Destruction Causes Furniture Removal

Are college students inherently destructive, or are they just passive when they see others acting like animals, tearing apart furniture and breaking windows and doors? Although the residents of Annapolis Hall are far from being unique in this instance, the Annapolis Hall House Council has taken a new approach in dealing with dorm damages. At their last meeting, the officers, wing representatives, and residents in attendance discussed the problem of the ever-increasing destruction of the doors, windows and furniture previously found in the dorm. The House Council issued a warning to residents that if one more piece of furniture was broken before the end of the month, all furniture found in public areas would be removed.

Sometime after the N.A.s, who have their base in Annapolis, got off duty Sunday morning, two mirrors were ripped off the wall in the second left bathroom, most of the cushions from the couches and chairs in the first floor lobby were taken, and a window was smashed. Damages to date in Annapolis are some of the highest on campus. So at 9:00 Monday morning, the House Council took action and asked the Residence Life Office to lock up all the furniture. By noon, the furniture was gone, much to the dismay and disbelief of the residents.

Things look pretty bare in Annapolis, and now the residents are asking how they are supposed to watch TV in the desolate lounges. The council has recommended them to invest in bean bag chairs!

Maybe now the residents of Annapolis realize that their House Council is not afraid to take drastic measures to cut down on dorm damages, the residents will view the problem more seriously.

There is good reason to believe that much of the damage has occurred courtesy of non-residents of the dorm. Part of the problem also lies in the propping open of the doors so that anyone can enter, making the S.A.s ineffective. Also, since the 14th, the front door of the hall has been broken (through normal wear and tear) and has yet to be fixed, but this is not the fault of Residence Life, nor anyone else. In fact, the RLO has done everything possible to get the door replaced, but the carpenters at the Physical Plant have not yet been able to get to it.

Whether Annapolis will remain barren is a question that will be discussed at what will probably end up being the most attended House Council meeting in Annapolis Hall history.

Foreign Correspondents: Frostburg State College - - England Campus

Hello mates! Just thought we'd drop a line from the English branch of Frostburg State College.

On August 31st, Karma Northway, Lori Couture, Kim McCullogh, Barb Frederick, Marcy Galder, Suzy O'Mahoney, Cathy Hunter, Barbara Dickie, Patty Paetou, Bernice Boman, Mickey Tashman, Courtney Taylor, Donna Latlief, Karen Kraus and Beth Dundon departed from Dulles Airport for London. After a month of boat rides and train rides and visits to a combined total of six different countries, we finally arrived in Plymouth, to settle down to our studies, with Dr. Carlton Shore, at the College of St. Mark and St. John (also known as Marjon).

There are many things, here in England, that differ greatly from the United States. Not only the traffic which goes in the wrong direction, but the food, music, sports, bars and college life are all quite different from what we were accustomed to. Adjusting ourselves to these changes has certainly been an education in itself.

Travelling played an important part in our program of study abroad. Before settling down to school in Plymouth, we had one month to travel through Great Britain. We back-packed to the Lochs of Scotland, the Castles of Wales and the palaces of England. Some of us were even able to travel through Ireland and some of Europe. This was a great opportunity for us to experience other cultures and ways of life which differ from our own. Our travelling adventures helped us to acquire an understanding of other cultures, that we could never learn from a book. The beauty of these countries, the character of their people and the historical sights are things we will never forget.

In our travels, as well as here at Marjons, pubs have played an important role in our social lives (purely for educational reasons, of course). In comparison to American bars, English pubs look much the same, at first. However, when one looks closer, many differences can be detected. Each pub has two entrances. On one side of the pub is the lounge. On the other, is a room where most of the blokes (guys) go to, to have an ale or their weekly dart game; which is taken quite seriously. The lounge is considered more appropriate for women, because of its cozy atmosphere. This is also where most couples go to have an ale. The pubs, in themselves, differ in the crowds that they attract. During one night of pub crawling (bar hopping), you can see quite a variety of people, and hear a large variety of music. Many blokes wear one or more earrings, and the skin-head hair style can be seen on both men and women. It is hard to remember not to stare or laugh too hard.

The main, and definitely best difference, between English pubs and American bars, is the ale that the pubs serve. Although Carling Black Label and Colt 45 can be found, American beers just can't compete with English ales. They begin with Lager, which is the lightest of English ales. Lager can be drunk straight, or mixed with lime, orange or black currant syrup. The medium ales are called bitters. These are darker, and stronger, than most American beers. Strongest of the ales are the Darks, which are strong and bitter—definitely an acquired taste. Another very popular pub drink is cider, which, unlike our cider at home, packs quite a punch. The English are much fonder of their ales, than they are of spirits (mixed drinks). All in all though, there is one way that English pubs and people are just like us Yanks; they like to have a good time too!

One of the most noticeable

Without furniture, this lounge, in Annapolis Hall, looks very bare. The furniture was removed following rampant destruction of dorm property.

National News

Arch-conservative South Carolina Senator Strom Thurmond, who will inherit the chairmanship of the Senate's Judiciary Committee once president-elect Ronald Reagan assumes office, has said that he favors repealing the Voting Rights Act of 1965 on the grounds that it is unconstitutional. Repealing the act will remove federal control from local elections.

Originally, the act was designed to prevent discrimination against black voters in the southern states. It has since been expanded to protect all minorities and affects virtually all regions of the country.

The 76-year old Thurmond, a former Democrat, ran for President in 1948 as a Dixiecrat, a state's rights party. Thurmond also favors the reinstatement of prayer in public school, curbing sex on television, limited legal abortions, and a strong anti-busing policy.

Convicted Maryland Governor, Marvin Mandel, claims that President Carter was behind a recent decision denying him early parole. Mandel is basing his claims on the fact that he and Carter never saw eye to eye as governors and in 1976 Mandel supported Gov. Jerry Brown for the Democratic presidential nomination, as opposed to Carter. Mandel is charging that his denial of parole is a "political vendetta" on Carter's behalf, and says he intends to take the case to court.

The former governor is currently serving a three year prison term for mail fraud and racketeering during his term in office as the state's chief executive.

Pope John Paul II arrived in Cologne, Germany, late last week amid cheering crowds and a steady rain. The five day papal visit marks the eighth foreign journey of his papacy, and the first papal visit to Germany in over two-hundred years.

Pope John Paul II later delivered a message on family sanctity during the celebration of mass in which he condemned abortion, pre-marital sex, and divorce.

Editorial

One week from today, Thanksgiving break begins. Most people know that Thanksgiving is a day of eating, drinking and having a deliciously good time. But, Thanksgiving is also an important day in our lives. It is one of the most important days of the year. Why is it so important? Come on, everyone knows, it's the first day of the Christmas shopping season. That's right, only 27 more shopping days.

Have you decided what to buy the people on your list? May I suggest that you look no further than this campus for your purchases. Yes, everyone on your list may be taken care of, without leaving campus.

For that older (or younger) brother on your list, look no further than the Lane Center Ticket Office. Brothers love to travel. An inexpensive gift is a one-way bus ticket. The more you spend, the further he travels, the better you feel. Goodbye.

How about your sister? No, you can't put her on the same bus. She deserves better than that. A train ride is what she should have. Trains, like busses, also travel one-way. Trains also travel faster. A cheap ticket equals a long ride. Bye-bye sis.

I'm sure that your mother would just love to own a Frostburg State College nightshirt, you know, the one that says, "... and I didn't get a bit of sleep." Just tell her it's for people with insomnia.

Dad would probably love to have some doughnuts, or pretzels, from one of the groups selling them in the dorms. Buy them now, while the selection is still good, and just hide them in a corner of your closet. Take those goodies out on Christmas morning, and watch Dad's face light up when he bites into one.

So, do your shopping early, do it here on campus, and don't forget to take this list with you, just in case you forget what you want to buy. And don't forget, it's the giving, not the gift.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

When confronted by a misrepresentation of the truth, I am usually content to remain silent and let the episode quietly pass. However, I have become so "dis-quieted" by a recent article appearing in the State-To-Date that I finally feel compelled to speak my peace.

In regard to the article "Barkley—Our Campus Dog", I am disturbed to find several deviations from the truth which I feel need clarification.

Much has been, shall I say, "deleted and revised" in the saga of the discovery of "Our Campus Dog."

It was only mentioned in passing that Barkley "lived off campus" last semester. It was not mentioned that a great deal of the responsibility (care, feeding, and upkeep) for the dog was assumed by the residents of 88 Bowery Street, who incidentally risked eviction from their home by taking in the dog. I particularly refer to Miss Denise McCarthy, who assisted in payments for the care and feeding of the dog, as well as medical upkeep. (By the way, the veterinarian who treated the dog practices in LaVale, not in Baltimore, as the article erroneously reports.) Aside from Miss McCarthy, there were many others who assisted in the care of this dog who were also conveniently left unmentioned.

I cannot help but presume that many of the facts pertaining to the discovery and and maintenance of the dog have been gratuitously twisted to give sole credit to the self-proclaimed discoverer of the dog, Mr. Robert Lippman. Granted, Mr. Lippman showed much kindness and concern toward the dog, but is it fair that he give himself sole credit when many others expressed similar, if not greater concern for the animal?

In conclusion, I realize that an article about "Our Campus Dog" is not one of the most pressing issues at Frostburg State College. However, when the front page of our college paper may be used and manipulated by certain individuals to twist the truth to best serve their own interests, I can remain quiet no longer.

Thank you,
One concerned with truth and respect for journalism.

Dear Editor,

I am a concerned, objective student who feels that State to Date has committed a grave injustice to a few of its sports teams recently. While it has religiously scraped the bottom of the barrel to say something great about a "conscientious," but losing football team, it would only seem fair to give acclaim to as well as front page billing (pictured) to Women's Field Hockey and the men's Soccer team each of which won a championship this season. It was quite a jolt to see a dumb dog on the front page of yester-

In these times of intellectuals proclaiming themselves everywhere, I feel compelled to defend those of us who manage to exist without having this title bestowed upon us.

The "literary" magazine, Arts and Letters came out last Friday....just in time for the International Education Symposium. Why the staff of the magazine felt the need to have its issue released for the Symposium remains a mystery to me. The articles dealing with that "timely" issue were, at best, scarce. The least that Arts and Letters could have done was address the issue. There were many slanderous remarks aimed at the entire college community in a magazine funded eagerly by student activity fees. I would assume that most students who come to Frostburg do so because they have made a decision to educate themselves. Those who stay here for three or four years have made an even larger commitment, both to themselves and Frostburg State. Why then did I get the overwhelming impression when reading Arts and Letters that the writers had a very apparent negative attitude?

Jorn K. Bramann, from the Philosophy Department wrote a four-page essay titled "Night-flight Through Frostburg." In his essay, Mr. Bramann suggests that students are instructed by professional idiots, stating that students seek refuge in a major and, "outside of their chosen specialties, they become as deficient as their teachers." Obviously, Mr. Bramann is making this an all inclusive category and deems himself a professional idiot. It seems that in his haste, Mr. Bramann has clipped his own wings, along with his colleagues.

I also got the impression that Mr. Bramann is another self-proclaimed intellectual and does not include most of his colleagues or his students in that category. Perhaps if Mr.

Bramann were to look a little harder, he would find students that we're here because they actually want to better themselves (I would be more than happy to point some of them out, if he should have some trouble finding them).

The writers have made a generalization concerning the status quo at Frostburg. A rather expensive generalization at that. A moment should be taken here to explain to those students not involved in this controversy exactly what happened with Arts and Letters. Initially, the magazine was being funded by three sources: The Maryland Regional Education Service Agency, The Allegany Arts Council and the SGA. When RESA decided to withdraw their monetary support, which was to pay for copies to be distributed at the International Education Symposium, Ric Marino and myself decided to put a "hold," so to speak, on the

SGA News

The fifth meeting of the Student Government Association was called to order at 8:00 p.m. on Thursday, November 6, by Ric Marino, Speaker of the House.

The Budget Allocations Committee reported that $200.00 was allocated to SGA to sponsor an experimental dance in conjunction with the Greek Council.

The Physics Club was allocated $91.80 to fund Judith Pariseau, who will speak early in December about solar energy.

The Black Student Alliance

requested $1,174.31 for supplies and furniture for the BSA office in the Lane Center. BSA and SGA are presently determining possible options for funding. BSA was allocated $28.93 for supplies.

Under the officer's reports, SGA and the Greek Council are sponsoring an experimental dance to be held on Wednesday evenings as an alternative to the Alcohol Policy. This event will also provide students with an activity during the week, other than only weekend activities. The first dance will be on differences that we observed, as travellers in the United Kingdom, was the fashions. In areas where punk rock is still the craze, multicolored hair, tight jeans or leather pants and black leather jackets were not uncommon sights. Here, at Marjons, and in Plymouth, the styles are less extreme, but still a bit punky. The majority of the students, dress comfortably in jeans and jumpers (sweaters). The disco's which are held every Friday, are the place where students showoff their latest dress fashions. Some of the girls wear tight straight pants, with small slits at the bottom—an outfit that would not be complete without spiked pump shoes.

Indian print dresses and jackets are the latest craze, as well as a number of odd shoe styles. Pointy toed spikes, in a variety of colors are popular for girls, while blokes often wear black or white, or even blue or red shoes. Another common style for guys, is one or more hoop earrings in one ear. All of these styles take a bit of getting used to, but after six weeks, we are now able to keep our stares down to a minimum.

As pop music is the latest craze, in music, in Great Britain, Marjon would not be complete without, what they call, Friday night Discos, complete with DJ, flashing lights and music, which ranges from pop to punk to mod and even some American oldies. A typical evening includes grabbing your favorite girl or bloke, and hopping up and down to Britain's number 1 song, "Don't Stand So Close," by The Police. If you don't get into hopping, there is always the opportunity to sit on the floor, in a row, and sway to the beat of, "Oops Up Side the Head," by The Grp. Or, you can join hands and dance in a circle to the latest new pop tunes.

When not dancing at the disco, Jarjon students enjoy clapping and singing to British folk music. Mickey, one of us Yanks, has even managed to become a part of "The Comdlakes," Marjons own folk group. He not only plays with them, but they have collaborated in the composition of a few songs.

To say the least, the music and dancing is quite different here, but as all of us from Frostburg know, there isn't much we won't try after a few brews.

The Marjon Campus itself is much smaller than the Burg. There are two types of student housing here. First, are the residence halls. These are similar to Cambridge Hall at Frostburg but they are smaller and there are only three of them. Each student has a private room equipped with a sink, bed and large desk. Believe it or not, the walls are even thinner than at Frostburg (much better for collecting the scoop, without ever leaving your room).

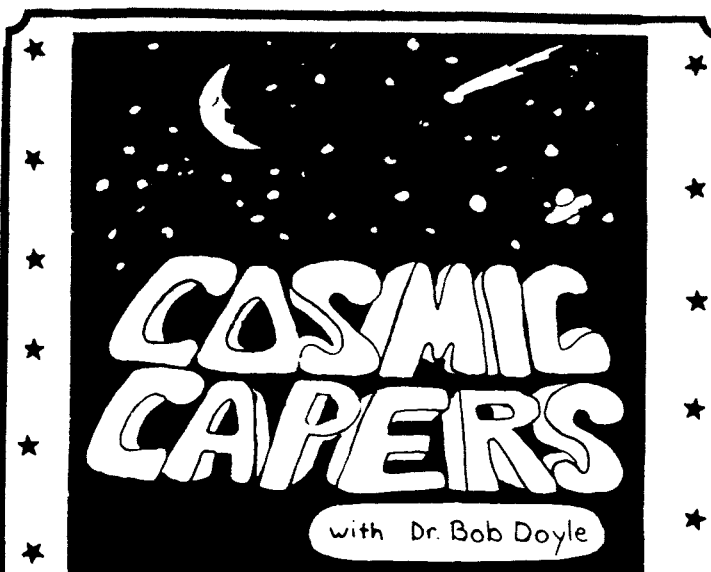

In addition to the halls, there is a village of student houses on campus. These consist of 5 bedrooms and a kitchen. In both the houses and the halls, there are very few rules. To our dismay, there isn't even any alcohol policy at all. So Bobcats, you can see that the American students are treated quite well over here.

Not all of us were lucky enough to be housed on campus, due to a lack of room, and so, were placed with families spread throughout Plymouth. Only a few of us are within walking distance of the school, the rest rely on expensive city busses. Although there are obvious disadvantages to this arrangement, don't be misled, it does have its good points. Not only are we afforded a better understanding of the culture and family life of the English, but we are fed breakfast and have our laundry done as well. We Yanks still spend most of our time on campus, in the residence halls, houses, and student union. The time we spend here has made us feel as much a part of the student body, as those on campus. Late weekend nights are no problem either, if we can't get home, we can always manage to find someplace to crash.

Sports play a big part in the lives of the students at Marjons. Rugby and football (soccer) are the two most popular teams. Besides these, there are numerous sports clubs in which most of the student body participate. These clubs include: basketball, badminton, karate, sailing, canoeing and many others. Finally, when a game or event is finished, the players all go to the clubhouse, or nearest pub, to down a few. Some things are the same everywhere.

Obviously, things over here are different, but seeing new and different people and things has continued to be a completely enjoyable experience. Not to say that we don't miss the good old US of A, or even the Burg itself, but we'll be back soon enough. Sorry now, time for a lager and lime and get into hopping, or maybe a tough dart match. Cheerio!

The Week of Nov. 17-23

This week the moon grows fatter each evening, becoming full by Saturday evening. Rising as the sun sets and staying in the sky all through the chilly night, this month's full moon is called the "Frosty Moon". As the moon rises early Sunday evening, it will be just below the bright star Aldeberan, which marks the eye of Taurus, the Bull.

For a comical introduction to Einstein's Relativity theory, don't miss "The Universe of Dr. Einstein", now showing at the Frostburg State College Planetarium each Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. and on Sundays at 1:30 and 2:30 p.m. The program also reenacts a number of charming episodes in the life of the great scientist/humanist.

The Week of Nov. 24-30

By Thanksgiving the moon has retreated into the early morning sky, allowing us a better look at the late fall/early winter star groups that appear in the eastern evening sky. Between 8 and 9 PM, your attention will be drawn to three bright stars in a row that appear close to the eastern horizon. This is the belt of the Hunter; his upper body is to the left, with bright stars marking the shoulders. By making a line with the Hunter's belt and going upward, we are led to the Bull (Taurus) with whom the Hunter is about to tangle.

This Tuesday at 7:30 PM marks the last showing of "The Universe of Dr. Einstein" at the Frostburg State College Planetarium. This Sunday, November 30, will be the premiere of "The Heavenly Connection," a program reviewing the influence of the heavenly bodies and their cycles on the three major western religions. "The Heavenly Connection" will be shown each Sunday at 1:30 and 2:30 PM and each Tuesday at 7:30 PM through December 16.

college education. There seems to be an avid depression hanging over the campus. People are counting the days, not only until they get out at Thanksgiving, but when they get out for good. It appears that more people travel home now more than ever before because of the lack of things to do on this campus on the weekends. The destruction of dorm property shows lack of respect and interest in their living quarters. I consider this my home for the time being, and have not broken anything because I was raised to respect my living surroundings. What has gotten into people on this campus? As an RA, I can feel nothing short of frustration. Who's fault is it that things in the dorm are violated continually? Why do the residents allow this to go on? Do they realize that it is merely charged to their $25.00 housing deposit? I sincerely doubt I, like many others, will see very much of this when I graduate. Granted, I have broken nothing. I am a dorm resident, and like it or not, I am charged like any other resident, guilty or not. The residents are easily riled when courses of action are taken by House Council, the RAs, and the Residence Life Office. But what alternative do we have? I would appreciate any constructive feedback concerning these issues. Perhaps if certain people would accept responsibilities, then the privileges which have been revoked would be re-instilled. At this time, I get the impression that the residents do not care, but if I am wrong, prove it to your peers. If the RAs, NAs, SAs or whoever you hold responsible, are not doing their job, either offer some alternatives, or, if you cannot think of any, ask yourself if you are doing yours as a student and resident.

Sincerely,
Sheryl Lynn Blum

copies that remained in Central Receiving. Our purpose in doing this was quite simple. As Representatives of the student body, we were attempting to insure that those students who wished to receive a copy of the magazine, but were unable to attend the Symposium, could do so. The magazine is funded largely by the Student's Activities fee (approximately $600). The other funding, as mentioned earlier, came from the Allegany Arts Council ($250). Further, it seems the staff of Arts and Letters chose to use the Student's Activity fee in an attempt to perpetuate negativism—a direct conflict with the objective of the SGA—to combat apathy through programs funded with Student's Activity fees.

It is unfortunate that in their attempt to get people thinking about International Education, the staff of Arts and Letters has managed to attack the credibility of the college community.

Uncle Frosty

Uncle Frosty will answer any career related question from the college community. Not all questions can be printed due to space limitations and good taste. Uncle Frosty will send a personal response to readers whose letters are not answered publicly. Send your queries to Uncle Frosty, c/o Counseling Service.

Dear Uncle Frosty:

I am a sophomore political science major. My goal is to become a lawyer. Rather than go into private practice, I would prefer to work for the Federal Government. Do you have any advice or information regarding any type of summer internships available in the government?

R.R.

Dear R.R.:

Your firm decision on a legal specialty is a little premature.

Why limit your thinking now? It's similar to wearing only white underwear, instead of sampling all of the designs, colors and styles. It can make life more interesting.

Nevertheless, it makes sense to explore internships now. There are two publications, "The Federal Summer Intern Program" and "Summer Jobs in Federal Agencies," available at the Federal Job Information Center, Gramatz Federal Building, 101 West Lombard Street, Baltimore, Maryland or 1900 E. Street, N.W., Washington, D.C.

You might also want to pick up a copy of "Guide to Federal Career Literature," published by the U.S. Civil Service Commission. It lists and describes the pamphlets and brochures published by the federal agencies in nationwide recruiting for entry-level positions which require a college degree. Finally, the Placement Office offers a workshop in Federal Employment each semester, as well as the above information.

Men's Basketball

Kurt Wolfe is in his 11th year of coaching the men's basketball team. He has six returning players: Rich Greely, Mike McLister, Dave Porter, Harry Robinson, Greg Seker and Brian Walker. He also has 10 new players, Milt Bailey, Jeff Clavert, Tony Doerr, James Dudley, Mike Gallagher, Jerry Hampton, Steve Liller, Mike McCarthy, Lloyd Smith and Phil Walter.

Coach Wolfe is hoping that the additional height and weight under the boards will enable this year's team to have a winning season.

Directing the Bobcat offense will be the excellent guard tandem of Greg Seker and Brian Walker, both senior co-captains with plenty of playing experience.

Wolfe said, "Walker, Seker and Liller should be our dominate scorers. With these three, we'll run a variety of offenses. We'll pick and turn, shuffle to a passing game and always be looking for the fast break."

The Bobcats have a 24-game schedule including competition within the NCAA Division I and II, as well as the NAIA. They have 10 home games, including the fourth annual Bobcat Classic in which they hope to win their third championship. They will also be entering the Western Maryland Tip-off, which will be held, at Western Maryland College on Friday and Saturday.

Coach Wolfe's outlook for the season—"Our goal, of course, is to have a winning season."

Coach: Jim Crawley

The Frostburg State Women's basketball team will open its 1980-81 campaign this week with consecutive home games. On Wednesday (Nov. 19), the Bobcats host Indiana University (PA) and on Saturday (Nov. 22), the women face St. Mary's. Both games are slated for 7:00 p.m. starts.

FSC opens the season as a very young team with a group of outstanding freshmen.

"I think we're a team that as the season progresses, we're going to get better," said second-year head coach Jim Crawley, "Right now we're young and unpredictable."

Even with a squad of seven freshmen, two sophomores and three juniors, the Bobcats are optimistic that they can improve upon last year's 9-14 mark. The Bobcats finished last year by winning their final two games and the Maryland State Tournament.

Leading the defending State Champions will be sophomore Mary Carol Jackson. Jackson, the Bobcats' sophomore center, was last year's second leading scorer (11.8) and the team's leading rebounder with 224. Joining Jackson as a top returnee will be sophomore Ruth Gross who averaged 9.4 points a game last year and pulled in 120 rebounds.

At one guard position will be junior, Erin Koogle, who started seven games in 1979-80. The other guard will start freshmen Diane Wisniewski out of Mt. Pleasant, Pa., who made the "Terrific 20" list in the Pittsburgh Post Gazette.

Another freshmen, Billie Boddie, from Hyattsville-Elizabeth Seton, will start at a forward position. Boddie is highly acclaimed as she made All-League for three years in high school and as a senior made All-Metropolitan.

Frostburg's first goal for 1980-81 will be to successfully defend the Maryland State Tournament, which will host on February 27-28, and move on to regional play.

The Bobcats would also like to set the team record for most wins in a season, 11, set in 1973-74.

If the freshmen come on strong, it looks to be a very successful year for the FSC Women's basketball team.

"This is the most outstanding group of freshmen since I've been here," noted Crawley, "this could be my best squad."

Men's Swimming

Coach McFarland has two men returning from last year: Dave Null and Matt Johnson, and 9 new swimmers: Frank Canellas, Jon Eichel, Jeff Horkey, Chuck Jacobs, Mike Miller, Chris Nash, Norman Render and Marty Wade. The strength from the team will mainly come from the new swimmers. Matt Johnson will hopefully be scoring consistently, as he did last year.

Coach McFarland said about the outlook for men's "It's hard to tell. We have a young team. Hopefully we can score points at Tri-states. I don't know about Nationals."

Women's Swimming

Women's swimming has 11 returning swimmers. Carol Beheler, Diane Beheler, Sue Corfey, Nikki Day, Terry Hussman, Cheri Malanick, Debbie Price, Donna Schwarskopf and Linda Tammaru, and six new swimmers: Alicia Bobensink, Pam Cox, Joni Heimemann, Tammy Peltz, Laura Schlegel and Toni Wilson.

Coach McFarland said, "They should be strong in all strokes, especially the free style and back stroke. There are four really good back stroke and breast strokers," he added, "Debbie Price will be valuable in the middle distance free style and can swim all the strokes."

Debbie qualified for the NCAA swimming Championships in the 50 yard free style and 200 yard freestyle team with Nikki Day, Linda Tammaru and Jean O'Brien.

The general outlook for both swim teams—"They both have improved. They are stronger this year. Women's should have a winning season, and it is hard to say how the men will do."

Men's Gymnastics

Fred Surgent has high hopes for this year's men's gymnastics team. He has four returning players: Duane DeVance, Barry Caihley (all around competitor), and co-captains Pat Bryan and Glen Colarossi. Six freshmen were also added to his roster: Mike Krotchko, Kenny Dougherty, Rick Brooks, Jim Wale, Curt Davis and Jim Denine.

One of the main strengths of this year's team is Mike Krotchko, who will be an all around competitor. Ken Dougherty will be a valuable asset on the pommel horse.

Mr. Surgent said, "This year, we will have a good team. We have more depth in each event, more talent, and everyone has at least two years experience." He also added, "I think we are capable of competing in the NCAA Division III Gymnastics tournament at the University of Wisconsin in Oshkosh."

He said, "This is going to be my best season yet. I have the best crop of freshmen I ever had. They work hard, and are very enthusiastic and dedicated"

And as for the returning gymnasts, Surgent says, "They all have practiced this summer, and have improved a great deal since last year."

The Men's Gymnastic team will have a tough schedule this season. They play one division III school, and the rest are division I.

Diving

There are 7 divers this year for FSC, and there are no returning divers. Four men, Josh Capon, Joe Drachsler, Todd Lawrence and Murray Taylor, and 3 women divers, Kristal Berry, Lisa Koote and Cindy Lawyer.

Coach McFarland said, "This year's diving team looks a lot better than last years. The men are stronger. They should score points in the Tri-State Championship," he added, "Mary Anne Lewis is the full time coach for this years diving team. Last year, we had to split our time between swimming and diving. We expect her to do a better job."

Senior Service Award

This year the Student Government Association will be sponsoring the First Annual Outstanding Senior Service Award. Two awards will be given to individuals demonstrating academic ability, leadership ability, and service to the campus and community.

The recipients will be chosen by a committee of four students, three faculty members, and one administrator chosen by the program committee of SGA.

Anyone who plans to apply must be expecting to graduate in December of 1980 or May of 1981. At least forty-five of the applicants' total credits must be from Frostburg.

Applications will be available in the SGA office on Monday, November 24. All applications must be turned in by March 27. Anyone having questions should contact the SGA office at x4245 or Kelly Knoll at x7792.

Cancer Dance

Ladies and Gentlemen, the time is creeping up on us faster than we all think. It is now less than 3 weeks to go until the biggest event to hit the "Burg" this semester: the KZX-American Cancer Society Dance Marathon! There are still a few slots open, and there is still time to get an adequate number of sponsors to be in the running for any one of the luxurious prizes. Let's run down the prizes one more time:

- 1st prize..... 2 TV sets
- 2nd prize..... 2 10-speed bikes
- 3rd prize..... 2 Savings Bonds

Now, because of the overwhelming success, 3 to 5 new prizes will be added, such as free dinners, etc. These will be announced at a later date, but are sure to be showcase models along with the others. If you are interested in being a patron for $1-$5 (tax deductible) just contact a Kappa brother who will set you up and get your name in the program.

For more information, visit our booth in the cafeteria or Lane Center, or call Andy Parrish at x7712 or Darryl Harri day at x7814.

Women's Gymnastics

Margie Schaeffer is hoping she will have a very successful season with her practically new team. She has two returning gymnasts, both co-captains, Becky Sharp and Diana Sippel, and 8 newcomers: Tammy Young, Terri Bender, Linda Koelliker, Debbie Bonilla, Mary Leary, Colleen Buck, LaVern Whilt, Julie and Mary Lee Putnam.

"Floor and vaulting will be the strong points of the team, balance beam has a possibility, while bars has a lot of problems, mostly with connecting their moves." Coach Schaeffer then added, "There is a lot of skill on this team, more than any other team I coached."

"This year's team is enthusiastic, dedicated and most enjoyable to work with," said Schaeffer.

When asked about the outlook for the seasons, the girls answered, "Nationals."

Margie Schaeffer added, "They have the potential to be first, if they work well under competition."

Faux Pas

Corrections in this issue of "Arts & Letters": On the inside cover in the leading paragraph, "Maryland Arts Council" should be corrected to read "Allegany Arts Council," on page 18 in the poem entitled "The Isenheim Hook is the Hanged-Man of Mainz," the 13th line should read "Put out the fire"—not "fore," and on page 23 in the short paragraph starting with

"Moderation," the second word should be "when," not "what." We regret these errors.

Also, Paul LaChance requested that his name be disassociated with this issue of "Arts & Letters"—so be it.

Also many, many thanks to all of those people who showed an interest and helped or wrote for this issue of "Arts & Letters."

SGA News from page 2

November 20, in the Lane Center multi-use room. A southern rock band, "Fat Fritz", is scheduled to perform non-stop from nine until eleven.

SGA would like to set up a book exchange to alleviate the price of expensive books. Everyone is welcome to get involved in this project.

The Program Committee is sponsoring an outstanding Senior Service Award. A 2.5 grade average is required of all nominees as well as outstanding leadership and service to the college. Two winners will be selected by four students, two faculty members and one administrator. The committee is currently open for nominations. All nominations must be submitted to the committee no later than March 27.

Ombudsman Rob Lippman reported that the phone company will investigate the need for more long-distance phone lines on campus. Although leaks in the gym are being repaired, maintenance has no money to repair the holes on the road by Frederick Hall.

The Off-Campus Committee is planning to start an off-campus newsletter. They are also trying to get on-campus mail boxes for the students off campus.

Tom Watt, chairman of the Food Service Committee, stated that this committee meets bi-weekly, and anyone interested in submitting suggestions may contact him.

The next SGA meeting will be on November 20.

"The Knack" To Be Presented

The Department of Speech Communication and Theatre will present "The Knack," a comedy by Ann Jellicoe, on Thursday, December 4; Friday, December 5; and Saturday, December 6. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. All performances will be held in Compton Auditorium on the Frostburg State College campus. The play is directed by Dr. Jack W. Vrieze. The designer and technical director is Mr. Edward Thompson. Ticket prices are $3.00 for adults and $1.50 for FSC students. Tickets may be purchased and reservations may be made at the Lane Center Ticket Office.

"The Knack" is a riotous comedy of zany dramatic drive, showing us three young fellows in relation to one girl in various attitudes of sex. There is Tom, who paints walls of the room various colors and hangs chairs on them just so they won't clutter up the floor; there is Colin, who is nervously eager to learn about sex secondhand from his friends; and there is Tolen, who has only to see a girl go by, and out the window he hops, trailing after. The poor girl is severely tested by these three youths, and so distracted that she begins imagining all sorts of involvements with each of them. The "New York Times" considered the comedy "one of the funniest evenings in town."

The Department of Speech Communication and Theatre is pleased to announce that once again the Lane College Center will be offering a champagne and dessert pre-holiday social before the opening night performance. This social has been well received in the past and requests have been made to repeat the event. The social is scheduled from 7:00 to 7:50 on December 4th. Tickets for the pre-holiday social and "The Knack" may be purchased from the Director of Lane College Center. The price prices which includes both events, are $5.75 for faculty, administration, and staff, and $4.25 for FSC students.
