed, in his shameful garb, he covered his face with a handkerchief, leaped upon a horse, and succeeded, through a thousand perils, in gaining his retreat. Just before he reached the villa, some alarm so frightened him that he leaped from his horse, and plunged into a thicket by the roadside. Through briars and thorns, with torn and lacerated flesh, he reached the insecure asylum he sought.

In the meantime the Roman senate had hurriedly assembled. Emboldened by the insurrection, and by the approach of Galba, they passed a decree declaring Nero to be an enemy of his country, and dooming him to death, more majorum, i. e., according to ancient custom. Some one of Nero's companions brought him the tidings in his hiding-place. Palled and trembling he inquired: "And what is death more majorum?" The appalling reply was: "It is to be stripped naked, to have the head fastened to the pillory, and to be scourged to death."
 The monster who had amused himself in witnessing the tortures of others, recoiled with horror from this dreadful infliction. Seizing a dagger, he again endeavored to nerve himself to plunge it into his heart.—A prick from his sharp point was all he could summon resolution to inflict. He threw the dagger aside, and groined in terror. He strove to talk himself into courage.
 "Ought Nero," said he, "to be afraid? Shall the emperor be a coward? No! Let me die courageously."
 Again he grasped the dagger; anxiously examined its keen edge, and again he threw it aside, with a groan of despair.
 Just then the clatter of horsemen was heard, and party of dragoons was seen approaching. His retreat was discovered, and in a few moments Nero would be helpless in the hands of his enemies. Then there would be no possible escape from the ignominious and agonizing death. In the delirium of despair, he ordered a freedman to hold a sharp sword, so that he might throw himself violently against it. He thus succeeded in severing the jugular vein, and his life-blood spouted forth. As he sank upon the ground, the soldiers came up. He looked at them with a malignant scowl, and saying, "You're too late," died.
 Thus perished this monster of depravity. It is said that this event took place on the 19th of June, A. D. 68. Many Christians at the time, supposed Nero to be the Anti-Christ. The wretch had reigned thirteen years, and died the thirty-second year of his age. In view of his career, the only solution upon which the mind can repose, is found in the declaration of Scripture, "After death cometh the judgment."
 These events occurred eighteen hundred years ago. During the long and weary centuries which have elapsed, what a spectacle has this world almost constantly presented to the eye of God! The billions of war have with scarcely any intermission surged over the nations, consigning countless millions to bloody graves. Pestilences and famines have ever followed in the train of armies, creating an amount of misery which no human artifice can gauge. Slavery, intemperance, domestic discord, ungovernable passions, the tyranny of kings, the oppression of the rich and powerful, and the countless forms in which man has trampled upon his feeble brother man, have made this world indeed a vale of tears. The student of history is appalled in view of the woes during century after century man has visited upon his fellow-man. For all this there is and there can be no remedy but in the religion of Jesus. Here is the panacea for nearly every earthly woe. Here and here only is there hope for the world.

A Remarkable Manuscript.
 Among the manuscripts which were probably buried in the recent configuration of the archiepiscopal palace at Bourges, France, the most remarkable was, without doubt, the order for the execution of Jesus Christ, which was the personal property of the family De la Tour d'Auvergne. The order runs thus:
 "Jesus of Nazareth, of the Jewish tribe of Juda convicted of imposture and rebellion against the divine authority of Tiberius Augustus, Emperor of the Romans, having on the cross by sentence of the judge, Pontius Pilate, on the prosecution of our Lord, Herod, lieutenant of the Emperor in Judea, shall be taken to-morrow morning the 23rd day of the ideas of March, to the usual place of punishment, under the escort of a company of the Praetorian guard. The so-called King of the Jews shall be taken out by the Struten gate. All the public officers and the subjects of the Emperor are directed to lend their aid to the execution of this sentence.
 (Signed) CAEPIA,
 Jerusalem, 22d day of the ideas of March, year of Rome 783.

—A candidate for office calls at the residence of a gentleman to solicit his vote:
 Candidate—Madam, is your husband about?
 Lady—Yes, sir. He has gone to hunt away a dead dog, and will be back directly.
 Candidate—Sheep killing dog, I reckon, madam?
 Fiery spoken urchin—No, sir; just barbed himself to death at candidates—so pap said.
 "I meant to have told you of that hole," said a gentleman to his friend who was walking with him in his garden, and stumbled into a pit full of water.
 "No matter," said the friend, blowing the mud and water out of his mouth; "I have found it."
 —The chap who took the thread of life to sew the rent of a house, has gone west, and invented a patent for cross-eyed needles.
 —Missing men are sometimes found drowned, but many men are found round who are not missing.
 —An exchange wanting to compliment a live stock journal, says it is edited by a man whose head is a live stock.

Manufacture of Knives.
 Few people have any idea through what a number of hands their pocket knives have passed in the process of manufacture. A bar of steel destined to furnish a number of blades is heated to redness. A length is cut off, and the forger speedily "moods" this—that is, shapes it roughly into the form of a pocketknife blade. Another heating is then required to fit the end for being fashioned into the tang, and yet another before it can undergo the further operation of "smithing," the last stage of which is the stamping of the mark of the smith, and then plunging it into water up to the tang. The tempering process follows next, the bluish yellow tint being considered as indicating that the proper degree of heat at which to immerse the blade once more in cold water has been attained. After this the various kinds of blades are classified in the warehouse, and undergo sundry grinding operations to fit them for being hafted. Twelve distinct processes have by this time been gone through, and many more are necessary before the knife is completely finished, although the number of hands which it has now passed through depends in a great measure on the finish to be given to the handle, according to the quality of the blades with which it is fitted, and the price which the completed article is intended to realize.—Engineering and Mining Journal.
 —A quaint old gentleman of an active disposition, had a man at work in his garden who was quite the reverse. "Jones," said he, "did you ever see a small?"
 "Yes," said Jones.
 "The old gentleman," replied the other, "did you ever see a small?"

Anecdote of Rufus Choate.

Rufus Choate and Chief Justice Shaw, of Massachusetts, often indulged in wordy combats, and wit was generally freely expended by both sides. Choate was once arguing a cause before the Chief Justice, (who was one of the homeliest men ever elevated to the bench,) and, to express his reverence for the conceded ability of the judge, said, in yielding to an adverse decision:
 "In coming into the presence of your honor, I experience the same feelings the Hindoo does when he bows before his idol. I know that you are ugly, but I feel that you are great!"
 Choate had command of language and his brain teemed with wealth of diction, truly marvelous. When Judge Shaw first heard that there was a fresh edition of Worcester's dictionary out, containing 2,500 new words, he exclaimed, "For heaven's sake, don't let Choate get hold of it!"
 Choate, in an important assault and battery case at sea, had Dick Barton, chief mate of the clipper-ship Challenge, on the stand, and badgered him so for about an hour that Dick got his salt water up, and hauled by the wind to bring the keen Boston lawyer under his batteries.
 At the beginning of his testimony, Dick said that the night was as "dark as the devil, and raining like seven hells."
 Suddenly Mr. Choate asked him: "Was there a moon that night?"
 "Yes, sir."
 "Ah, yes! a moon!"
 "Yes, a full moon."
 "Did you see it?"
 "Not a mite."
 "Then, how do you know there was a moon?"
 "The Nautical Almanac said so, and I'll believe that sooner than any lawyer in this world."
 "What was the principal luminary that night, sir?"
 "Binnacle lamp aboard the Challenge."
 "Ah, you are growing sharp, Mr. Barton."
 "What in blazes have you been grinding me this last hour for—to make me dull?"
 "Be civil, sir. And now tell me what latitude and longitude you crossed the equator in?"
 "Sho"—you're joking."
 "No, sir, I am in earnest, and I desire you to answer me."
 "I shan't."
 "Ah, you refuse, do you?"
 "Yes—I can't."
 "Indeed! you are chief mate of a clipper-ship, and are unable to answer so simple a question?"
 "Yes, 'tis the simplest question I ever had asked me. Why, I thought every fool of a lawyer knew that there ain't no latitude at the equator."
That shot floored Rufus.

History of the Peach.
 Artemus Ward is credited with the saying that when he boarded around at different places, he always liked to eat lunch, because then he knew what he was eating. Such of our readers as would like to know something of the history of peaches; will be interested in the following facts, which we have taken from Fulton's work on Peach Culture:
 The peach is supposed to be a native of Persia, and its botanical name refers to that origin. It is known to have flourished in both Persia and China at a very early period, and is highly valuable in both countries. It has often been found growing spontaneously in Asiatic Turkey. It is mentioned by Pliny, and several other classical writers, and many anecdotes are related of the veneration and even superstition with which it was regarded by the Asiatics. There is no doubt but it is one of the "Trees of the Garden" which God planted in Eden, which were to nourish and cheer our first parents in their pristine purity and happiness. It is not mentioned in the Bible, but its conqueror, the almond, is mentioned several times, and as early as the days of Jacob.—And we find, when he was preparing his present for the Governor of Egypt, he commanded his sons to take "myrrh, nuts and almond" as a gift, valued the esteem in which it was then held. Again, in the directions for making the golden candlestick, among the ornaments, the myrtle and almond are mentioned as of the chief.
 The peach like civilization itself, traveled from this center westward into Europe, and we find it mentioned in Roman history in the reign of Emperor Claudius. It was highly valued by the patricians of Rome, and was cultivated by them as one of their choicest luxuries. It is still a standard tree in Italy.
 It was introduced into England from Italy, about the middle of the sixteenth century, and has been cultivated there as an exotic ever since. Her cool, moist climate, however, prevents its cultivation, and is only grown on walls or under glass, and the fruit is seldom seen except on the tables of the aristocracy.
 Even in France, where the climate is much milder, it is not always reared without protection, and the fruit has never gone into general use, but is a delicacy confined to the wealth alone, the cultivated being confined principally to gardens.
 In China it is extensively cultivated in the gardens of the rich, and has attained an extraordinary size. But of their propagation and culture but little is known, owing to the exclusive policy heretofore pursued by that ancient empire. Now, since its emancipation, among the many other benefits hoped for a more accurate and complete knowledge of the peach is one. The Chinese are great gardeners, and much affect the curious in horticultural as in other arts, and we may expect to learn much that is interesting, if not useful. We know already that they produce peaches of very large size, and two, at least, of rare shape—the Chinese Flat and Crooked Peach. With this beginning, we will not be surprised at still more curious developments. The curiosity, ingenuity, and enterprise of our countrymen will soon discover whatever may be known.
 It is our credit that the United States is the only country in the world that either in ancient or modern times, has produced peaches in sufficient quantities to allow them to become a common marketable commodity; so cheap, that the poor, as well as the rich, may regal themselves and their families with one of the most wholesome and delicious of fruits at a very small expense, and with every prospect that they will still be more abundant and cheap.—Heath and Home.

Female Society.

It is better for you to pass an evening once or twice a week in a lady's drawing-room, even though the conversation is slow, and you know the girl's songs by heart, than in a club, tavern, or pit of a theatre. All amusements of youth to which virtuous women are not admitted, are corrupt and deleterious to their nature.
 Your club-swaggerers, who are sucking the butts of billiard-ones all night, call female society insipid. Poetry is uninspiring to a yokel; beauty has no charms for a blind man; music does not please a deaf man; does not know one tune from another; but, as a true epicure is hardly ever tired of water, sauce, and brown bread and butter, I protest I can sit for a whole night talking to a self-regulated, kindly woman, about her girl Fannie, or her boy Frank, and like the evening's entertainment.
 One of the great benefits a man may derive from a woman's society is that he is bound to be respectful to her. The habit of respect to your morals, men, depends on it. One education makes more of virtuous men in the world.
 I would have you to be sure to push for ourselves, and say we won't go ourselves and our own, and the best benefit that comes of it is that a woman's society is that she think of something to be respectful to her.

MASON & HAMLIN CABINET ORGANS.

Important Improvements—

Patented June 21st, and August 29th, 1870.
Reliability of Piano.
The Mason & Hamlin Organ Co., have the pleasure of announcing important improvements in their Cabinet Organs, for which Patents were granted them in June and August last. These are not merely mechanical attachments, but enhance substantially the excellence of the instruments.

They are also enabled by increased facilities for manufacture, to make, from this date, a further reduction of prices on several leading styles.

Having completed and added to their former facilities a large new manufactory, they hope hereafter to supply all orders promptly.

The Cabinet Organ made by this Company are of such universal reputation, not only throughout America, but also in Europe, that few will need assurance of their superiority.

They now offer FOUR OUTRIG CABINET ORGANS, in quite plain cases, but equal according to their capacity to anything they make, for $50 each. The same, Double Reed, $65. Five Stops, with Knee swell and Tremulant, in elegant case, with several of the Mason & Hamlin Improvements, $125. The same Extra, with new Vox Humana, Automatic Swell, &c., $160. Five Octaves, Three Sets Reeds, Seven Stops with Euphone; a splendid instrument, $225.

A new illustrated catalogue with full information and reduced prices, is now ready, and will be sent free, with a testimonial circular, presenting a great mass of evidence as to the superiority of these instruments, to any one sending his address to the Mason & Hamlin Organ Co., 15 Tremont St., Boston, or 606 Broadway New York.

DOY'S WASHING-MACHINE.
LATELY MUCH IMPROVED—AND THE NEW UNIVERSAL CLOTHES WRINGER

Improved with Rowell's Patent Double Cog-wheels, and the Patent Stop, are now unquestionably far superior to any apparatus for washing clothes ever invented, and will save their cost twice a year, by saving labor and clothes.

The forms of Editor of this paper, who purchased a Washer and Wringer, thus testifies as to their value:

We can knowingly recommend these machines to be just what their manufacturer represents them to be. We have had them in regular use in our own family for over six months, and we find that all the really hard labor and drudgery of washing is entirely dispensed with by their use.

PRICES—A Fair Offer.
If the Merchants in your place will not furnish, or send for the Machines, send us the retail price, Washer $14, Extra Wringer $9, and we will forward either or both machines, free of freight, to place where you are in selling; and so sure as we they will be liked, that we agree to refund the money if any one wishes to return the machine free of freight, after a month's trial, according to directions.

Natures Gifts

Scientifically Developed.

As mankind, from indigestion or other causes, has been doomed to suffer from disease, so also has been remedied by disease provided. Our Pills are not merely about with roots and herbs, which scientifically prepared and compounded, will restore health and vigor to the invalid. To find such a remedy we should seek one that has stood the test of age.

HOOFLAND'S German Bitters.
A Sure Cure for Liver Complaint. A Sure Cure for Dyspepsia. A Sure Cure for Jaundice. A Sure Cure for Malaria.

And all affections arising from weakness of action in the Liver or Digestive organs. The great remedy for IMPURE BLOOD, And all diseases arising from it. The great preventive of FEVER AND AGUE.

It is an impossibility for any one to have Fever and Ague, if they will use a few bottles of this remedy, each spring and fall.

Will be given for any one that disease that occurs to any one that uses the Bitters or Tonic as a preventive.

Those who have the Fever and Ague will find, that the chills have stopped, that by using a few bottles of the Bitters or Tonic, that the disease has been cured, and that they are now in perfect health.

These remedies will rebuild their Constitution faster than any other known remedy.

The remedies were placed before the public thirty years ago, with all the prejudices of so-called "medicine" operating against them, but gradually their virtues became known, and now, to day, they stand at the head of all preparations of their class, with the endorsement of eminent Judges, lawyers, clergymen and physicians.

Read the following symptoms, and if you find that your system is affected by any of them you may rest assured that disease has commenced its attack on the most important organs of your body, and unless soon checked by the use of powerful remedies, a miserable life, soon terminating in death, will be the result.

German Tonic
Is a combination of all the ingredients of the Bitters with the best quality of Santa Cruz Rum, Orange, &c. It is used for the same disease as the Bitters, in cases where some pure alcoholic stimulus is required.
