Campus Leaders Announced By Dr. Blackwell

Leaders Selected by Vote of Students

Tonight, March 18, STC students and their guests, the Maryland high school seniors, witnessed the announcement of this year's Campus Leaders. Dr. Jefferson D. Blackwell, president of the college, made the announcement of the winners who were selected by student ballot at the end of February. Traditionally, the results of the election are revealed as a part of the Seniors' Day activities.

The eight awards and their requirements were created when Salisbury Teachers College was founded and this year's selections were in keeping with those of previous years.

Miss STC, which is the highest honor that can be bestowed on a woman student was won this year by Shirley Bowdle. The requirements for this award which include possessing a character above reproach, being an excellent leader, and doing something for the college, are easily filled by Shirley. She has been active in many organizations at STC among which are the College Chorus, The Holly Leaf staff, and the Sophanes Players of which she is now president. Her sparkling personality and pleasant disposition make Shirley a perfect choice for the title of Miss STC.

Mr. STC, the male counterpart of Miss STC, demands the same qualifications as those for Miss STC and was won this year by Al Moran. Al has contributed much of his energies and talents to different activities at STC but we perhaps know him best for his efforts in the field of entertainment. Al has been vice-president of the SGA, a member of the Assembly Committee and the Newman Club and he is a friend to everyone at STC. Al Moran truly deserves to be Mr. STC.

The May Queen must, of course, be a girl with a lovely face and the dignity and carriage of a queen. STC can certainly be proud of the girl they have chosen this year, Shirley Young. Shirley, who possesses both beauty and brains, is perhaps best known this year as president of the Women's Dormitory Association although she has held many other offices since her arrival at the college.

Escorting the Queen to the throne will be William Curtis, better known to most people as "Bill." It is not hard to explain the reason for his selection; Bill's quiet manner and pleasing personality are exceeded only by his good looks.

Runners-up to the two preceding titles are the Duchess and the Duchess' escort. Carolyn Kniceley, a member of the Senior class, will be escorted by James Brodes, a Sophomore. These two students are quite popular because of their

Mr. Martin Returns From U. of Wisconsin

After working toward his doctorate in geography and geology at the University of Wisconsin, Mr. Kenneth Martin has returned to STC as instructor of geography. Prior to his absence, he had taught geography, geology, and meteorology. From September, 1953 until February, 1955, Mr. Martin was quite busy teaching part-time in the department of geography at the university as well as studying.

Now in the process of working on his dissertation, entitled, "An Analysis of the Broiler Chicken Industry on the Delmarva Peninsula," Mr. Martin has completed the field work and prepared the maps for his study.

This semester, Mr. Martin is teaching three courses in geography and is glad to be back at STC.

Baltimore Symphony Orchestra Gives Two Performances Here

The Salisbury Community Concert Association presented the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra on Friday evening, March 4, conducted by Massimo Freccia with Herman Godes as solo pianist.

The concert began with Beethoven's overture to "Egmont" Opus 84. This was followed by two preludes by Rachmaninoff. Mr. Godes was solo pianist in the Concerto No. 2 in A Major for Piano and Orchestra by Franz Liszt.

The audience returned after intermission to "Prelude al 'Apres-Midi d'un Baune (Prelude to 'The Afternoon of the Faun') by Debussy and 'Festivals' by Debussy. The evening was climaxed with the suite from "Der Rosenkavalier" by Richard Strauss.

There was also an afternoon performance given for the benefit of those who couldn't attend the evening performance. The performance was enthusiastically received.

James R. Focht Heads High School Seniors' Day Committee Here

The man who has had the main job of planning this year's Seniors Day is Mr. James R. Focht. Mr. Focht's official capacity here at STC is Assistant in Student Personnel and he is also a Supervisor of Student Teachers; along with this he teaches several education courses.

Mr. Focht came to Salisbury in 1949 and in that same year went into the Navy. He served in the Navy for 2½ years during which time, as a Lieutenant Commander, he had command of a division of LST's in the Atlantic Fleet. He is now a Lieutenant Commander in the Naval Reserve.

Mr. Focht has been back at STC for one year now. He is a graduate of West Chester State Teachers College, received his Master's degree at the University of Pennsylvania in 1942 and is now working on his Doctor's degree.

Mr. Focht and his family reside at 804 Alvin Ave., Salisbury.

STC Faculty Members Visit Forty Schools

In preparation for the Annual High School Seniors' Day, when seniors from all over the state came to see our school in action, faculty members scheduled visits to 13 of the 23 counties in our state. These counties comprise eastern, central and southern Maryland, those in the vicinity of Salisbury.

Dr. Blackwell, Dr. Bosley and Mr. Focht made visits to schools with the intention of interesting seniors in the many advantages of attending college. A typical program was the Career Day which was held at Stephen Decatur High School in Berlin on Feb. 21. The program opened with an address by Dr. J. J. Seidel, Assistant State Superintendent of Schools in Maryland. Later, interested students reported to a special room

Day of Festivities Planned for Seniors

A rousing welcome was planned for the visiting high school seniors when they arrived here at STC. Students and faculty alike had worked hard to formulate a program that would be entertaining as well as informative to our visitors.

The works were set in motion at 3:00 P.M., in the school gymnasium, with an acrobatic exhibition put on by the men and women of the STC physical education department.

The girls presented a mass formation—a grand march, in which there were about one-hundred girls. Then they offered a mixer with a medley of intricate designs that thrilled the audience. Three Mexican folk dances followed this and were executed very smoothly. Following this, the girls put on an acrobatic routine in which there were such things as cartwheels, flips, and other gymnastics.

The men then proceeded to put on a fine display of gymnastic ability that kept the crowd oohing and ahh-ing. Many tricks of skill and coordination were exercised on the high bar, the parallel bar, and on the mats.

After that the faculties of the various visiting high schools gathered in the social room for an informal tea. There they became better acquainted and discussed the pros and cons of the student teaching prospects in Maryland schools.

A tour of the dormitories and classrooms gave our visitors an insight into the environment of the students' life here. Rooms were spic and span in the dorms and were ready for a close inspection by scrutinizing eyes. Classes were at their best, and classrooms were looking like cubby holes of higher knowledge. Each lab had a different display to engage the individual interests of the various visitors. The students were a great help to the visiting high school seniors and their teachers by showing them the different displays and explaining their operations and their significance to the studies. Very few questions went unanswered, as the students of STC strove to their utmost to satisfy the curiosity of the visiting seniors.

In the auditorium, there was a program put on by the students to exemplify college life here at good old STC. Much was explained by the program as to the everyday life of the average college boy and girl. Joe and Mary College were put up to the light of a wondering audience and they came out with full honors.

Tonight there will be the traditional dance, during which old friends will have a chance to renew their friendships with one another. The friends can then dance to the soft strains of an orchestra in the school gym. It is hoped that the atmosphere will be bright and gay, and fraught with promise of what the visiting seniors can look forward to when they enroll here next fall. The gayer and more relaxed side of college life should surely be presented by the students.

Our state needs more and more teachers and the demand is increasing every year. We sincerely hope that the impression that we have made upon those who are visiting with us will induce them to enroll at STC next fall, thereby entering into the worthwhile service of teaching the future leaders of tomorrow.

Achievement Key Winners Picked

Once again Achievement Key winners have been announced and congratulations are in order. Perhaps it would be well, to take this opportunity to acquaint some of our readers with the system that is used in the selection of these winners. To begin with, the person must have a high scholastic average. This, in itself may seem to be enough of an accomplishment, but in addition to it the person must have at least five honor points. It is quite difficult for a student to successfully meet both these requirements and the competition has been even stiffer this year due to the fact that the clubs are buckling down and members must be worthy to receive credit for their membership. A student may not receive honor points from any other organization than one endorsed by the SGA.

There are only three students who have successfully met these requirements this year. They are Shirley Young, Grayson Wheatley, and Carolyn Kniceley.

Shirley obtained her honor points for membership in the FTA, the Glee Club, the Holly Leaf Staff, and for being President of the Women's Dormitory Association.

Grayson Wheatley participated in soccer, intramural basketball, the Gym Club, the Holly Leaf Staff and was President of the Junior Class this year. Grayson is to be especially congratulated as this is his third year to win this honor.

Carolyn Kniceley is President of the Women's Athletic Association and is Secretary of the Senior Class.

The Holly Leaf Staff joins with the entire student body in congratulating these people on receiving this honor and to them go our sincere good wishes for continued success in the future.

AS THE EDITOR SEES IT

The opportunity of the residents of this institution to welcome you people to this, our home is awaited annually with eager anticipation. On behalf of the Holly Leaf, I want to extend a wholehearted welcome to you. We work for months in advance preparing various exercises for your enjoyment and our Gym show, tours, evening program, dinner, and dance are planned with your satisfaction as our goal. We hope you have found the student body cordial and that an atmosphere of fellowship and friendliness has prevailed. The men and women have scrubbed and polished their rooms for your inspection, and the various departments have arranged exhibits with your interests in mind. We, the staff of the Holly Leaf, have dedicated our eighth issue to you—to keep as a token of remembrance of a day that may well help to determine your future. Everything and everyone here has been at your disposal and it has truly been your day. This nineteenth annual High School Seniors day, we hope has been of some benefit to you for if it has not, we do not feel that we have succeeded in our efforts. Welcome, High School Seniors.

President's Message

Why Go to College?

In order to prepare for an abundant life, intelligently, morally, physically, spiritually and vocationally.

Intelligently, from books and instructors. The study of books, the work of the best minds of the past will broaden one's horizon while interpretation of information made available by instructors provides for deepened interests.

Morally, from guidance by adults and classmates, often necessary for maximum success. Co-educational colleges are conducive to opposite sex friendships.

Physically, through athletic activities, and practical hygiene courses, one is taught how to best live on twenty-four hours a day.

Spiritually, through religious experiences. It has been said that an individual without a religion of some sort is no more attractive than a lovely floor lamp without a light bulb. One of the principal aims of college is to develop Christian men and women.

Vocationally, through the attaining of useful knowledge. We are urged to get wisdom and with all to get understanding. From economic stimuli we secure applicable knowledge.

Who should attend college? Only those who can profit from such attendance.

When should one attend college? As soon as feasible after graduating from secondary school.

What curriculum should be pursued? The curriculum best meeting the needs of the individual concerned.

Where should one attend college? Perhaps the college most accessible to the home provided that:

The buildings are adequate and adapted to the types of subjects offered.

The faculty is specifically prepared for and experienced in subject matter being taught.

The curriculum is adapted to the different interests of the college.

The student body is organized for cooperative living.

The ideals, school spirit and standards of the college are sufficiently high.

In order that Maryland high school seniors may be given an opportunity to personally experience a cross section of college life, they have been invited to attend the nineteenth annual High School Seniors Day program from 3 to 11:55 P.M. at the State Teachers College at Salisbury, Maryland, on Friday, March 18th.

Free Study in Germany Offered to Candidates

A fellowship at the Free University of Berlin and an International House award at the University of Kiel are among the grants for German study open to American students during 1955-56. These and other opportunities for graduate study in Germany were announced yesterday by Kenneth Holland, president of the Institute of International Education, 1 East 67th Street, New York City.

The Free University of Berlin offers two awards which include tuition and a small stipend plus lodging at the student house.

Fellowships Available For Study Abroad

Fellowships for study in Denmark and Sweden have been offered to American graduate students for the 1955-56 academic year by the two Scandinavian governments, it was announced today by Kenneth Holland, president of the Institute of International Education, 1 East 67th Street, New York.

Three fellowships have been offered by the Danish Government through the Ministry of Education. These include funds for a year of study in an institution of higher education as well as expenses to cover a short orientation course. Since the number of (Continued on Page 6)

Spotlighting Students

One of the married ladies in our senior class is Ingrid Esterson Stoops who is both very talented and very attractive. Born June 19, 1933, Ingrid attended six different schools in Delaware, Maryland and Pennsylvania, but most of the time she was in Crisfield, Md. She received her secondary education in high schools in Sanford and Lakeland, Fla. While there, she was a member of the glee club, art editor of the yearbook, feature editor of the paper and member of the SGA.

Taking an instructor's advice that she "would be a good teacher," Ingrid decided to enter a teachers college. Since she preferred to study in Maryland, she chose Salisbury S. T. C., which was nearest to Crisfield. In her Freshman year she was a member of the College Chorus, for which she did solo work, and a reporter on the Holly Leaf Staff. Scholastically, she attained grades high enough to make her an honor roll student, and that same year she was a recipient of an achievement key. The next year Ingrid was secretary of the chorus and worked again as a reporter. Again she received an achievement award. Last year, as a Junior, Ingrid received the very high honor of being elected May Queen and ruled over the May Day festivities. This year Ingrid's attention has been focused on student teaching. She is teaching the seventh grade under Mrs. Adkins at Stephen Decatur High School near Berlin.

Ingrid likes children, animals, dark colors, old houses ("if you can live in 'em and set in 'em"), steak, and most people. Ingrid was married Aug. 29, 1954 in Princess Anne to Raymond "Ray" Stoops, who is now teaching in Milford, Del. After graduation she plans to teach while her husband works on his Master's degree in Education Administration. Good luck, Ingrid. We're sure you will be a success.

STC FACULTY MEMBERS VISIT FORTY SCHOOLS

(Continued from Page One) where they were interviewed by Dr. Bosley. After lunch, Dr. Blackwell spoke to these prospective college students with the question in mind, "Why go to College?" In these interviews, such points as enrollment, the building program, and student activities here at STC were brought out. The need for students in teaching and in other professions was stressed.

Forty-two schools had been visited before March 18 to emphasize the advantages of STC and the curriculum which our school has to offer in the field of education. (Continued on Page 6)

ASSEMBLY DANCERS

Skip Gosnell

Hi all you Guys and Dolls, and a hearty welcome to you Seniors, too. Hope we'll have the pleasure of seeing most of you back with us next semester.

Did you all see the gym show today? Talk about athletes—well I will. You know we have some great athletes right here in school. Especially track men. Take Ralph Dryden—he used to do the hundred yard dash in eight seconds. It takes champions ten seconds to do it but Ralph knew a short cut. Phil Slacum used to be a crawl stroke and dive champion. You should see some of the dives he's crawled out of.

I wasn't much at sports myself. I was a public speaker. I'll never forget my first speech. I'll never forget my last one—some speech. The principal came up and said "you don't speak English too well. That's what you get for using a cheap dictionary." He was always criticizing my English and I resented it. Why, I could speak as well as he could. In fact, weller.

My whole family were speakers, that's the way we talked to one another. But, I had one cousin who stuttered. The Army put him in the paratroops, told him to count to three and pull the up cord. I don't think he ever got past two.

Then I started to learn foreign languages. I told my first joke in French. I don't know what I said but I told my second one in a police station. But I really don't speak much French. Just enough to get my face slapped.

From public speaking I went into show business. I'll never forget my first show (no, it wasn't the same show). The theatre was jammed-up to the third row. I came on stage in my top hat, white tie and tails, and I was a sensation. I guess I should have worn pants, too. What an act, I took three hours on hisses alone. That audience laughed so much I (Continued on Page 6)

Next Monday, March 21, is date to remember for you will a startling performance by internationally famous dancers Frankel and Mark Ryder. The featured dancers are co-producers of the Dance Drama Company which have been touring America as Dance Drama Duo for the past five seasons. They have had unique success in the program which they choreographed themselves. They have performed transcontinentally in 286 cities they have toured Israel extensively, and have been presented their own repertoire at the Pillow Festival, the American Dance Festival at New London, the Dance Center of the New York City "Y" and the New Trades Dance Series in New York.

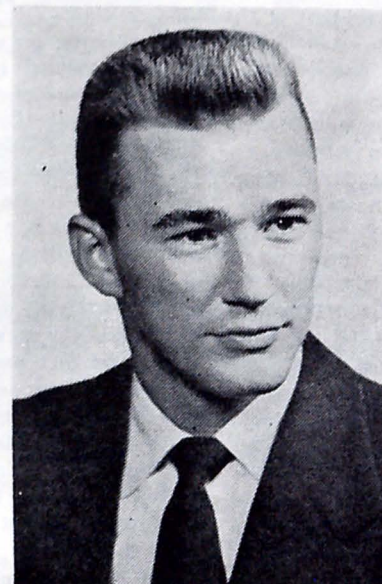

This season is the first for new Dance Drama Company and the company is the first of its kind in America. Four widely different well-known choreographers have collaborated with Frankel and Ryder to produce a new kind of concert revue for Dance Drama. The program which the Dance Drama Company presents, in style from humor and satire to classical ballet and modern idioms, from drama and mime to lyric theater dance. The fact that there is an overall program, that four choreographers have collaborated to produce it, that the dancers are also actors—all give the performance of new Dance Drama Company a new dimension.

You will see a group of dance-actors who have joined together to produce a new kind of entertainment. They will run gamut in Dance and Drama. You will see them spoof the radio, television soap opera, do a mantic ballet, swing to jazz, tell a story about teenagers today. They end up in fantasy-land. The dancers will be many people: a radio announcer, a Stella Dallas, Betty Crocker, a bathing beauty, a teenage gang, a Prince, a princess, a bird, witch, monkey. To list just a few. friendly attitudes and handsome countenances.

Chosen by the students as the Most Scholarly Woman was Janice Marshall. Janice has a rare combination of intelligence and good looks. A Who's Who nominee, Janice has been Treasurer of the SGA, President of the Women's Day Association, and a sports enthusiast. In view of the preceding activities her high scholastic average appears to be even more of an accomplishment.

STC's Most Scholarly Man is Bill Anderson. Bill, who is a day student isn't seen around the college much after the day's classes are over, but his many friends are an indication of his well-rounded personality and friendliness.

Athletics are an important part of any college, and since healthy bodies build healthy minds, STC devotes quite a bit of attention to the athletic program. Chosen as the Best Woman Athlete was Pat Gardner. Pat is not only a fine athlete but—perhaps more important—she is a good sport as well. She has been a member of the varsity basketball squad since she came to STC and during her Freshman year, she also played varsity hockey. She is an avid volleyball player and has been president of the Women's Athletic Association. A combination of cooperation, good sportsmanship, and ability make Pat Gardner an excellent choice for Best Woman Athlete.

Our choice of Best Man Athlete is a man who has in his three years at STC gained the respect and admiration of many of his fellow students. Roland Foskey, the backbone of STC's winning basketball team is looked up to by his classmates because of his high standards and easy-going manner. Roland, who has been captain of the basketball team for two years has also been seen on the soccer field and as a participant in intramural sports.

These people will be seen acting in their official capacities when they appear on May Day as members of the Court. The students of STC have every reason to be proud of such students and we wish them continued success and happiness in their future lives.

Your SGA Secretary Tells of SGA Activities

After three days of balloting, February 22, 23 and 24, Campus Leaders were at last chosen. The winners names were kept secret until the important date—March 18.

In the last SGA article you read that a joint meeting of the SGA's of our college and Maryland State College was to be held at Princess Anne. Those who went from our SGA reported an informative and enjoyable evening of discussion. Discussions on getting students interested in the SGA and the cooperation of the administration proved interesting. STC students learned how fortunate we are to have large SGA working funds made possible by the activity fees. After a picture was taken by a photographer the group was served delicious refreshments.

The Student Government Association welcomes the High School Seniors to STC. May this visit be an enjoyable one and perhaps one which will influence you to become a student here if your future plans permit!

The sophomores and freshmen then presented a duo of Mexican dances which included the Mexican Shuffle and the Mexican Waltz. Next the juniors entertained with the Mexican version of La Cucaracha.

The last event on the program was an acrobatic routine in which Ina Ray Calloway and Pat Morris acted as leaders. Other girls who participated in this demonstration were Betty Lee Shawn, Nancy Radcliffe, and Ruth Nielson.

The girls presented this show in cooperation with the boys' department which was under the direction of Coach Maggs.

Baseball officially began its streamlined 1955 spring training grind Tuesday, March 1, with new and old models among the more than 600 players hopeful of winning varsity berths by the opening of the championship season . . . Even before the first pepper drill of the annual exercise and exhibition program, the World Champion New York Giants and American League Champion Cleveland Indians have been set up as favorites by some sports authorities . . . Thirteen of the major league teams are based in Florida and three, Giants, Indians and Chicago Cubs, are in Arizona, all of which swing into action Mar. 10 except the Giants and Orioles who carry on March 11 . . . Giants and Indians are scheduled to tangle 18 times . . . On the proverbial eve of the Orioles spring camp opening, rookie hurler Bill Diemer was the first man to report. He drew uniform No. 25 which was ex-manager Jimmy Dykes' suit last year . . . Former Major League great, Lew Forester, made national headlines for Baltimore by saying "Paul Richards has saved the American League this season; he'll excite the country; I mean the American League could not afford another runaway race for 1955 as Cleveland and New York staged last year" . . . Babe Ruth, most famous Baltimore athlete, will have a bronze tablet honoring his memory at Memorial Stadium if plans announced by the Old Timers Baseball Association culminate in success . . . Seventeen years and a score of international crisis have elapsed and collapsed since Barney Ross fought his last fight, a 15 round engagement which transferred the World's Welter Weight title to Henry Armstrong . . . Barney, who is still around, had this to say recently, "I knew when I was finished but there are a couple of fighters around today who do not seem to know when they are finished. I am referring, of course, to Kid Gavilan, who is 29, the same age I was when I hung them up, and Sugar Ray Robinson, who will be 35 this May and ought to know better." . . . Norman Van Brocklin, the sharp passing quarterback of the Los Angeles Rams, won his third National Football League passing title last season, official league statistics disclosed . . . The figure sheet also disclosed that

Adrian Burke, formerly of the Colts, joined the select group of NFL passers who completed 20 or more TD leaves during the season.

Frosh Forward Scores Twenty-two Points in Win Over St. Mary's

The STC Varsity girls still have a record of eight wins and two losses. The two losses were to the Sweethearts and were not regularly scheduled games. The score of the last tussle was Sweethearts 58, STC 45.

In the game at home with St. Mary's Seminary Junior College on February 25, the STC lasses came through with a 49-30 tally over their opponents. Delores Cooling was high scorer, with a total of 22 points.

Our Junior Varsity girls dropped a game to Asbury 35-26. They won the last game with Asbury in overtime.

There may be a possibility of two or three varsity softball games this year if enough interest is shown. We hope to see a good response from the girls when try-outs are called for.

Don't forget the basketball teams. Let's keep backing them up as we have done in the past. If we do, we can't lose!

Gulls Move One Step Closer to the Title In Win Over Wesley

The fast improving STC basketball team kept on its winning way by downing two top notch service ball clubs, Chincoteague and Fort Custiss.

The Gulls' win over the Chincoteague Naval Base was their ninth straight victory. The Sailors jumped off to an early first quarter lead but couldn't ward off the STC offensive. Although closely guarded all the way by Denny O'Brien, Roland Foskey dumped in 27 points to lead the STC scoring. Foskey didn't get warmed up until the second half. George Komarnicki, who hit for 20 points, did most of the scoring in the first half. Charley Muir once again controlled the backboards for the Gulls. Not to be overlooked was the standout defense play of Phil Slacum.

O'Brien, an ex-STC player, bucketed 22 points for the losers. Paced by the sizzling 36 point performance of Roland Foskey, the STC lads defeated the Air Boys of Fort Custiss on the losers' court.

GYM CLUB

Men's Gym Club Give Exhibition for Seniors

A part of the well integrated athletic program here at the college is the Men's Gymnastic Club. This organization is open to all men who have interest in apparatus or mat work, whether or not they have had previous work in

it. Today you have seen an example of this work. One purpose of this group is to provide a program of good wholesome exercise for all members. This club has been in existence for many years and each year the extent of the work done by them is wholly dependent on the amount of interest and ability shown.

It is always interesting to sit it on a "Bull Session" with some of the ardent gymnasts because they seem to have a language all their own, employing such terms as kip uprise, hip circle, half giant, fly-a-way, front circular vault and other words seemingly foreign to the English language. These men take their work seriously, spending many hours in the gym and many others nursing sore muscles and blistered hands. So remember, when you watch these men perform that although it may look relatively simple, many of the things that they do are actually quite difficult.

The award is for research work at the University's Institute of World Economics. The Deutscher Akademischer Austauschdienst offers ten fellowships to be used at the universities and institutions of higher learning in the Federal Republic of Western Germany. Candidates must be unmarried.

Other awards usually available to American students for German study include a tuition and maintenance award at the University of Cologne. In the past the Aachen Technische Hochschule has offered a tuition and maintenance award in the field of construction, mechanical, or electrical engineering; architecture, or mining. The Bavarian Ministry of Education and Culture has offered two tuition and maintenance awards for six months of study at the Universities of Munich, Erlangen, or Wurzburg, or at one of the four philosophical-theological institutes in Bavaria.

The competitions are open to men and women between the ages of 20 and 35. Because of the housing shortage successful candidates will not be allowed to take dependents with them. Candidates must be U. S. citizens. Other eligibility requirements are: a bachelor's degree by the time of departure; a good command of the German language; a good academic record and capacity for independent study; good character, personality, and adaptability, and good health.

Information on the German awards may be obtained from the Institute. Closing date for application is March 1, 1955.

The Swedish Government is giving three fellowships through the Sweden - America Foundation. These awards are administered in the United States by the Institute of International Education and the American-Scandinavian Foundation. The stipends cover room, board and tuition expenses at a Swedish university. Candidates must pay for their own travel.

Preference is given to candidates under 35. Other eligibility requirements are: (1) U. S. citizenship; (2) a bachelor's degree from an American college or university of recognized standing by the time of departure; (3) demonstrated academic ability and capacity for independent study; (4) good moral character, personality, and adaptability; and (5) good health.

Applications may be secured from the United States Student Department of the Institute of International Education. Closing date of the competition is April 1, 1955.

The Gulls held the lead throughout most of the game, but found it tough going in spots. The locals led at halftime by a 37-30 margin.

Roland Foskey once again was the big noise in the STC attack, hitting 14 field goals and three foul shots for a 31 point total. George "The Hook" Koramnicksi was next with 18, followed by lanky Charley Muir with 12. Wheatley and Seagraves once again paced the hapless Whippets.

A visitor to the moon will be able to see earth as a very bright heavenly body and the outlines of the Americas will be visible.

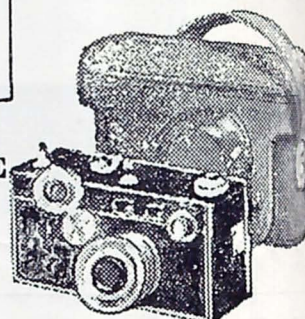

A new electronic robot can imitate every sound, including musical sound and any voice, and it can also produce new sounds never before heard on earth.
