OFFICIAL ACCOUNT.

BRITISH ARMY IN CALABRIA.

WE have learnt by the British sloop of war Bittern, commanded by Capt. Down, the happy intelligence of the landing of the British army, on the first inst. under the orders of major general Sir Stuart, in the Gulf of St. Euphemia, without any loss on our side. This sloop has brought with her a number of French prisoners. We have received the following particulars of the landing:

"Head-Quarters, Nicastra, July 3, 1806.
"The army landed, without opposition, on the 1st instant, in the morning. The advanced guard, consisting of three companies of light infantry, and some grenadiers was sent forward to reconnoitre a thick wood about a mile and a half from the shore, where they found about 400 French, who were pursued and dispersed by our troops and about half of them taken prisoners. They lost about 40 in killed and wounded.
Our only loss was one serjeant of the 58th regiment, wounded. It is probable that the army will advance this evening to attack the enemy. The peasants flock in crowds to our army. Three thousand brave Calabrians at least have joined us. Their number increases every moment. The enemy is retreating, it is supposed for the purpose of concentrating their troops.

"The conduct of the peasants of Nicastra is worthy of being made public. After having supplied the army with provisions, they refused to receive any payment for them, observing, that as the English came to rescue them from the tyranny of the French, by whom they had been, a short time before, robbed of their property, it was their wish that the army which came to their assistance should be supported with part of their plentiful harvest. His excellency general Stuart several times attempted in vain to prevail upon them to take payment for their provisions, and it was with difficulty that he could prevail upon them to take receipts for the necessities they had supplied.

"Nothing can equal the enthusiasm with which the Calabrians received their deliverers, and the zeal with which they pressed forward to offer not only their service, but their lives, to re-conquer the kingdom of their well-beloved and lawful sovereign Ferdi-mand the fourth. Nothing but red cockades are seen in the hats of the peasants.

"Immediately after the landing of the English army, general Stuart published a proclamation, inviting the Calabrians to shake off the yoke of the French.
He told them that the standard of Ferdinand IV.
was again displayed on their shores: that nothing was required of them but accommodation; that no contribution would be demanded; that provisions supplied should be punctually paid for; that they should receive arms and ammunition for their own defence; that their laws and customs should be maintained;
their religion and catholic worship should be honoured and respected; and that those who might have erred, or have been seduced by the government of the Usurper, should, on delivering up their arms, be pardoned and protected.

"Several transports with French prisoners, arrived yesterday from the Gulf of St. Euphemia, which, after having landed the prisoners, sailed again instantly with reinforcements for the army."

The following letter was also received on Wednesday morning from Rear Admiral Sir Sidney Smith:

"Castle of Amantea, July 2, 1806.
"We have taken this fortress having attacked it by sea, it was too perpendicular on the land side, and consequently inaccessible. The French, having once lost it will find it difficult to retake it. The little blood which has been shed in this affair must always be regretted; but it is on the side of the enemy: not one of our people received a scratch. The two divisions Melozzo and Capri have behaved extremely well. Eight cannon spiked, two standards, ann four hundred prisoners, and arms and ammunition sufficient to enable the brave subjects of his Sicilian majesty to arm themselves and to follow up their success, are the trophies and the fruit of the action of yesterday.
I have learnt with much satisfaction that the English army approaches Nicastra. Our prospects are good on every side. The army landed under the protection of a frigate, at the same time that we were taking Amantea. We have spread alarm through a considerable part of the coast.
(Signed) W. SIDNEY SMITH."

OFFICIAL INTELLIGENCE.

BRITISH ARMY IN CALABRIA.

"PALERMO, July 9.
"By express sent by the governor of Messina to Palermo, to the Minister of the war and marine department, colonel Colajanni, with letters of the 7th inst. the agreeable news has been received, in a letter written by general Stuart, dated from the plain of St. Euphemia, to brigadier Broderick, commanding the citadel of Messina, the 5th of the same month, of a complete victory gained on the preceding day by the British army in Calabria, over the French army, commanded by general Regnier, which letter is to the following purport:—

"Plain of St. Euphemia, July 5.
"I trouble you with these few lines, to inform you of the satisfactory circumstance of my having, yesterday, attacked and entirely defeated gen. Reg-nier, after an obstinate action, in the plain of St.
Euphemia.—The enemy, according to all accounts received, amount to 7000 infantry, and upwards of 300 cavalry, with 4 pieces of artillery. Their loss in killed, wounded and prisoners, according to the intelligence we have received, is upwards of 2000 men; but as many prisoners continually arrive, who have been dispersed in the neighbouring mountains, and as their defeat has been general, there can be no doubt but there might be added to the number another thousand men. It is impossible to describe what our brave troops have undertaken and executed.

"I have taken general Compere, with several other officers of rank, prisoners. If I had had but the few of the 20th regiment of dragoons mounted that I left behind me at Messina, not a soul would have escaped.

"I am happy to inform you, that in this serious action our loss has been comparatively small. An officer and 40 men were killed; 11 officers and 250 were wounded. Capt. Maclean, of the 20th foot, was unfortunately killed.

"Colonel Rofs, with the 20th regiment of foot, landed during the action, and joined us, rendering us thereby an essential service at a very critical moment.

"Believe me, &c. &c."

"P. S. General Regnier retired with the remains of his army towards Catanzaro, and I have detached colonels Kemp and Rofs in pursuit of him. The French light infantry and our battalions came to the bayonet; and the former were almost totally destroyed."

The report that Buonaparte had demanded of Prussia the cession of East-Friesland and Embden, will prove, we believe to have been well founded. The court of Berlin has taken every necessary precaution to guard against the consequences of a sudden irruption of the enemy in that quarter. By a vessel which left Embden on the 22d ult. we have received intelligence that the bank had been removed from that city to a place of greater safety. It passed through Bremen the 20th of last month, on the way to Berlin.

The commencement of the campaign in Calabria has been as honourable to the British character, as important in its immediate effect. The following is a summary of the proceedings of the army:

The principal disembarkation took place on the morning of the 1st of July in the bay of St. Euphe-mia, without any opposition on the part of the French. A strong corps which pushed forward to reconnoitre, encountered a detachment of the enemy, consisting of four hundred men, about a mile and a half from the shore, which they defeated and routed, taking about one half of them prisoners. The two following days were probably devoted to landing the remainder of the troops, and whatever was necessary to enable them to maintain themselves in the country. At the same time that the landing was made at St. Euphemia, an attack was made by sir Sidney Smith, possibly as a diversion on the castle of Aman-tea, situate some miles to the northward of the latter place. This fortress, which was inaccessible on the land side was assailed by sea, and carried without the smallest loss on our part. By the 4th gen. Regnier had collected all the French troops in that quarter, and advanced towards the bay of St. Euphemia, with an intention to attack the British. In this he was anticipated by the vigorous and active gallantry of
gen. Stuart, who attacked and entirely defeated him, with the loss of upwards of two thousand men in killed, wounded and prisoners. General Compere, with several other officers of rank, fell into our hands.— The loss of the British, as mentioned in gen. Stuart's short letter, was one officer, (capt. Maclean, of the 20th foot) and forty men killed; and eleven officers and two hundred and fifty men wounded. The force of the enemy was computed at eleven thousand infantry and three hundred cavalry. We are not able to ascertain, from this official account, the number of troops under gen. Stuart; it was stated in the slight notice in the French papers, to be from six to nine thousand men; perhaps it might be half the latter number. Every means was employed by the British commander, to call the loyalty and attachment of the hardy population of the country into action, an effort in which, it would appear, he had been completely successful. He had been joined by some thousands of brave Calabrians, who afforded him every accommodation and facility "that was due," (to use their own language) "to those who came to rescue them from the tyranny of the French."

The victory gained by gen. Stuart, we are persuaded, has been most decisive. In the short account given by the enemy, there was an admission that gen.
Compere and 300 men, said to be of the Polish legion, had been taken prisoners. The last accounts from Naples were of the 9th of August, and yet we cannot discover in them any official communication (there are a few loose reports indeed to that effect) respecting the re-embarkation of the British army.— Surely, if the troops were able to maintain themselves five weeks in the country after they first landed, we may conclude, that the result of the action that they fought three days after was full as disastrous to the enemy as it is represented. The war, on the part of the enemy at least, has languished ever since; for the highest praise claimed for generals Regnier, Verdier, and Mermet, in the Paris papers which we have received a few days ago, is that of having preserved their respective positions.

PHILADELPHIA, October 31.

Paris journals, to the 8th inst. inclusive, have been received. The extracts which we have given from the Moniteur will be read with interest. Notice has at length been taken in that journal of the refusal of Alexander to ratify M. D'Oubril's treaty; and the French government in the comments which they have given, betray no small chagrin at the event, mingled with an affected hauteur which ill conceals the disappointment. They ascribe the circumstance to the "consequences of the change of ministry, the Russian government, and the extraordinary ascendancy which the English party had the address to obtain over the new cabinet."

PARIS, September 8.

Yesterday, his majesty the emperor and king received at a private audience, at the palace of St. Cloud, his excellency the marquis de Lucchesini, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary from his majesty the king of Prussia. His excellency presented his letters of recall.

Several hundred Neapolitan prisoners of war are expected at Antwerp, to work with a log at one foot, in the harbour.

An American ship arrived at Leghorn, from Canton, has brought a considerable quantity of gold, which was obtained at the agio of from one to five for silver.

A Gazette is set up here in the Spanish language.
It is said that the grand military festival will now be deferred beyond September.

HAMBURG MAIL.

The mail due on Sunday arrived this day, but as so late an hour, that we can only give the following extracts. It will be seen that Austria must yet submit to further degradations.

FRONTIERS OF AUSTRIA, August 23.

According to report, the French wishing effectually to prevent Austria from taking part in the new war, if by chance it should break out, have demanded to occupy the whole circle of Austria till the re-establishment of peace with England. They are still not only at Braunau, but have likewise occupied the right bank of Monzo. All the measures that are silently taken, announce that the present tranquillity will soon be disturbed. A great magazine is forming in Moravia, on the frontiers of Silesia. The artillery men have received orders to make 8,000,000 of cannon cartridges, and 22,000,000 of musket cartridges. Five companies have been employed in making them for these four or five days.

Count de Stadion, at the same time that he received the notification that Russia had refused to ratify the peace with France, received also a note, printed at St. Petersburg in which Russia states the reason for her present conduct.

VIENNA, August 23.

The report which had been received of the evacuation of Cattaro is not yet confirmed. Great quantities of artillery, ammunition, &c. are sending to Co-smorn, Temeswar, and Buda, and distributing in the different depots.

The city of Leopoldstadt, in the county of Neutra, in Hungary, will be the principal depot of arms; the transports on the Danube continue without intermission, and thousands of bullets and bombs, which have lain for many years heaped up in the ditches of Vienna, and which were not touched by the French, probably because they could not carry them away, have been taken out and embarked.

The diet will be assembled in Hungary, in the course of next month, when the basis will be proposed of a new constitution, more beneficial to that kingdom. It appears to have no other object than to recompense the unshaken fidelity of the Hungarians towards the house of Austria.

WESEL, August 26.

The fortifications of our town and of the citadel, are going to be considerably extended; the works will immediately begin; the necessary materials are collecting throughout the surrounding countries, and even as far as Holland; the contractors are shortly to furnish several thousand bricks. It is said, that new incidents have given rise to some diplomatic difficulties, which have delayed the new arrangements to be taken in the north of Germany. It is added that proposals have been made to the king of Prussia, for the purpose of more fully concentrating his states, to give up his possessions in Westphalia, and a part of the country of Hanover, for indemnities in Saxony; that East Friesland, with the part of Emden, will aggrandize Holland; that the rest of western Westphalia will be joined to the states of the grand duke of Berg, and that eastern Westphalia will be given, with a part of Hanover, to the elector of Hesse, who in his turn, will cede the county of Hanau, and a part of his other possessions. Luface, and the sovereignty over all the petty states of the north of Germany, will also, according to this plan, devolve to the king of Prussia, &c. We shall shortly know whether these reports have any foundation.

BERLIN, August 26.

All the movements now taking place appear to announce war. The garrison of this city as well as that of Potsdam, have to-day received orders to hold themselves in readiness to march at the first signal. The gens d'armes, the gardes du corps, and the hussars, leave Berlin to-day; the rest of the garrison will follow to-morrow. The place of these troops will be supplied by other regiments. On the 13th, the Prussian troops, forming the garrison of Munster, likewise received orders to hold themselves in readiness to march at the first signal. It is evident that all these sudden and extraordinary movements and measures are of a nature to furnish matter for a thousand conjectures.

FRANKFORT, August 20.

That negotiations between Prussia and Sweden have commenced is confirmed. Some propositions on the part of Russia are also spoken of, in consequence of which, all the obstacles to a good understanding will probably be removed.

The military preparations of the Prussian Cabinet have not yet ceased; but we are convinced that these have no relation either to war or peace, as their sole object is the new possessions and extension of territory. On this head we can quote a private letter from Berlin, in which the writer expressed himself thus:—"Prussia seems to feel the inevitable necessity of drawing closer the bands of union by which she is connected with the North of Germany. As it is the object of the Prussian cabinet (which every thing tends to confirm) to support or rather extend its influence over the neighbouring states, there is an unavoidable necessity for giving effect to its measures; this alone can ensure the issue of the sentiments of those persons who look upon these preparations as connected with a Northern confederation, of which the king of Prussia may become the head, are well founded, and probably those only are supported by fact; but nothing is so ridiculous as to fall in with the ideas of some English politicians, in supposing that these preparations of Prussia are intended against France. On the contrary it is positively known, that the best understanding subsists between both powers. The cordiality with which the feast of St. Napoleon was celebrated at Berlin by Mr. La Forest and the principal part of the Prussian ministers and generals, offers a fresh proof of this assertion."

August 24.

Extract of a letter.

Letters from Berlin, which mention nothing positively relative to the actual state of politics between Russia and Prussia, confirm, in the meantime, the news that the Prussian troops will be concentrated at several points, and for different encampments. Three, in particular, are spoken of, viz. one in Westphalia, to be formed of the troops in the circle; the second at Cassel, between Gottengen and Cassel; and the third, at Halle, upon the Saxon frontier. The camps are to form an army of observation, of which the troops of Westphalia will form the right wing, the corps near Munden the centre, and those of Halle the left wing. The ulterior destination of these corps remains a secret, neither is it known who are to be the commandants of these troops."

We know, says a London paper, of Sept. 12, that before Mr. Shaw, who brought dispatches from Lord Lauderdale, which were received on Sunday, left Paris, his lordship had sent for passports to quit France, and that in consequence Talleyrand begged to have another interview. His lordship and suite were packing up for their removal; but when the last messenger, Parsons, who arrived yesterday, left Paris, the negotiations had been again resumed. This furnishes some proof that the French cabinet has lowered somewhat in the demands, and holds out a stronger ground than before existed for entertaining a hope that the present negotiations may yet terminate in peace.

AFFAIRS IN FRANCE.

An American in Bourdeaux, thus writes to his correspondent in this country; "The sooner Great-Britain makes peace the better for herself. Every year's delay must make her condition to stipulate less eligible. This man has all the raw materials for working her ruin gradually. Her only policy is to give a peaceable direction to those raw materials. Let him have 'commerce and colonies' to blunt the edge of martial enterprises, and there are chances in favour of a long peace: or if but a short one, Great-Britain may find something new on the water to pillage. But if the war continues ten years longer, the conscription extending beyond the limits of France, will accumulate such an armed force that a million of armed men may be allotted to the invasion. What is now problematical, would then become inevitable. The means of crossing the channel in a calm, would not be confined to one point, but would embrace many. Venice, Genoa, Spain, Portugal, the ports of Holland—and even the Baltic might be used—not for maritime dominion, but absolute, invasion and fearful subjugation. Among the impending perils that Great-Britain should calculate upon if the war be carried on for two years longer, no sound politician can put out of sight the probability of an invasion of India by land. Dalmatia brings all France to the gates of Constantinople. Should the Ottoman heartily second his only dear friend and great ally, what the ancient conqueror of Macedonia did perform, the modern victor of Europe may perform. No leader that swayed a sceptre knows better than Napoleon the great difference between achievements very difficult, and achievements absolutely impossible."

"The emperor signaled his return to Paris by a measure or two that perhaps you may not have learnt. He abolished the public gambling houses throughout his dominions: He doubled, and in some instances trebled, the salaries of the judges of the tribunals: He repaired and opened 62 public fountains through every quarter of Paris, which since the first of July have diffused living and continual streams of water. To these eighteen more are to be added. On the 15th August there is to be a grand festival at Paris, in the field of Mars, at which the main army of Germany are expected to assist; whether merely to eat, drink, and be merry, or to march afterwards to Boulogne, I know not."

"I understand that our negotiations at Paris and Madrid are likely to prosper; and I doubt not that in London, also, our envoys will arrange matters, from all the reports that are brought from hence. If these two nations continue to struggle, they cannot fail to nourish the stamina of the United States beyond the wishes of both. If they make peace, we must become a manufacturing people within a few years."

A Postscript to a letter from a respectable house at Bourdeaux to another in New-York, under the date of September 12, says—"This moment we have news that the camp which formed at Paris for the celebration of the grand national fete, has received marching orders, and is about breaking up."

Last evening arrived at Gloucester Point, the ship Jane, capt. Bliss, from Bristol, which he left on the 16th September, and brings London papers to the 12th, they do not mention the death of Mr. Fox, but capt. B. says it was reported at Bristol the day before he failed, that he died on the 12th of September. Nothing farther than we have already reported, had transpired respecting the negotiations at Paris, though it was generally imagined, that there was less prospect of a sudden peace, than some time back.

[Phil. True American.]

PHILADELPHIA, October 31.

Capt. Bliss informs, that the day he failed it was currently reported at Bristol, that a frigate had arrived with dispatches from Sir Home Popham, announcing the capture of Buenos Ayres, by the Squadron and forces under his command.

A New-York paper of Wednesday last, says—"A passenger on board the brig Sally, capt. Mattock, who failed on the 17th of September from Bourdeaux, relates that at the time of his failing it was correctly reported at Bourdeaux that Austria, and Prussia had joined in the coalition against France."

WASHINGTON CITY, October 29.

The latest information from the westward is contained in letters from governor Claiborne, dated the 15th of September. At that time governor Claiborne was about 70 miles from Natchitoches, occupied in organizing the militia, on whose part there appeared to be a general readiness to turn out, even among the French inhabitants. No change had taken place in the situation of the troops on either side. Governor Errera was still dangerously ill; his forces had been considerably diminished by disease, and the greater part of their horses had been sent beyond the Sabine for forage. Governor Claiborne had held an interesting talk with the chief of the Caddeux tribe of Indians, and had ascertained their disposition to remain neutral.

BALTIMORE, October 30.

It is stated (says the United States Gazette) that the passengers in the Projector have brought intelligence several days later than the papers. We have seen a Liverpool price-current of the 13th September, in which it is mentioned that negotiations were still going on: but a gentleman who arrived here from New-York this morning, reports that a letter had been received in that city from a respectable gentleman in Liverpool, dated the 17th of September, in which it is positively asserted both, that Mr. Fox was dead and that lord Lauderdale had actually arrived in London.

Notwithstanding the above, the following article shews that we must wait sometime yet before we can be satisfied of the arrival of lord Lauderdale in London.—As Mr. Fox, from the state of his malady, may be forever considered as a defunct Minister, the negotiations have probably, since the 10th of September, been conducted as though he were actually dead.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in Marseilles, dated the 15th September, to his friend in this city, (received by the sch'r Superior.)

"Various is the news concerning the negotiations which has had currency. The refusal on the part of Russia to ratify the treaty made by her minister at Paris, has given reason to think a continental war will again commence, and that no accommodation will be effected between England and France. We have no account of lord Lauderdale's quitting Paris; and as long as he remains there, hopes will be entertained of peace."

"Speculators are beginning to take courage, and some sales of sugar have been made. White Havanna at 76 francs."

The Superior lay wind-bound at Marseilles till the 17th, on which day an American gentleman there informed capt. Forbes, that accounts from Paris of the 10 Sept. bore a greater appearance of war, than since the negotiation commenced, tho' lord Lauderdale had not then taken his departure. West-India produce was in consequence on the rise.

A letter from Holland of the 20th August, states that all the Bark imported there from the United States, is bad, and not the real Peruvian. The gentleman who communicated the above, is of the opinion, from a number of circumstances which have occurred, that the Bark in general use in this country is not only not the genuine Peruvian, but an absolute poison. An immediate chemical and critical examination of this medicine by the faculty, he thinks indispensable to the lives of their patients and the safety of the community.

SELECTED.

ELEGANT BALLAD.

TWAS on a cliff, whose rocky base Baffled the briny wave;
Whose cultur'd heights their verdant store To many a tenant gave;

A mother, led by rustic cares,
Had wander'd with her child; Unwean'd the babe—yet on the grass He frolic'd and he smil'd.

With what delight the Mother glow'd To mark the infant's joy;
How oft would pause, amidst her toil,
To contemplate her boy.

Yet soon, by other cares estrang'd,
Her thoughts the child forsook;
Careless he wanton'd on the ground, Nor caught his mother's look.

Cropt was each flow'r that caught his eye, Till, scrambling o'er the green,
He gain'd the cliff's unshelter'd edge,
And pleas'd survey'd the scene.

'Twas now the mother, from her toil, Turn'd to behold her child—
The urchin gone!—her cheeks were flush'd—Her wand'ring eye was wild!

She saw him on the cliff's rude brink—Now careless peeping o'er—He turn'd and to his mother smil'd, Then sported as before.

Sunk was her voice—'twas vain to fly—
'Twas vain the brink to brave—Oh Nature! it was thine alone To prompt the means to save!

She tore her kerchief from her breast,
And laid her bosom bare;
He saw, delighted—left the brink,
And fought to banquet there.

This medicine, which justly claims a pre-eminence over all others, as being decidedly adapted for the speedy removal of those complaints above mentioned, owes its discovery to the celebrated Tissot, a physician of most exalted eminence in his profession, and is chiefly the extract of an herb peculiar to Europe, to whole powerfully healing, restorative and balsamic qualities, this great man by the administering owes much of his fame.

LONDON, September 15.

On Saturday last, the 13th instant, in the afternoon, that great and illustrious statesman, Charles James Fox, yielded his last breath in the arms of his nephew lord Holland.

The following persons are talked of as his successors:—The marquis Wellesley, lord Holland, and Mr.
T. Grenville and lord Lauderdale.

Mr. Fox was in his 68th year. He was elected to parliament before he was of age, acted with the then ministers, and his first speech was against Wilkes.
He was often in and out of the ministry.

CAPTURE OF BUENOS AYRES.

The official news of the capture of Buenos Ayres is received. It capitulated on the 27th of June. There fell in the hands of the English 1,291,338 dollars, in silver and bullion. General Beresford, has issued a proclamation as Lieut. Governor, and promises to allow a free trade to all nations in amity with England.

The trade of Buenos Ayres is to be put on the same footing, by promise, as that of Trinidad.

It was estimated that the merchandise in the king's stores, principally jesuits bark and quicksilver; and what is in the Philippine Company's stores; with the little that is retained of floating property; would amount if it could be disposed of, to between 2 and 3 millions of dollars. Of the bullion delivered in, some was claimed as private property, and was to be restored—and so of some of the money.

Ninety pieces of ordinance, 550 whole barrels powder, 2203 muskets with bayonets, 71 without bayonets, 616 carbines, 4,079 pistols, 31 muskettoons, 1247 swords—were taken at Buenos Ayres.
The English had one man killed, 12 wounded, and one was missing.

In the capitulation, the 1st article provides that the Spanish troops shall be prisoners of war, allows native and domiciliated officers and soldiers to remain—the 2d article promises respect to all private property, civil, military or religious—3d, promises protection to the people, and that they shall not be compelled to bear arms against his catholic majesty—4th, continues the civil officers in commission, and promises respect to existing customs—5th, provides for the safety of the public archives—6th, continues the taxes and appropriations as heretofore—7th, assures respect to the Catholic Religion—8th, continues the Ecclesiastical Court—9th, directs the delivery of coasting vessels to their owners—10th, agrees that all the public property shall be delivered to the English.

In General Beresford's letter to the secretary of State, announcing the capture of Buenos Ayres, he mentions that the whole force under his command was 1621, with two 5 and a half inch howitzers, and 2 light 3 pounders. The Spanish regular force consisted of 2000, and opposed the advance of the British a short time at the village of Reduccion, and at the river Chuelo, at which latter place they had destroyed the bridge. Their fire was always ill-directed and did little or no execution.

General Beresford, in one of his letters; says that after the passage of the river Chuelo, the city of Buenos remained at his mercy, and that the only conditions on which he entered were such as he pleased to offer.—The coasting vessels released were valued at a million and half of dollars. The British had made an expedition 50 miles into the interior, had found the dispositions of the people favourable to the British, and had recovered considerable treasure which persons were endeavouring to carry to Cordova.

Extract of a letter from Commodore Popham, who commanded the expedition against Buenos Ayres, to the Secretary of the Admiralty.

OFF BUENOS AYRES, 6th July.

SIR,

In a letter which I had the honour to address you from St. Helena, on the 30th of April, I fully explained, for the information of my lords commissioners of the admiralty, the motives that induced me to press so strongly the urgency and expediency of undertaking an expedition against the enemy's settlements in Rio de Plata.

I have therefore only to give you a short detail of the proceedings of the Squadron; previously congratulating their lordships on his majesty's forces being in full possession of Buenos Ayres and its dependencies, the capital of one of the richest and most extensive provinces of South-America.

To the commerce of Great-Britain it exhibits peculiar advantage, as well as to the active industry of her manufacturing towns. And when I venture in addition to assure their lordships of the extreme healthiness of the climate, I trust I only hold out a consolation that the friends of every person employed on this expedition are justly entitled to, and which I am satisfied will be equally gratifying to the feelings of every British subject.

As I considered it an object of material consequence to obtain the earliest local information of the river, I placed the Squadron under the direction of capt. Rowley, and preceded it in the Narcissus for that purpose.

On the 8th ult. we anchored near the Island of Flores; and, after passing Monte Viedo the following day, we detained a Portuguese schooner, by whom the intelligence we had formerly received, was generally confirmed. On the 11th, we fell in with the Encounter and Ocean transports near the South coast of the river—and on the 13th we joined the Squadron.

It was immediately determined to attack the capital; and no time was lost in removing the marine battalion to the Narcissus, the Encounter, and the transports, for the purpose of proceeding to Buenos Ayres, while the Diadem blockaded the port of Monte Viedo, and the Raisable and Diomedé, by way of demonstration, cruised near Maldonado, and other available points.

Our progress up the river was very much retarded by the shoalness of the water, and adverse winds and currents, continual fogs, and the great inaccuracy of the charts;—but by the unremitting and laborious exertions of the officers and men I had the honour to command, these difficulties were surmounted, and the Squadron anchored, on the afternoon of the 25th, off Point Queimey a Pouichin about 12 miles from Buenos Ayres.

As it was impossible for the Narcissus to approach the shore, on account of the shoalness of the water, the Encounter was run in so close as to take the ground, the more effectually to cover the debarka-tion of the army in case of necessity; the whole however was landed in the course of the evening without the least opposition; consisting of the detachment of his majesty's troops, from the Cape, and that from St. Helena, with the marine battalion under the orders of capt. King, of his majesty's ship the Diadem, which was composed of the marines of the Squadron augmented by the incorporation of some seamen, and three companies of Royal Blues from the same source of enterprise, which had been regularly trained for that duty, and dressed in an appropriate uniform.

The enemy was posted at the village of Reduccion, which was on an eminence about two miles from the beach, with the appearance of a fine plain between the two armies, which however proved on the following morning to be only a morass in a high state of verdure.

This in some measure checked our advancement, nor did the enemy open his field train till the troops were nearly in the middle of the swamp, from whence he thought it was impossible for them to be extricated.

The able and excellent disposition of gen. Beresford, and the intrepidity of his army, very soon however satisfied the enemy, that his only safety was in a precipitate retreat, for we had the satisfaction of seeing from the ships near 4000 Spanish cavalry flying in every direction, leaving their artillery behind them; while our troops were ascending the hill with that coolness and courage, which has on every occasion marked the character of a British soldier, and has been exemplified in proportion to the difficulties and dangers by which he was opposed.

On the 27th, in the morning, we saw some firing near the banks of the river Chuelo, but it blew so hard that it was totally impracticable to have any communication with the shore that day. On the 28th, our troops took possession of Buenos Ayres.

I have sent lieut. Groves to take possession of Eug-fena de Baragon, a port to the eastward of Buenos Ayres, where I understand there are two English gun vessels and two merchant ships.

Capt. Doan informs, that Miranda was at Aruba 25 days since—and that the governor general at Caracas had offered the Spaniards a frigate to go and destroy Miranda's Squadron. Capt. D. further says, that he saw the heads of two of Miranda's officers exposed at Lagaira upon pikes; and that when the Spaniards passed they pointed at them with scorn, and uttered the bitterest oaths against the Americans.

A letter received by a gentleman of this city, datceived the news that the Spaniards have collected 1500 horsemen and 1000 foot, with an intention to attack the Americans at Natchitoches. The militia in Louisiana have been ordered to repair thither, and we daily expect to hear of an engagement.—[ibid.]

The clerk of the senate delivers the following message:

The senate, regarding the establishment of county schools as an object of primary consideration, and believing that the situation and wishes of the people of this state seriously call on their legislature to provide, at their present session, some system of education, which, by offering to all classes of society a more economical and accessible mode of educating their children than now does, or has hitherto existed in this state, will be the means of encouraging literature, and disseminating learning more generally, propose that a joint committee should be appointed to investigate this important subject, and to report what system would be most likely to produce those valuable purposes. We are further induced to propose a conference on so interesting a measure, when we reflect, that should the senate be of opinion that appropriations of money in the treasury, as contemplated by the act of 1805, should be made for the support and establishment of schools, they are constitutionally precluded, (how wisely it does not now remain with them to say) from originating a bill containing a provision of that nature, and should a bill making such appropriations originate in your house, we are restrained from all alteration and amendment, and will be restricted to the alternative of a total rejection or adoption of the same, in the manner in which it was passed by you. The sentiments of the two branches of the legislature, we conceive, would be communicated more readily and satisfactorily in conference than by any other manner. Under those impressions, and supposing you will readily concur with our proposition, we have named Mr. Partridge, Mr. Dorsey and Mr. Williams, a committee on the part of the senate, to meet such gentlemen as you may please to appoint for that purpose.

A petition from Anthony Fox, of Anne-Arundel county, praying to be placed on the pension list, was preferred, read, and referred.

The house adjourns till Monday morning.

MONDAY, November 17, 1806.

THE house met. Present as on Saturday. The proceedings of Saturday were read. Mr. Richard K. Watts, a delegate from Montgomery county, appeared, qualified, and took his seat. Mr. Hanson and Mr. Gleaves have leave of absence.

Mr. Bond delivers a bill, entitled, An additional supplement to an act, entitled, An act to freighten part of the road in Harford county which leads from Underhill's mill to the city of Baltimore; which was read.

A petition from Catharine Dimmitt, of the city of Baltimore, praying to be divorced from her husband, was preferred, read, and referred.

Mr. White delivers a report on the petition of sundry minors, by their guardians, against granting their prayer; which was read and concurred with.

The bill to alter, change and repeal, such parts of the constitution and form of government as relate to the division of Saint-Mary's county into electoral districts, was read the second time and passed.

A petition from William Rickard, and a petition from John Figg, of Montgomery county, praying a law to confirm their titles to certain property, were severally preferred, read, and referred.

Mr. Waters delivers a bill, entitled, An additional supplement to an act for regulating the mode of staying execution, and repealing the acts of assembly therein mentioned, and for other purposes; which was read.

A petition from James Crookshanks, of Kent county, praying a special act of insolvency, was preferred, read, and referred.

On the second reading of the resolution relative to the choice of a senator of the United States, the question was put, That the first blank therein be filled up with the words "Wednesday week next?" Determined in the negative.

The question was then put, That the said blank be filled up with the words "Friday next?" Resolved in the affirmative.

DELETTA, November 11.
FROM EUROPE.

By the Brig Byfield, capt. Potter, in 37 days from Copenhagen, by the politeness and attention of the Copenhagen and Copenhagen papers.

Confidentially furnished by the Consul in this place, the following is interesting.

NEW-YORK, November 13.

By the Brig Richard, capt. Rogers, from Nantes, dated our file of Paris papers to the 15th of September inclusive. They breathe through- out a spirit of hostility, being occupied principally with the "dreadful note of preparation" over the whole of the European continent for a recommen-ment of war. A gentleman who came passenger in the Richard is the bearer of dispatches from the American minist- ter at Paris to the secretary of state, and an elegant medal, a present from his imperial majesty to the pre- sident of the U. States.

Lord Lauderdale was at Paris the 25th of Septem- ber.

A Paris paper says—Haydn, the great musician, died about the 1st of September.

Jerome Bonaparte has been declared a prince, and decorated by his imperial majesty with the grand eagle of the legion of honour. Jerome is now styled his imperial highness! [Mercantile Advertiser.]

It was whispered, in confidential circles at Paris, that Buonaparte had determined to compliment the queen of Etruria, with the kingdom of Portugal. An article, dated Berlin, August 30, says, it is rumoured that all our differences with England are on the point of being terminated. [Com. Adv.]

Translated for the Mercantile Advertiser.

PARIS, September 23.

We are assured that his eminence cardinal Maury, who has been admitted among the number of French cardinals, is appointed first almoner to his imperial highness prince Jerome Bonaparte.

September 24.

This day the conservative senate has held an ex- traordinary sitting. It is believed that the object of his majesty's message has been to make known to the senate the marriage concluded between his imperial highness prince Jerome and a princess-royal of Wir- temberg. It is added, that at the end of the message two letters were read; one to the prince primate of the confederation of the Rhine, making known to him the emperor's intention to support the confeder- ation with all the forces of France; the other to the king of Bavaria, announcing that, notwithstanding many court intrigues, his majesty hopes still to preserve peace with Prussia; but that, should that pow- er not return a prompt and categorical answer to the explanations which have been demanded, he will be ready to enter Germany with 300,000 men.

BALTIMORE, November 14.

Extract from a letter, dated Norfolk, November 9, to a respectable commercial house in this city.

"The ship William Penn has just arrived from Nantes, which she left the 25th September. The captain says, Buonaparte had left Paris, with his guards, &c. for the north, said to be against Prussia.

Lord Lauderdale was ready to leave Paris immedi- ately. The Paris papers contain accounts of the death of Mr. Fox. My letters of the 19th say, all prospect of peace had vanished."

NEW-ORLEANS, October 17.

From the Coffee-House books.

Extract of a letter from Natchez, dated 10th Octo- ber, 1806.

"Our troops that marched from this place on the 5th instant, we are informed, are to be discharged immediately, in consequence of the Spanish troops having crossed the Sabine river, and have promised to remain there until the line of demarkation is establish- ed."

Another of the 11th instant, says,

"The Spaniards have re-crossed the Sabine, and our Mississippi troops are on their return to their homes."

[Louisiana Gazette.]

A Lexington paper of October 16, says, "A cor- respondent is authorized to contradict the report, that

col. Burr is concerned in the building of either gun- boats or a schooner at Marietta; as such report is entirely void of any foundation in fact."

Yesterday arrived brig Eliza, capt. Wilkes from New-Orleans, in which came passenger Daniel Clark, esq. member of congress; by him we learn, that gen. Wilkinson having taken the command of the U.

States army at Natchitoches, had opened a conference with the commander of the Spanish troops, in consequence of which matters were adjusted, and the Spaniards had crossed, or at least agreed to re-cross the Sabine immediately. [Phil. pap.]

Capt. Nelson, arrived at Charleston, from Havan- na, informs that a few days before he sailed, a Spanish packet arrived at Trinidad, (Cuba) in 30 days from Old Spain. Letters by this arrival were received at Havana, stating, that East and West Florida had been ceded by Spain to France, and by France to the United States. It was also stated, that in consequence of Buonaparte's agreeing to reinstate the King of Naples on his throne.—Knowing, as we do, that a douceur of two millions has been dispatched to France, to pave the way in a negotiation for the Floridas, we think the first of this article very likely to be correct.—But that Buonaparte should consent to take his brother Joseph from the throne of Naples, so shortly after having elevated him to that dignity, for the purpose of reinstating his lawful sovereign, is very doubtful. [Courier.]

On Sunday the 12th instant, departed this life at his residence in Baltimore county, in the 73d year of his age, Mr. BENJAMIN BANNEKER, a blackman, an immediate descendant of an African father. He was well known in his neighbourhood for his quiet and peaceable demeanor, and among scientific men as an astronomer and mathematician. In early life he was instructed in the most common rules of arithme- tic, and thereafter, with the assistance of different authors, he was enabled to acquire a perfect know- ledge of all the higher branches of learning. Mr. B.

was the calculator of several almanacks which were published in this, as well as some of the neighbouring states, and although of late years none of his alma- nacks were published, yet he never failed to calculate one every year, and left them among his papers, pre- ferring solitude to mixing with society, and devoted the greatest part of his time in reading and contem- plation, and to no books was he more attached than the Scriptures. At his decease he bequeathed all his astronomical and philosophical books and papers to a friend. Mr. Banneker is a prominent instance to prove that a descendant of Africa is susceptible of as great mental improvement and deep knowledge into the myseries of nature, as that of any other nation. [Baltimore Telegraph.]

We have the satisfaction of confirming the information of the Spanish forces having crossed the Sabine. Advices, dated October the 5th, have been received from gen. Wilkinson, who was then stationed on this side of the Sabine. Previously to leaving Natchitoches he informed governor Cordero, that in compliance with his duty, he should be obliged to attack the Spanish troops, unless they retired beyond that river. Not having received a satisfactory answer from the governor, the American army was advanced about twenty miles beyond Natchitoches, when the Spanish forces crossed the Sabine. Propositions of accommodation, founded on the agreement of the American and Spanish commanders to abstain from occupying a district of country to be designated, were made by gen. Wilkinson to gov. Cordero; to which the latter had replied that he did not consider himself authorized to enter into such a convention, without instructions from the gov. general of Mexico, to whom he promised to write immediately. From the distance of this province an answer can scarcely be expected in less than a month.

At the time our forces advanced, the militia had joined them, in greater numbers than had been expected, and even beyond the requisitions made; thus affording the most unequivocal demonstration of their fidelity to the United States.

At the latest dates gen. Wilkinson had dismissed all the militia, except about one hundred and fifty cavalry, which, with the regular troops, were stationed on the Sabine; the Spaniards being stationed on the further bank.

[Through the politeness of a respectable gentleman in Washington, we are enabled to lay before our readers the following intelligence respecting col. Burr, from the Scioto Gazette.]

CHILICOTHE, November 13.

IMPORTANT COMMUNICATION.

By a gentleman of the highest respectability from Kentucky, we are furnished with the following intelligence:

The United States district court for the Kentucky district having commenced their November session, the following is the substance of an affidavit of Joseph Hamilton Daviels, Esq. attorney-general for the U. States for the said district, which was made before the Judge of that court, to wit:

"That the said Daviels was in possession of the most satisfactory evidence, that Aaron Burr, Esq. late vice-president of the United States had formed an association for making war against Spain, invading Mexico, and forming a distinct empire in the Western Country; that he was raising forces and purchasing up the necessary provisions and stores for that purpose.

"The said Joseph H. Daviels, Esq. accordingly moved the court, that the said Aaron Burr, Esq. should be arrested and compelled to find security for his appearance, and that a writ should be issued for compelling the attendance of witnesses—and a stop to be put to all further proceedings of Aaron Burr!" The Judge took time to consider, &c.

It was reported that col. Burr was in Lexington at the time the motion was made, and that he had notice of the transaction three hours after it transpired.

Extract of a letter from Liverpool, dated Sept. 26.

"Annexed I hand you prices current to which beg your reference. We have nothing more respecting the negotiation for peace with France, but that they are still continued; more we suspect to answer some political purpose, than in expectation of their being brought to an amicable conclusion. It is generally believed that our differences with Prussia will be immediately adjusted.

"Several vessels are now loading wheat at Dantzick, for Great-Britain. Our manufacturers are in great spirits, in consequence of the capture of Buenos Ayres. Adventurers to an immense extent are preparing for South America, and we anticipate a brisk trade there this winter. Upwards of 30 vessels are now loading here and at London for Buenos Ayres. It has had material influence on our cotton market, and we expect early imports of upland will pay well, as there is scarcely a good bag of that description in this market."

LATEST FROM EUROPE.

By this morning's mail we have received our files of Glasgow, Liverpool and London papers, brought by the ship New-Guide, arrived at New-York, from which we have made as copious extracts for this day's Register, as our time and limits would admit.

Among our London papers, we find the Times, Courier, and Evening Star, of the 26th September, being later than any noticed in the New-York prints, and, we believe, are the latest London papers received on the continent. Their contents are decidedly indicative of war. A rumour had prevailed in London on the 25th, that the differences between France and Prussia was compromised, and that lord Lauderdale's negotiation was in a train of pacific adjustment; it was even stated, that the expeditions which were ready to sail from England, had been countermanded. These reports were however contradicted on the 26th; and by the evening prints of that day, it appears, that the rumour was stock-jobbing snuff—no messenger having arrived from the continent, and the expeditions having failed from different ports, as stated in our London details of the 25th.

It was believed in London, that a messenger had been dispatched for the recall of lord Lauderdale.

LONDON, September 25:

Lyell, the messenger, embarked yesterday morning at Deal, for Galais, with dispatches in answer to those brought by Mr. Smith. The funds, which were very flat yesterday morning at the opening, rose towards the close of the day, upon the report that Basilio had arrived with further dispatches from lord Lauderdale. The rumour is untrue—no messenger has arrived since Smith. It is reported that Lyell has carried out orders for the return of lord Lauderdale.

The expedition had not failed from Plymouth on Tuesday evening, though the wind was not so unfavourable as it had been. It was reported at Plymouth, that it was to wait for the Atlas and the transports from Portsmouth, and then sail all together. It is just published, enumerates the wing officers.

September 26 (evening.)

Arrest of captain Whitley.

Captain Whitley of the Leander, has returned from the American station, under arrest, in that ship; and a court-martial is immediately ordered upon him, for bringing upon the American vessel, which made so much noise. By these means, the truth of those proceedings, which have given so much uneasiness to both countries, will be indubitably determined.

It is said that the duke of Bedford has been recalled from the government of Ireland. His grace was sent at the special desire of Mr. Fox; and his recall is another symptom of the declining interest of the Foxites.

We are extremely happy to announce the safe arrival of the valuable Leeward fleet. The Dennis schooner arrived at Spithead last night, with an account of their safe arrival in the Channel, under convoy of the Agamemnon and two frigates: it consists of upwards of 300 sail.

A vessel arrived on Sunday at Greenock from Lisbon, where she left Earl St. Vincent with six sail of the line and a frigate. His lordship was living on shore at a seat near Bellam Castle. It is not true that he had drawn out the Portuguese men of war and was rigging them; one Portuguese ship of the line, however, had sailed for Algiers.

At length, after so many delays, and orders and counter orders, the expedition for Sicily has failed.
It failed on Wednesday, in 40 transports, under convoy of vice-admiral Duckworth, in the Royal George, and at 5 P. M. was between the Ram Head and the Dodman, with a fair wind from the northward, and was expected to be clear of the Channel yesterday morning. The transports with the 45th, 87th, and 95th Regiments, worked out of Stone-house Pool, and we believe failed for Falmouth, where, it is said, they are to rendezvous till other troops arrive, when they will sail all together. The Atlas arrived at Plymouth on Wednesday from Spithead, The Fairy, with the transports and store-ships, were hourly expected; the Atlas will sail with them as soon as they arrive.

The town was inundated yesterday with rumours.
It was said that a messenger had arrived from Paris with the intelligence of the differences between France and Prussia having been adjusted. It was said too that the differences between this country and Prussia had also been settled; and it was inferred that lord Lauderdale's negotiation would terminate favourably. As a proof that government were of that opinion, it was asserted that a telegraphic order had been sent to the expedition. Those rumours had some effect upon the funds.

No messenger has arrived from Paris since Mr.
Smith, and we have already shewn what credit is due to the rumour of the failing of the expedition having been countermanded. It is now doubted whether Buonaparte has left Paris. The messenger, Mr. Smith, is said to have brought the intelligence.
Buonaparte, we know, was expected at the Hague last Wednesday.

It was again reported yesterday, at the close of the market at the Stock Exchange, that a messenger had arrived from Paris with intelligence that the differences between France and Prussia had been adjusted.
It was also reported that a telegraphic order had been sent to countermand the failing of the expedition.
These rumours had the effect they were intended to produce, that of raising the funds a little, as on Wednesday; but it is certain that no messenger had arrived, and our readers will see from the subjoined letter, that there was as little truth in the other report.

THE EXPEDITIONS.

"Plymouth, September 24.

"We have at last the pleasure to announce the failing of part of the transports, that have been so long detained here by contrary winds and otherwise.
This morning at 6 o'clock the signal was made to unload, the wind being at N. N. W. and blowing a very fine breeze; and by 1 o'clock P. M. the fleet of transports and victuallers, consisting of about 40 sail, were all clear of the sound; together with the Royal George, of 110 guns, vice-admiral Sir John T. Duckworth, and a brig of war of 10 guns. On board the transports are the guards, 45th, 52d, and 62d regiments of foot: these, together with the 37th, and 95th, or rifle corps, formed the expedition when they first arrived here; but the two latter remain to join the ships that are expected from the eastward; the wind continues to the northward and blows very fresh, so that they will be soon clear of the channel."

Francis Cromwell and Cockey Pumphrey, vs.

William Ridgely and Rhody Ridgely.
THE object of the bill is to obtain a legal title to a tract of land called Milford, situate in Anne-Arundel county, the complainant Francis Cromwell; the trustees, that Mordecai Ridgely was seized in fee of that land, and that one William Pumphrey was seized in fee of a tract called Jacob's Fortune, situate in the same county, that they exchanged and each obtained the possession; that the right of Mordecai Ridgely, by mesne transfer, came to one John Boone, who by a decree obtained the legal estate that was in William Pumphrey; it also states, that the said Cromwell is now entitled to the right that the said William Pumphrey had in the land he received in exchange, but that the death of Mordecai Ridgely, intestate, and leaving the defendants, his children, minors, and one of whom, to wit: William Ridgely, not residing in the state, prevents him from obtaining a title, except in this court. It is thereupon, this 20th day of November, 1806, by William Kilty, chancellor, and by the authority of this court, on the motion of the complainant, ordered, that they cause a copy of this order to be inserted in the Maryland Gazette at least three weeks before the 15th day of December next, to the intent that the said William Ridgely, and all other persons concerned, may be warned to appear in court, on or before the 15th day of April next, to shew cause, if any there be, why a decree should not pass as prayed.

November 25, 1806.

THE Editor of the paper of which the following is a prospectus is ardently desirous of rendering it useful to the fullest extent promised. But this without the aid of gentlemen of talents in the different parts of the country is impossible. Defects must be witnessed to be fully known. They must be fully known before adequate measures for redressing them can be proposed. The capacity for giving the required aid abounds, and he intreats that those who possess the ability may consider it as a duty to furnish the assistance which is so necessary to the accomplishment of the important end in view.

THE OBSERVER.

The friend of Socrates, the friend of Plato, But above all the friend of truth.

PROSPECTUS.

SIX months' experience has convinced the Editor of the Companion, that notwithstanding the zeal and assiduity which have been devoted to conducting this work, the circumscribed nature of its original plan, has rendered it impossible to communicate to it, that degree of interest of which such a paper is certainly susceptible.

Variety is the essence of amusement; hence we abandon the smooth and unbroken plain, however productive of the most useful harvests, to ramble amidst scenes, where nature exhibits her more varied, picturesque, and fantastic forms.

We find then, that for a periodical work to command the attention of the public, it does not suffice that it should be alone "A Safe Companion and an Easy Friend," but it must evince a spirited versatility, must move in quick transition from "grave to gay, from lively to severe," if it would not remain unregarded and unknown.

But to communicate these qualities to a paper, requires more time and attention than were compatible with the other avocations of the late Editor: to obviate this inconvenience, he took an associate in his labours, and to this associate, he has ultimately deemed it proper to relinquish the management of the work.

The last volume of the Companion being completed, by the advice of several judicious and enlightened friends, the present Editor has resolved to give the work a more extensive range, and by many important alterations to merit for it, the encouragement of all those who are friendly to the cause of the arts, of literature and science.

To advance the interests of morality and religion, to ameliorate manners, and to polish taste, are the objects to which we shall devote every exertion, and to this end we have the assurance of ample assistance from many able and brilliant pens.

We are resolved no longer to confine our fellow-labourers within the narrow limits prescribed by the regulations of the Companion. We shall require no reserve on the part of our correspondents, but propose to give full scope to the talents and opinions of all those who may favour us with their assistance, in forwarding our views.

But while we cease to be governed by those restraints, which have hitherto excluded us from the aids of genius on the most interesting subjects, such as the great political events, which no paper presented to the public ought to pass over in silence; yet it must be remembered, that the virulence of party spirit must never contaminate our pages.

General satire is one of the most successful weapons, for combating the vices and follies of the age; but indecent personalities, and malignant contention, must ever be productive of evil. We aim at enlightening the minds and improving the taste of our fellow-citizens, and being useful to society, as well as to individuals. We know the language of passion can never promote these great and honourable ends; for if from fair and liberal discussion proceed the bright rays of truth, which irradiate and convince the mind, angry disputation by strengthening the influence of prejudice, and impeding the operation of reason, can only heighten the gloom and perpetuate the reign of ignorance.

The Companion shall henceforth be presented under the title of THE OBSERVER; but as prudence exacts, that we should at least be assured all the ex-pences attending the work will be defrayed, we cannot venture publication, until we have Five hundred Subscribers. If these are obtained, the paper will commence on the first of January next.

To make it more interesting to country gentlemen, every agricultural improvement at home and abroad, will be regularly noticed.

CONDITIONS.

THE OBSERVER shall be published every Saturday, on good Type and Paper—each number to contain Sixteen large Octavo Pages.

ble half-yearly in advance.
