FROSTBURG STATE COLLEGE, FROSTBURG, MARYLAND

SEPTEMBER 10, 1980

Administration Reorganizes

Effective this semester, the academic administration of FSC will be reorganized. According to President Guild, the reorganization is a response to the college's growing size and complexity, the need for expedience in communication both among the various departments and between these depts and the administration, and the need for "closer and more effective management and articulation" of the instructional program. Further, the reorganization enables the Vice-President and Dean of the College, Dr. Kenneth Jablon, to devote more time to "planning, analysis, and issues of institutional and segmental concern."

Three Schools have been established, each of which incorporates roughly one-third of the faculty. The departments are grouped into Schools according to "traditional lines of broad academic affinity," and each School is headed by a newly appointed Dean. These Deans receive information from the academic dept heads, then synthesize and interpret some of the information before relaying it to the administration.

The School of Arts and Humanities comprises the departments of Art and Art Education, Communication Media, English, Foreign Languages and Literature, Music and Music Education, Philosophy, and Speech Communication and Theatre. The Dean of this School is Dr. Don Smith, former head of the English Department.

The School of Natural and Social Sciences comprises the departments of Biology, Chemistry, Computer Science, Economics, Geography, Mathematics, Physics, Political Science, Psychology, and Sociology. The Dean of the School is Dr. James Cotton, former head of the Geography Dept.

The School of Professional Studies, headed by Dr. Ronald Kealy, comprises the departments of Accounting, Business Administration, the Center for Management Development, Education, Health, Physical Education, and Recreation, and Military Science.

The Graduate School will continue to function as an "academic entity" under the supervision of Dr. Paul Lyons, the Dean of the Graduate School. Two new positions have also been established: the Dean of the General Education Program will be Dr. Joseph Malak, who will continue to supervise the Special Instructional Programs; the Staff Dean for Academic Services will be Mr. Paul Trichel.

The administration does not envision any departure from the current governmental structure, which involves the College Forum, College Senate, and most committees. The administration hopes the net effect of this administrative shuffle will be a gain in productivity, effectiveness, and educational quality.

National News

A spanish-speaking man, wielding a bottle of unidentified liquid and threatening to set the plane on fire, hijacked a Tampa bound Eastern Airlines jet to Cuba on Saturday.

The hijacker took control of the plane an hour after takeoff from John F. Kennedy Airport in New York.

The plane touched down at Jose Marti Airport in Havana at 11:52 a.m. at which time Cuban authorities took the hijacker into custody and released the plane. This is the eighth U.S. plane to be hijacked to Cuba since August 10.

After hearing an hour of testimony, regarding the exhumation of the remains of Lee Harvey Oswald, Judge James F. Wright adjourned his court to consider the case further.

Wright made no indication as to how he would rule on the case. The judge also made no mention as to when he would hand down his ruling on whether the burial site would be opened.

The controversy surrounding the case stems from reports of a British author who believes that a Soviet "look alike" agent and not Oswald is buried in the Fort Worth, Texas grave.

New York Air, a brand new airline created by Texas Air Inc., has proposed a plan in which it will offer flight service between Washington and New York for as little as $29.

New York Air officials said that they are hoping the new lower rates will offer serious competition to Eastern Airlines which has a virtual monopoly on the well travelled Washington-New York route.

The Civil Aeronautics Board and the Federal Aviation Administration must approve the proposed service before it can go into effect. Both agencies are expected to grant their approval which means air service will begin on December 14.

As many as 100 people, including judges and legislators, could be indicted in the weeks to come as the United States Attorneys Office continues its investigation of one of the largest scandals in recent history.

The scheme, having to do with altered real estate assessments, has been said to involve $33 million in fraudulent reductions in real estate assessments.

Fourteen people have been indicted so far in the case, five of which are former Chicago city officials.

Yearbook? ... December, Maybe?

If you ordered a yearbook last year, don't expect to receive it until the middle of December.

Bruce Banner, editor of the 1981 Nemacolin, was notified, by the Taylor Publishing Company, that the 1980 book could not be delivered before December 11th, provided it was finished by September 13th. If the book is finished any later than the 13th, a much later delivery date can be expected.

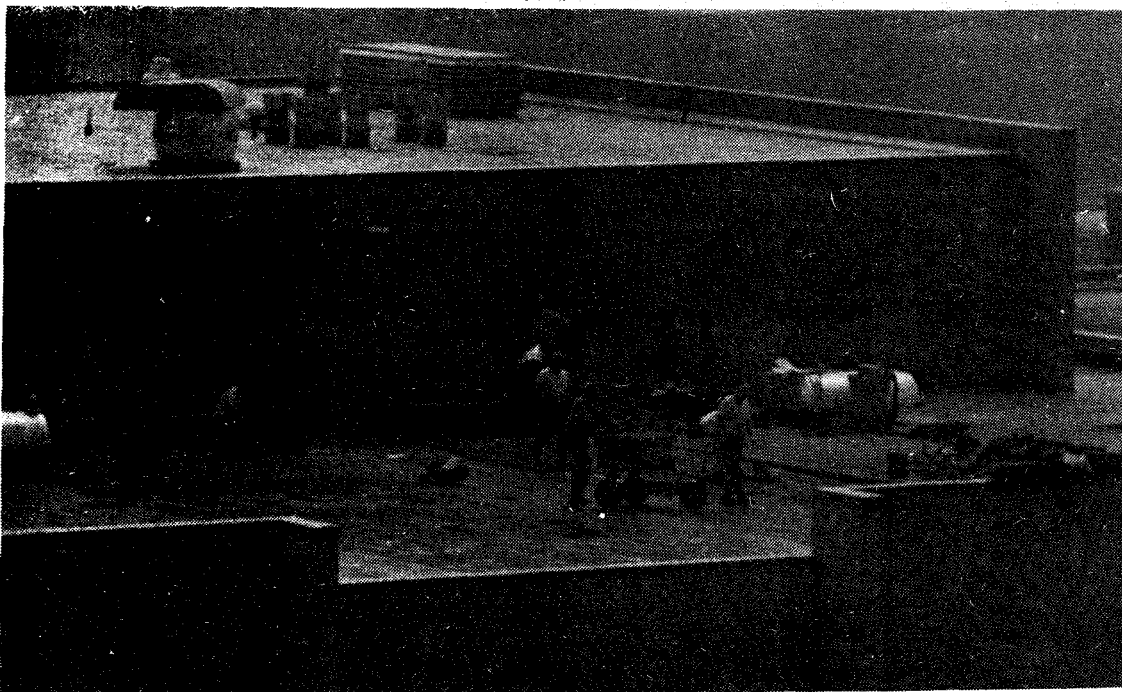

The reason the book is not finished is very simple. The 1980 staff just didn't get it done. The 1980 staff, under editor Sue Berger, was small and relatively inexperienced. These problems were compounded when several of the members dropped off the staff in the middle of the year. At the end of last semester, and during the summer, instead of completing the sections of the book as scheduled, the staff fell behind schedule.

When Banner returned this year, in addition to finding a staff for the 1981 yearbook, he had to find a staff to complete last year's book. With less than a week remaining, to meet the deadline of the 13th, there are still 10-15 pages remaining to be completed.

When the 1980 book is finished, the staff will turn its full attention to planning and completing the '81 book. With the last staff and book as an example, Banner has no intentions of letting delays affect the next yearbook.

Anyone interested in becoming a member of the 1981 Nemacolin staff is invited to attend the staff meetings which are held Tuesday and Thursday nights at 8:00 p.m. in Lane Center room 232.

Chesaleak No More

Do you miss puddles on your dinner table? Do you miss taking your umbrella to your meals? The reason that all your fun is gone is that the cafeteria roof is being repaired.

Last semester, diners were treated to a water show at each and every meal. Water was constantly falling from the cafeteria ceiling, and the amount of water even caused some of the ceiling to fall. At that time, Health Department was called to the scene, and they determined that a health hazard did not exist but was eminent.

The Maryland Department of General Services was called in to survey the damages and reported that the roof definitely had to be repaired. Unfortunately, the State would not pay for the repairs, because the cafeteria is classified as an auxiliary facility, and the college is responsible for all auxiliary buildings. When the students learned of this, an umbrella party was organized to show how serious the situation was.

The General Services roof expert reported that there was a five-year contractor's guarantee on the roof, but that the contract could not be found.

Dr. Guild then asked for a loan from the Colleges Consolidated Student Unions Revenue Bond Trust Indenture. At the meeting of the Board of Trustees, a resolution to provide FSC with $320,000 was unanimously passed. The money will enable the repairs to be made while the State is attempting to return the funds. In the meantime, if you want to get wet, you'll have to jump in the creek.

Editorial

One would expect to find the traditional "welcome back or to Frostburg" editorial in the first issue of the newspaper. Not being one to break tradition, welcome back.

Welcome back to higher tuition, higher room and board fees and higher library fines.

Welcome back to turnstiles in the cafeteria, security assistants in the dorms and a get-tough alcohol policy.

Welcome back to the high cost of books, the large number of books assigned and a yearbook that might not come in.

Welcome back to a remodeled Framptom Hall, a cafeteria roof under reconstruction and an unfinished baseball dugout.

Welcome back to cold winters, cold showers and cold food.

Welcome back to final days to turn in term papers, "just five minutes of sleep before class" and final exams.

Welcome back to Frostburg. Now, aren't you glad summer is only nine months away?

Uncle Frosty

Uncle Frosty will answer any career related question from the college community. Not all questions can be printed due to space limitations and good taste. Uncle Frosty will send a personal response to readers whose letters are not answered publicly. Send your queries to Uncle Frosty, c/o the Counseling Service.

Dear Uncle Frosty:

How was your summer? Did you learn anything interesting about career development in the past several months?

Fred

Dear Fred:

My summer was fine. I sat through 37 showings of "The Empire Strikes Back" until I burned out on popcorn and red licorice. The Yoda shared some truth with me concerning common career myths.

One Life-One-Career--

The idea that a single career should satisfy one for a lifetime is commonly accepted but false. Changes in the economy, technology, and worker needs for satisfaction lead many people to switch careers. Statistics indicate the average professional worker changes careers three to five times.

Power of a College Degree-- A college major or degree does not guarantee a job or force you to remain in one specific field. Skills and abilities are more important than your major.

Planning Alone Guarantees success--

To the contrary, experience in an area is a tremendous asset to your decision-making and job hunting.

The Perfect First Job-- Typically the first job following graduation doesn't provide immediate recognition, satisfaction and high pay. Some grads obtain less than satisfactory jobs while working toward appropriate openings.

College Friends Program Begins

Frostburg's College Friends program, is expanding its focus and size this fall. Rev. Larry Neumark, FSC Protestant Chaplain, stated that the expansion is due to the response of local youngsters and the community. Because of the expansion, there is a need for more College Friends, especially males. One early semester activity includes attendance at an FSC football game.

Neumark stated that the College Friends program is similar to a Big Brother, Big Sister program. It is sharing part of yourself with a young person who needs a friend. College Friends share ideas, activities, and interests with a community youngster.

Most of the youngsters live within walking distance of the campus. They are of different religious, racial, and ethnic backgrounds, and range from 8 years to 15 years of age.

The program, sponsored by United Campus Ministry, is not a religiously oriented program.

FSC students have benefited from the program in several ways. They have gained a feeling of satisfaction, caring, and fulfillment because of sharing part of themselves. College Friends also provide a practical experience for students considering social-oriented careers.

A core of faculty members assist with the program and help throughout the semester.

The program is in need of additional student participants. Contact Rev. Larry Neumark at 689-5041 or Dr. Spencer Deakin at ext. 4234 to volunteer or for more information.

Psychology Orientation

The Psychology Department announces a Pre-professional Orientation, to be held Wednesday, September 10th from 6:00-7:00 in Allegeny Hall 104. The orientation is open to any interested persons. Students planning to be in the pre-professional program must have attended this meeting.

Attention Recreation Majors:

The Frostburg State College Recreation Majors Club is pleased to announce its officers for the 80-81 year. President-April Price, Vice President-Daphne Shettle, Secretary-Marta Sulvester, and Treasurer-Bob Sheppel. Many exciting programs and trips are being planned now. Our first meeting will be Thursday evening Sept. 11, 1980 at 7:30. Anyone interested, please come out and support the Recreation Club.

Today On "Who Cares?"

Today On "Who Cares?" is an almost-weekly compilation of unimportant and trivial bits of information designed to make you ask yourself... "Who Cares?"

Today on "Who Cares?" we examine...

P.T. BARNUM: P.T. Barnum, best known for his co-ownership of the "Greatest Show on Earth," was also a legislator in the Connecticut State Assembly. His experiences in the Assembly couldn't have surprised him too much, as he didn't serve until the late 1860's, after he was already well accustomed to circuses.

ANOTHER UNIMPORTANT COINCIDENCE: Some of you may know that America was once a penal colony, and most of you probably don't care, but does anyone know (or care) what the name of the first man exiled to America was?

It was Richard Nixon, and he was exiled, appropriately enough, for breaking and entering.

A VOTE OF SELF-CONFIDENCE: The well-known but little-cared-about German composer, Felix Mendelssohn, did not have his most popular work, "The Wedding March," played at his own wedding in 1837.

PHANTOM HITCHHIKERS: According to folklorists, the most widely told ghost story in America is that of the "phantom hitchhiker." Although there are several versions, the basic story and the major details roughly coincide. According to the story, a young woman, dressed in white, hitches a ride with a male driver and asks to be taken to a certain address. During the ride, the woman mysteriously disappears, often leaving her seat belt fastened.

Campus Ministry- Make Use of It

Did you know that there are two full-time chaplains available for service at FSC? Yes, there are! Everyone, certainly freshmen, ought to be aware that Rev. Larry Neumark is the Protestant Chaplain and Fr. Kieran Fergus is the Catholic Chaplain. Both are very anxious to meet students, especially new ones.

The United Campus Ministry (UCM) building, the Osborne Center, is located on Loop Road, across from the back of the Fine Arts Building. Although it looks like a private house, it is very much a public place—and you should have no fear or reservations about coming over just to look around. There is no need to ring the bell or knock on the door. Just come in! It is open virtually all the time (Fr. Fergus has living quarters on the second floor). You can relax in the lounge, listen to the stereo or watch television, study in the library or even make a snack in the kitchen.

The two chaplains provide the thrust of UCM. Larry Neumark is a United Methodist minister and Father Fergus is a Dominican priest. Both are experienced counselors, ecumenical in spirit and involved in various dimensions of campus life. An advisory board for UCM is composed of students, faculty, administrators, local clergy and town people and they meet once a month to plan goals and evaluate directions.

There is a UCM Student

Group meeting once a week in the Osborne Center—Thursday evenings at 7:00 p.m. Programs include films, special speakers, Bible sharing and parties.

Other activities include a fall and spring retreat, a College Friends (Big Brother) program, an Adopt-A-Student Program, a Seder Feast, worship services and special ecumenical worship services.

If you have questions or just want to meet the chaplains, stop by the Osborne Center or call 689-5041. If both chaplains are out, just write a note on the message board (just inside the front door on your left) leaving your name and phone number. They will contact you as soon as possible.

Rock-A-Bye with DAI

If you've lost your teddy bear, or if Mommy lives too far away, take advantage of the new TUK-IN SERVICE that's due to hit campus Sunday night.

It's the newest craze on college campuses all over the United States. Sororities and fraternities have found a new way to make money and have fun by tucking in fellow students. On the University of Maryland campus, the service is over-booked. The idea has taken off the ground, and nightly "regulars" are numerous. Nearly everyone except the "tuckers" have taken advantage of the service.

Generally, the TUK-IN service includes being tucked in, a bedtime story or a lullaby, and a good-night kiss. The prices on college campuses vary, but they are generally anywhere from 75 cents to 2 dollars.

FSC's first TUK-IN service will begin this Sunday at p.m. It's sponsored by Delta Alpha Iota, a social/service sorority for all women interested in fun, friendship, and community services.

Kathy McInnis, DAI's president, has the following to say on the new craze: "DAI is stepping ahead this year. This TUK-IN service is one of many new ideas that's making our name known on campus. It's a good fund raiser, and something that will liven up the morale of homework-stricken students all over campus. Besides, it's just good, clean fun."

Delta Alpha Iota's TUK-IN service is offered on-campus only, with cash payment in advance required. Due to the high volume expected, they require 24 hours notice on all orders. The charge is $1.00, which includes being tucked in, a bedtime story, a lullaby, and a goodnight kiss.

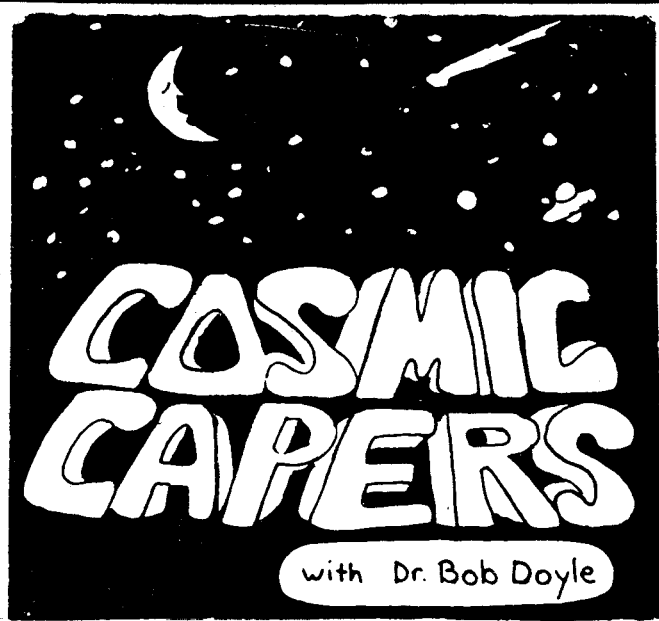

Teddy and Mommy just can't compare.

Cook Chapel

Did you know you don't even have to walk into town for worship services? Please keep in mind that there are services available right on the FSC campus. They are conducted on a regular basis in Cook Chapel, located in Frost Hall. Frost Hall is next to the old administration building. Just look for the sign "Cook Chapel".

Protestant worship services, conducted by Larry Neumark, the Protestant Chaplain, are held on Sunday evenings at 7:00 p.m. Since student participation is a vital part of it, we are in great need of some musicians—guitarists, song leaders or a "folk" group—to lead the singing. If you might be interested, just call Mr. Neumark at 689-5041 for more information.

Roman Catholic Masses are celebrated on Saturdays at 4:00 p.m. (5:00 p.m. after a home football game) and Sundays at 10:45 a.m. and 12 noon.

"Cosmic Capers" is a chatty week-by-week description of events taking place over your head.

September 15-21

Week of Sept. 8th-14th

Late this week, the moon makes a return appearance to the evening sky; weather permitting, you should be able to spot a slender crescent low in the western dusk on Thursday. This first sighting of the moon also signals Rosh Hashbanah, the first day of Jewish New Year 5741 A.M. (A.M. stands for year of the world). The Jewish calander is based on the moon's monthly cycle of phases and uses the fact that 19 years contain 235 lunar cycles.

"Children of the Stars," a science fiction account of our first encounter with aliens is being presented at the Frostburg State College Planetarium each Tuesday evening at 7:30 and each Sunday afternoon at 1:30 and 2:30. These free public showings are in the front lobby of Tawes Hall and last about 45 minutes.

This week the moon grows to first quarter by mid-week, passing through the star group of Scorpius, Sagittarius and Capricornus. Only the orange planet Mars remains in the evening sky; both Jupiter and Saturn are close to the sun, and therefore invisible.

High in the eastern evening sky is the Great Square, an important stellar landmark for navigators. Facing east, this figure is tilted, resembling a diamond. Off the left side of the diamond is a string of stars that makes up the star group Andromeda. Above the middle star in this string is a fainter trail of stars that leads to a faint smudge of light. This "smudge" is a giant sister galaxy—the most distant object visible to the eye at a distance of 2 million light years.

The Frostburg State College Planetarium is now featuring "Children of the Stars", a science fiction program that details the development of life on the earth as seen by aliens. Free public showings are each Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. and each Sunday at 1:30 and 2:30 p.m. in the front lobby of Tawes Hall.

Now, you may think that, after witnessing such an event, the driver might be shocked into doing something normal like stopping the car, but this is not the case. The unperturbed, amazingly composed driver of the legend continues to drive to the given address, where he is informed that the woman has died some time ago, frequently at the very spot where he had picked her up.

WHO CARES SURVEY: The authors of "Today On 'Who Cares?'" conducted a random telephone survey in an effort to determine whether FSC students prefer aerosol, roll-on, or stick deodorants. The results were as follows: of 35 persons surveyed, 15 used roll-ons, 10 used sticks, and 4 used aerosols. Also, two persons answered that they don't use deodorant (see, we were wise to conduct the interviews by phone!), one gentleman said he uses "55-day" pads, one lady uses Jean Nate perfume (lots of it), one lady uses hairspray, and one gentleman said he uses special pads made from the cafeteria sheet cake, which he claims is dry enough to absorb Deep Creek Lake. One Biology major, Chris Tutin (who requested that her name be withheld), said that she uses an original formula consisting of formaldehyde, ammonium sulfate, and unsalted margarine. TUNE-IN NEXT WEEK, when we ask "Who Cares?" why the Lane Center Clock has not been lit up at night!!!

If I had to get into a dorm which wasn't my own, I would tell the security assistant I lived there, show them my key and tell him I forgot my ID.

Jane Frizzell Soph.
Have my friend inside the dorm open a 1st floor window (at a designated time) to let me in.

Cheryl Brant Jr.
I would try to explain to the person the situation and hope that he would let me in. If that doesn't work, I'd throw rocks at someone's window and get them to let them in, perhaps through one of the back doors.

Edward Shulder Jr.
Just knock. When they open the door, just pick anyone you know in the dorm and say you're visiting that person.

Terri Dutch Jr.
Wait until you see someone with a key that belongs to the dorm, and then ask the person if you can be a guest.

Lowell Marshall Jr.
I'd call someone in the dorm to come down and let me in. If he said "no," I'd just have to drive my car through the front door.

Julie Schultze Jr.
Throw rocks at a window (probably Peter Carrocio's) until they came down with a fake ID or hauled me in through the window.

If you had to get into a dorm, how would you get by the Security Assistant?

Tom McAnrew Jr.
I would put a brick through the window, then reach in and open the door.

Michael Heck Jr.
Just sign the book for the person you are seeing and the Security Assistant usually gives you no trouble.

Marian Bookheimer Sr.
If I had to get into a dorm, I would probably wait until someone came up who lived in the dorm, and I would try to get in with them or I would crawl in the first floor window.

Lauren Kramer Sr.
I'd ask the S.A. to call the person's room I wanted to go to. If the Security Assistant refused to perform his job (i.e., find a telephone and call the room), I'd tell him that I wanted to see the R.A. that was on duty.

Chris "Headbone" McGowan Jr.
I have several options. First of all, I would tell the security officer that I had some ice cold beer in my room, and he could help himself to as much as he wanted. Second of all, I would tell someone to open a window in the lounge. If this doesn't work, I would sleep out in the grass.

Soccer

Head Coach Kenneth Kutler

Last year the Soccer team finished with a record of 9-6-1. They won first place in the Maryland Small College Championship. Fifteen players are returning from last year's championship team.

The outlook for the 80 season, "We have pretty good experience in our midfielders and our backs" Coach Kutler says. "We also have a great deal more depth then we had last year when we only had three starters returning."

These Bobcats are hoping that a winning record will help them get a bid in the NCAA Division III playoffs.

"Our offense got better as the season progressed last year," states Peterson, "and we'll be adding the best crop of freshmen since our staff got together here four years ago."

The Bobcat's football team has a tough schedule this year highlighted by home contests with NAIA contender Findlay and NCAA Division III power, Dayton.
