Agricultural.

Care of Chickens.

Good rule for success in the management of fowls:

1. Good dry houses, well ventilated, avoiding draughts.
2. Keep your hen-house clean, and the floor covered with ashes.
3. Whitewash inside monthly from March 1st to October 1st.
4. Feed regularly, but never over-feed; cease feeding when the fowls cease to run for it.
5. Scatter the food on the ground when the weather permits.
6. Feed mixed grain, or alternate, as corn one day, oats next, wheat next, etc.
7. Allow adult fowls freedom as early in the morning as they desire.
8. Keep hens with chicks in small coops (well covered and dry) until the chicks are three weeks old.
9. Feed chicks morning, noon and late afternoon; cooked corn morning, and grain, as broken corn, wheat, etc. noon and afternoon.
10. Mixed ground black pepper with the morning food for chicks twice a week, one tablespoonful of pepper for every twenty chicks.
11. Grease the hen well under the wings, breast and fluff feathers as soon as the chicks are taken off, with gintment made of lard and carbolic acid; ten drops of acid to two table-spoonfuls of lard.
12. Observe the above rules strictly and you will have healthy fowls.

If cholera should appear, have the following prepared at any drug store, and follow directions:

Black pepper one drachm; sulphur flour one drachm; extract gentian (solid) one drachm. Mix. Make twenty-four pills. Give two pills night and morning for two days. I have thoroughly tried these pills, and have not lost a single fowl. When my little chicks look droopy, I make twelve pills of one of the large ones and give them night and morning. I have not lost a chicken except by hawk and drowning this spring.

Sheep on the Farm.

Sheep are undervalued by the mass of landholders as a means of keeping up the fertility of the soil and putting money in the pockets of farmers. The moment one begins to talk of sheep husbandry the listener or reader begins to look for wool quotations—as if wool was all that yields profit from sheep. One might as well look for wheat quotations alone when there is talk about the profit of farming.

Sheep's farm yield both wool and mutton. They multiply with great rapidity. They are the best of scavengers, cleaning a field as the other class of animals will. They give back to the farm more in proportion to what they take from it than any other animal, and distribute it better with a view to the future fertility of the soil. Prove this! There is no need of proof to those who have kept sheep, and know their habits and the profits they yield. To prove it to those who have not the experience, it is necessary they should try the experiment or accept the testimony of an experienced shepherd. But the live stock of a farm should not necessarily be sheep exclusively. Cattle, horses, swine, have their respective places in farm economy. How many to keep of each is a question that locality, character of markets, adaptation of soil, predisposition, taste and skill of the husbandman must decide. But one thing ought not to be forgotten, that the more stock a man keeps on his farm, the more grass and grain it ought, and if properly managed, it will grow. The rates of increase will correspond with the business tact, technical knowledge and skill of the husbandman.

How to Use a Dead Horse.—A dead horse or other animal should be skinned and roughly cut up into small pieces as possible. A plot of ground a few rods square, should then be plowed deeply, and the carcasses thrown upon the soil in the center of the plowed ground. The loose earth is then to be heaped over it a foot in depth. In three months the heap may be dug up or turned over with the plow and well mixed. It will be worth at least $20 per acre to use in the hill for corn or cotton.

Many horses are ruined by harsh treatment when they are colts. Their dispositions are soured, and they come to look on man as a demon and an enemy. Teach the colt by every act that you are his friend. Be kind to him always, and you will gain his confidence to that degree that he will always obey the word when he understands your meaning.

Witticisms.

"Sure pop"—champagne.

Musical piracy—stealing a march.

A deliberative body—a slow man.

Sweetness and light—a love match.

Fruit for balloonists—currents in the air.

When is an egg not oval? When you turn it round.

Chickens—palm off an old hen as a young chicken.

Why is the sun like a good loaf?—Because it's light when it rises.

Babies are described as coupons attached to the bonds of matrimony.

The picnic season and spiders and bugs will soon join the invisible host.

"Cold streaks playing tag down my back," is the way a little Ypsilanti (Mich.) girl describes the approach of an agreeable chill.

The Easton "Free Press" says that Joshua was the first man who ever stopped a newspaper. He stopped the daily sun. We suppose he did so because the war news did not suit him.

A circus tiger is roaming around Brazil, Ind., and men who never stayed at home an evening since they can remember are now to be found in the bosom of their families every night.

"Spelling isn't my profession; one man can't do everything. What's a printer for? If a printer can't spell he'd better quit his business," is the line of argument adopted by Joaquin Miller when a cold, unfeeling critic ridicules his orthography.

Miss Ada and Miss Lizzie Chellis have purchased the Martinsville (Ind.) "Gazette." In a leading editorial of the first number under the new name this extract occurs: "Pansy, young man; you want to get married and it is about time you did." Who will be the first to put the Chellis to his lips?

A Western Editor, thinking to stock his depleted larder, advertised, "Poultry taken in exchange for advertising." The villainous compositor, seeing his opportunity to pay up a long-standing grudge, set it up, "Poetry taken in exchange for advertising," and since that time the office boy has been clearing fifty cents a day from the waste-paper man.

A lady, who had on her upper lip something approaching a moustache, lately called on an officer and his wife, whose merry little boy happened to be present at the time. In the course of conversation the little fellow inquired what he must do to get hair on his lip. "Why, rub it against papa's," was the reply. "Oh, mamma," he said, "is that the way Miss—has got her's?"

She stepped into the car, radiant with youth, and looking cool and bright in her flower-trimmed hat and speckled suit of linen. Four young men immediately offered her their seats. She accepted one with an entrancing smile, and instantly gave it to a poor, was, little, old woman who had been standing for ten blocks, whereupon the young men did not know whether to get up again or not, and tried their best not to look foolish.

When a Nevada photographer wants to make a good picture, he puts the sitter in his place, pulls out a navy revolver, cooks it levels it at the man's head, and says, "Now, just you sit perfectly still, and don't move a hair; put on a calm, pleasant expression of countenance, and look right into the muzzle of this revolver, or I'll blow the top of your head off. My reputation as an artist is at stake, and I don't want no nonsense about this picture."

I'd like to be a edytur, An' in my sanotum stand, The door a standin' open An' a big club in my hand: Then let the ones who didn't like Some article I'd writ, Come softly o'er the threshold, I'd reckon he'd get hit; I'd hand him one right on the gourd, Among his brains and things, And send him flumin' up thar To sport a pair of wings.

Our two devils had a serious misunderstanding the other day. After the heat of the conflict had subsided, and the junior devil had found safety in flight, in the calm retirement of a neighboring alley he set his mind to work to evolve a plan of dire revenge.

In the course of the day the following vindictive epigram was posted on the alley-rack by the malevolent disciple of Faust. The bud of the young man's hate had ripened into fruit.

"What is the difference between something that is useful in washing type, and Fred's case. Answer—one is a pot of lye, and the other is a lot of pl."

HAIR
RENEWER
This standard article is compounded with the greatest care.
Its effects are as wonderful and as satisfactory as ever.
It restores gray or faded hair to its youthful color.
It removes all eruptions, itching and dandruff. It gives the head a cooling, soothing sensation of great comfort, and the scalp by its use becomes white and clean.
By its tonic properties it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, preventing baldness, and making the hair grow thick and strong.
As a dressing, nothing has been found so effective or desirable.
A. A. Hayes, M. D., State Assayer of Massachusetts, says: "The contents are pure, and carefully selected for excellent quality; and I consider it the Best Preparation for its intended purposes."
Price, One Dollar.

Buckingham's Dye
FOR THE WHISKERS.
This elegant preparation may be relied on to change the color of the beard from gray or any other undesirable shade, to brown or black, at discretion. It is easily applied, being in one preparation, and quickly and effectively produces a permanent color, which will neither rub nor wash off.
Manufactured by R. P. HALL & CO.,
NASHUA, N.H.
Sold by all Druggists, and Dealers in Medicines.

VALUABLE LAND
For Sale.
The undersigned offers at Private Sale the following described property, to wit:
Lot No. 1 contains 200 Acres,
2 1/2 miles from Pittsville, on the county road leading to Sheppardsville. This farm is improved by a large two-story Dwelling House,
nearly new, a story and a half house attached. 7 rooms, and all necessary out-buildings, about one fourth in timber, three fourths cleared and in a fine state of cultivation. This is a desirable farm, and suitable for the growth of all crops common to this part of the country, and especially adapted to small fruits, berries, &c., as it is only 2 1/2 miles from the railroad station at Pittsville. TERMS.—One-third cash, and the balance in one, two and three years. No. 2 adjoins the above-named, and contains the same quantity of land, with similar improvements, and will be sold on the same terms.
No. 3 contains 60 ACRES,
and is all in Cypress Timber, of excellent quality; adjoins Lot No. 2, and will be sold with it on the same terms. The same being a part of the land of the late Jas. M. Fooks. For further particulars apply to

"Pull-Backs."

This is the term applied to a certain mode of dress now raging among fashionable ladies. We have noticed that some ladies we have lately seen presented a very peculiar appearance, but we innocently concluded that it was owing to their unfortunately delicate constitution and the advanced prices of dry-goods. Some of our exchanges, however, have taken a quite different, and perhaps more correct, view of the matter, and tell us that it is the latest style. The effect produced by this out-lan-dish costume is quite ridiculous, though by some it is considered neat and pretty. The skirts are gathered up in the rear and pulled so tightly about the person that, if there is such a thing as stopping the circulation of the blood, this is dangerous to an alarming extent. The wonder is how the creatures manage to walk, but somehow they do manage to get around, though much as, things as ascending a flight of stairs is entirely out of the question. It seems that the fashion has been attacked from pulpit, and a Virginia journal alluding to the fact remarks: "If the clergy would keep their hands off the ladies' skirts, and attend more to their own, it would be all the better for clerical morality."

Well, the preachers may denounce the "pull-backs," but it makes very little difference to us how the ladies attire themselves, albeit if we ever do make any pretensions to style, and such a horrid, shocking fashion as this is introduced for our sex, and we present the appearance some of our dear little ladies do, we are either going to resort to artifice or have our

A Dream That Parted A Man and Wife.

Brundy has been married two weeks, and left his wife. Brundy is a little man and his wife weighs 240 pounds. About ten days after their marriage Brundy was surprised, on awakening in the morning, to find his better half sitting up in bed crying as if her heart would break. Astonished, he asked the cause of her sorrow, but receiving no reply he began to surmise that there must be some secret on his mind that she would hold fast to that man's secret.

"Last night I dreamed that I was single, and as I walked through a well-lighted street I came to a store where sign in front advertised handkerchiefs for sale. Thinking it curious I entered, and arranged along the walls on either side, were men with prices affixed to them. Such beautiful men; some for one thousand dollars, some for five hundred dollars and so on down to one hundred and fifty dollars, and as I had not the amount I could not buy."

Thinking to console her, Bundy placed his arm around her, and asked: "And did you see any men like me there?"

"Oh, yes," she replied drawing away from him, "lots like you; they were tied up in lots like radiators, and sold for ten cents a bunch."

Bundy got up, and went to ask the lawyer if he had sufficient grounds for a divorce.

A CERTAIN Whitehall is in the habit of using the common expression, "By the way," to a considerable extent. Some time ago, during religious awakening, he experienced a change of heart, and began attendance at a protracted meeting. Finally one evening, he gained courage enough to rise and offer a prayer. He did well enough until the closing up, then, apparently at a loss what to do, he uttered the usual "Amen." As he stepped into his seat the omnibus crowded to him, when he arose quickly, and with the index finger of his right hand extended toward the president, pastor, ejaculated, "Oh, by the way—Amen," and immediately resumed his seat.

UNCLE PETE was asked to subscribe fifty cents to his nation's salary

"Can't do it, I tell ye. Kase dere mighty hard times a 'prochin' of hyar." "Oh, no, Peto, do craps! I good and we hab plenty money in winter." "You'se a fool. How coud dat be when I heer Mr. Jeeups up at de bank say dat de Chloromores Bank done busted, just like stas Freedman bank did? Root Crops in Apple Orchards.

Eight years ago I purchased a reliable firm five hundred apple trees, three years old, planted them on sod ground, taking great pains in setting them in soil loose and quite stony. The following spring, after planting, I turned over the sod all but one acre, to make the experiment. I think the acre not turned was equal, if not better, than the rest of the orchard. The first year on the inverted sod, I planted potatoes with clean culture, no manure. The second year I gave the acre ten loads of manure as much around the trees, also leaving the grass to decay on the ground, not mowing it. Third year, planted potatoes on the cultivated part; fourth, corn; fifth, potatoes; sixth, corn; seventh, potatoes; eighth, oats; with a seeding to clover on the sod and ground. I gave the trees the same treatment every year, kept those pruned alike which were of the same varieties as on cultivated part of lot. Now, for results. On those I had cultivated I had fine specimens of apples the third year after setting, with a fine, vigorous growth of wood. On the acre not tilled, no fruit and not much growth. Seventh year after planting on cultivated portion of lot, I had a fine crop of apples, every tree making a vigorous growth of wood, and I had one of the finest young orchards in Saratoga county. The trees on the acre not cultivated are only about one-fourth as large as the others, look scrubby, with very little fruit on them seven years after setting, and what apples were on them were inferior to the others. During the eight years I suffered no stock to run in the lot, neither did I mow the grass on the acre, but let it fall and decay on the ground every year. Perhaps some will say those trees where I cultivated will overbear themselves and decay, but I have no fears of that, as I have watched the progress of trees treated in the same manner for over thirty years. In my opinion, every man planting out an orchard should first take the greatest pains in planting, and after that, keep the closest culture with hood crops, root crops being the best for the trees. If not treated in this manner, I think those who set an orchard will not make it a success. For the last thirty years I watched the progress of apple trees, from the White Mountains to Iowa, and I see so much tardiness in the cultivation of fruit trees, that I would like to preach a sermon to seven-eighths of the farmers as long as the distance I have mentioned. But perhaps it would avail nothing, as many farmers suppose that trees must not be disturbed at the root or branches after setting out.—Cor. Journal of the Farm.

The Best Breed of Fowls.

It is generally the case that the good housewife, who has mainly the charge of the poultry on the farm, neglects in the promiscuous slaughter of the stock to reserve the best of her fowls for breeding purposes, and if the cocks are selected from some of the best breeds which are now to be found at all of our agricultural exhibitions, to cross upon the best of the common hens, a great improvement may be made at a very small cost, which will tell well on the future progeny. To those who may be disposed to improve their henry by the means pointed out, we would offer a few hints which may be of use to those not acquainted with the prominent points of some of the pure breeds which are offered by a farmer:

In the egg-producing class the Leghorns stand pre-eminently above all others. This variety consists of the white and brown. The browns appear to be the favorites, being hardy, easily raised, and maturing quickly—the pullets often laying at four months. Pullets of this breed often lay as high as two hundred and sixty eggs during the year; their large combs and pendulous require a warm house during our rigorous winters.

The next in high favor is the black Spanish. These, like the former, are non-sitters and prolific, but not so easily raised. They do not until nearly grown get their full feathers, being generally half-plucked for a considerable time after hatching. These, like the Leghorns, require comfortable winter quarters, owing to their large comb and wattles.

The Houdans, a French breed, come next as layers and non-sitters. This is what they call a made breed between the Poland and Dorking, showing the characteristic of the former and the fifth toe of the latter. Although not as continual layers as the two varieties mentioned, yet they possess points superior to the others, as size, delicacy of flesh and hardiness.

The small breeds, the different varieties of Hamburgs and Polands, have their admirers as fancy fowls. They are excellent layers, partially non-incubators, but are not recommended, owing to their size, as like to improve our present stock of common fowls.

The large breeds, the Brahmas and Cochins, beautiful to look upon, and growing to an enormous size, are poor sitters, and are apt to break as many eggs by their weight as they succeed in hatching out.—Baltimore Weekly American.

Moderately High Steppers.

A good joke is told of a wealthy New Yorker, with an eye for a good horse, who shortly after departing himself to his summer residence on Long Island, in April last, was sitting on his piazza one fine morning and noticing a pair of fine steppers that were being driven on the road in front of his house. The team consisted of a bay and a gray mare, and the driver was an unassuming, quiet, well-behaving young man. The New Yorker noticed them again on the following day, and was more than ever impressed with their style and a graceful step, and he decided at once to buy them. Accordingly on the next day he stationed himself at his gate, and when the team came jogging by he signalled the driver to stop.

"That's a pretty fair team you drive," says he.

"Yes, they are moderately good steppers," was the response.

"Are they for sale?" asked the New Yorker.

"Well, yes; I would sell them," was the rather hesitating reply.

"Run 'em over," said the New Yorker.

Up and down they went for a few times, and at length the gentleman seemed satisfied and signalled the driver to pull up.

The gentleman opened his eyes and mouth in astonishment, and Charley Green drove off with Lela and Fleety Goldust at a 2-25 gait, leaving the old gentleman to wonder at the high prices of good fiction.

Happy Husbands.

It is a man's own fault if he is unhappy with his wife, in nine cases out of ten. It is a very exceptional woman who will not be very dis-

It would be very easy to hate a man who, having bound a woman to him, made no effort to make her happy; hard not to love one who was constant and tender; and when a woman loves she always strives to please. The great men of this world have often been wretched in their domestic relations, while mean and common men have been exceedingly happy. This reason is very plain:—Absorbed in themselves, those who desire the world's applause were careless of the little world at home; while those who had none of this egotism strove to keep the heart that were their own, and were happy in their tenderness. No woman will love a man for being renowned or prominent. Though he be first among men, she will only be prouder, not fonder; and if she loses him through this renown, as often is the case, she will not even be proud. But give her love, appreciation, kindness, and there is no sacrifice she would not make for his content and comfort. The man who loves her well is her hero and her king. No less a hero though he is not one to any other, no less a king though his only kingdom is her own heart and home.

A HACK horse fell down on Gratiot Avenue, yesterday, and among the crowd which gathered were several negroes, one of whom sought to be the job of getting the horse up again. He was doing a good deal of talking when a friend and brother walked up and demanded:

"See heah, who is you?"

"It is Stephen Baker, sah," was the dignified reply.

"And was you in de war?"

"War? I war?"

"Yes, sah, was you in de war?"

"No, sah."

"Well, den, what business you got bossing around heah? You jass stan' back and let somebody was in de war do de talkin'! Now den, folks, lift up on dat hom and keep d'ar ob his hin' heels!"

The one who was not in the war meekly sat down on the curbstone.

In the Baltimore Sun of last Tuesday we find a letter from Mr. S. T. Wallis, in which the old charge and slander of the pension bill is reiterated. We were not surprised that such men as Mr. Earle, Mr. Harris, and others of their class should make such a charge, but when it comes to S. T. Wallis so far forgetting his dignity as to descend to the low plane of vile politicians, we are astonished above measure, and are reminded of the adage that "when virtue falls its descent is rapid." If Mr. Wallis will return to Maryland and cease shooting his little squibs from New York, he will be where he can learn that what he has stated concerning Col. Woolford is false. That he even tried to get any one's name on the pension list is as vile a slander as could have been uttered, but that he did recommend the passage of a bill to reimburse N. Webster for being broke up by an illegal draft is true. Mr. Webster was drafted when he had passed the age for military duty, and in his old age was compelled to go or furnish a substitute. To do this he was compelled to sell his property, and to reimburse him was not an act of justice, which has been made the pretext of designing men to propagate a slander against Col. Woolford, and we regret to see men like S. T. Wallis stoop so low as to utter such a vile slander. But we are disposed to throw the mantle of charity over the fault of Mr. Wallis, and attribute the fault to those whom Mr. Wallis believed to be honorable. We mean those who first propagated the slander, and we hope and believe that when Mr. Wallis becomes better informed, he will make the amende honorable, and not be guilty of so base a slander upon the man the people delight to honor. We say in conclusion, if the mongrel opposition can find no better arguments to introduce their great reform measures than such vile slanders as they are resorting to, may the Lord deliver us from such reformers! The State reformers are first Mr. J. M. Harris, the man who was sent to Congress by the "Plugs," "Blood Tubs," and "Aul Brigade" of the city of Baltimore, when Democrats were driven from the polls, and Col. Wilkins, who commanded the brave 4th home brigade, whose business it was to place bayonets across the doors and windows at State Elections to keep Democrats from the polls. No reformers, these! What would the reformers do if they should get to be Comptroller? We suppose he will advise the passage of a bill to pay those noble officers of registration extra compensation for going to other election districts to assist in discharging Democrats, when men could not do it at home, and those poor soldiers who went to office of registration to embellish the scene of horror, and embolden their tools to do the dirty work. They, too, must have additional pay. Let those reformers get in power, and our people will see a spectacle that would formers indeed! Democrats, stand to your posts—be up and doing. Let no side issue divert you from your duty as freemen. Preserve your liberties while you have them. It will be too late when they are wrested from you. Remember the 2nd day of November decides the question whether we are to retain and preserve our liberties, or to surrender them to men elected by the aid of the Custom House, and under the control of the men who are binding the fetters of political slavery upon the white men and Democrats of the South!

Choose ye this day who you will serve, the custom house rascal, managed by Grant & Co., or serve the cause of freedom in Maryland. Vote for Carroll, Gwin and Woolford, and be free, and when the clarion notes of victory are sounded on the 2nd of November, one shout will go up that Maryland is still free, and her sons will greet the centennial morn with songs of gladness, and the nation shall know that we are worthy to take our part in the grand jubilee.

Envy Aims High.

The Radical press of Maryland has persisted in an attack upon Col. Levin Woolford from the time the "Potato Bug" party in Baltimore joined hands with them. The Maryland Citizen reiterates the slander in its last issue, and gives as its authority Hon. Jas. T. Earle, of Queen Anne's county. Below we copy a letter from Mr. Robert Waller, endorsed by Hon. George R. Dennis and Wm. H. Roach, Esq., and published in the True Marylander, of Tuesday, 12th inst., which reads as follows:

"Maddened by the unanimity and enthusiasm with which the nomination of Col. Levin Woolford from the time the State convention, the opposition in this State are aiming all their mud balls at him as the highest mark and the brightest game at which they can hurl their venomous shafts. Only last week they boldly laid at his door the infamous charge of a defalcation. This charge was soon exploded by the very nature of the safeguards around the Treasury of Maryland, and by the prompt and emphatic denial of the Colonel himself and other officials who know the condition of the public treasury. They have now charged him with an attempt to increase the pension rolls of the State and thus add to the burden of her taxation. We publish below a letter from Mr. Robert J. Waller, touching this matter, and this letter is endorsed by the Hon. Geo. R. Dennis, U. S. Senator, and Mr. Wm. H. Roach, all of whom were in the Legislature at the time the alleged attempt to increase the pension rolls was made. We forbear to comment further on the matter, as we desire to indulge in no fulsome flattery of a man whom Somerset county is proud to defend, and whom the State delights to honor. The letter will speak for itself."

Mr. Editor—Some of the partisan press is reviving a slander which in the heat of passion was made by Mr. Earle on the floor of the Senate in 1874, and which I should have answered long ago, if I had not supposed it had been sufficiently refuted, and as I understood retracted at the time. I was in the Legislature of 1872 and introduced the bill in regard to which Mr. Earle's misapprehension occurred. It was a bill for the relief of Noah Webster of Somerset county, but Mr. Webster was not an applicant for a pension, nor was there any man at that session or since, that I have ever heard of, applying for a pension from Somerset county. Mr. Webster's claim was for damages sustained by him in consequence of his being illegally drafted under the State draft authorized by Gov. Bradford. Mr. Webster was proved to be over the legal age, and the proof was in the hands of Mr. Bradford's commissioner, but notwithstanding that fact, his name was drawn twice from the box at that draft. Col. Woolford was present at the drawing and knew the facts, and knowing that Mr. Webster was by that means forced to sell his house and lot to get the money to buy a substitute, advocated the passage of the bill. It passed the house of delegates, I believe without dissent, but in the Senate from some cause which I never could understand until the slander came out, Mr. Earle reported against it, and it failed to pass. A bill, however, in nearly the same words was introduced in the Senate and Mr. Earle with the identical proof that was before him in 1872, reported in favor of the bill and it was passed and the public will find it in the laws of 1874 chapter 252, and Mr. Webster has received his money under it. About the time the bill was pending in 1872, I knew Col. Woolford was very much afraid a new pension bill would be passed, and frequently made remarks to the effect that he did not believe some of the persons on the pension roll ever were in the war of 1812, but that Mr. Webster ever applied for a pension, or that Col. Woolford desired any increase of the pension list, I know to be untrue. I will further state what should be apparent to everybody, that if Col. Woolford was advocating a bill to give a man a pension, it would have been before the Committee on pensions and not before the Committee on finance.

ROBERT J. WALLER.

We were members of the Legislature of 1872 from Somerset county and were familiar with the facts of this case and know this statement of Mr. Waller to be correct.

Geo. R. Dennis,
Wm. H. Roach.

The Ohio election resulted in favor of the Republicans, owing to the mismanagement of the Democrats, who undertook to set up a financial policy for the country, and in doing so departed from the old landmarks of the party. They deserved to be best. But while Hayes is elected Governor by a very small majority, it is in no wise regarded as a Republican victory in the strictest sense of the word, as many Democrats who were opposed to inflation voted for Hayes, while many Republicans, who thought the Democratic platform suited them best, voted for Allen. There is a moral in the result which, if the Democrats will profit by it as they should, will certainly lead them to victory in 1876, but if they suffer themselves to be led by unwise counsels, will avail them nothing.

The Maryland Citizen is somewhat exercised over the fact that Col. Wilkins' name has been misspelled by some of the exchanges, his name being Edward, instead of Edwin. We say to the Citizen that the thing will correct itself for he will be a ward a long time, before he wins his way to the Guardianship of the Treasury. He will have so much wool over his eyes that he will not be able to see the fact.

Mr. HANSEN intends addressing his fellow citizens in the interest of the mixed ticket here in a few days. We wonder if he will tell us how he and his friends drove the Democrats from the polls in order to elect himself to Congress. How about the awl brigade?

DEMOCRATS, take care of your liberties. Those who oppose Carroll, Gwin and Woolford, were the men who disfranchised you once. Will they do better another time if you allow them to get in power?

"PERSONAL Reminiscences, anecdotes and Letters of General Robert E. Lee," by Rev. J. William Jones, D. D. We have received from the publishers (Messrs. D. Appleton & Co., 549 & 551 Broadway, N. Y.) a copy of this excellent work, and have devoted some time to the perusal and examination of the same, and we take great pleasure in recommending the book to the men of the present day, as they may, according to their political bias, form different estimates of the character of the man this book so faithfully portrays. Those who knew him, and had opportunities of forming an opinion based upon accurate knowledge of the resources at his command, can well afford to trust his military fame to the judgment of future ages, feeling well assured that by it the great confederate captain will be placed in the very front rank of the most renowned military chiefs of all ages and countries. The greatest value of this book consists in the picture it gives of General Lee as a man, citizen, patriot, and christian, and we doubt whether in the writings of any man there is to be found a more thorough system of moral and one better adopted to all ages and conditions of men, than that which is contained in the letters from him which have now been made public. The book ought to be in the hands of all, and it should be especially commended to the rising generation. Certainly many of our public men might read General Lee's letters with great profit if they could only learn to appreciate the usefulness and unflinching integrity of his character under all circumstances and in all positions, public and private.

You will be called upon by Mrs. J. M. Weaver, of Richmond, Virginia, who has the agency for the sale of the book on the Peninsula.

Officers in arrears.

STATE OF MARYLAND,

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,

COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE,

Annapolis, Oct. 1st, 1875.

In compliance with Section 6, Article 68, Code Public General Laws, to wit:

"The Comptroller shall furnish each officer of the State, whose accounts are in arrears, at least sixty days prior to a general election, a full statement of his accounts, and in default of his accounting for such deficiencies within thirty days, then it shall be the duty of the Comptroller to have published, weekly, for one month, in one or more newspapers in the several counties of the State, and the city of Baltimore, the names and titles of said officers, with the amount of such deficiencies."

I herewith publish the following list which embraces the names of accounting officers in arrears to the State of Maryland, together with the amount of principal and interest due by each, as of September 30th, 1875.

LEVIN WOOLFORD, Comptroller.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1875.

This paper has double the circulation of any paper published in the lower Peninsula.

Democrats Rally!

The third quarterly meeting for Salisbury Methodist Episcopal Church will be held to-morrow, Love Feast 9 o'clock in the M. E. Chapel. Preaching 10:15 by the Pastor, W. Urle—7:15 by Rev. W. J. Bain. All are invited.

We have received the October number of the "Kennebec Route Gazette," a weekly paper published at Augusta, Me. This is an invaluable paper to any one seeking information of that State or the far-off Southwest. A large map of the State occupies two pages of this number, and gives a large fund of information concerning that great State.

The work of dredging out the channel is nearly completed, and Captain Parsons deserves great credit for the energy he has manifested in the performance of the difficult work. He has encountered many obstacles and overcome the whole of them, and now we have large vessels right up to our town, which makes things look more cheerful and gives us a maritime appearance.

There will be a musical entertainment at Lewistown, Del., on Saturday evening, Nov. 13th, consisting of vocal and instrumental music. Mr. Philip A. Hearn, of Delmar, is musical director, and Mr. W. A. C. Williams, of the same place, organist. The programme is a good one, and from the well known ability of the gentlemen above we are sure it will be a rare treat to lovers of music. Admission free.

MARINE ACCIDENT.—On Sunday night last, the schooner Annie Belle, of this place, Capt. J. T. Goslee, was coming up Tangier Sound, opposite Crisfield, a colored man named John Banks, from Washington, D. C., accidentally fell overboard and was drowned. The captain and crew made every possible effort to save him, but without avail. His body has not yet been recovered.

Capt. Goslee has had charge of a vessel for forty years, and this is the first accident of the kind he has ever had.

The schooner Gen'l Humphreys came up to the wharf on Sunday last, and has discharged a cargo of coal at the new coal depot of Messrs. Humphreys & Tilghman. This is the second arrival of a schooner loaded with coal at our wharves, and it gives our town a commercial appearance. It has for the last 30 years been the largest commercial town on the Eastern Shore, but the bulk of the work had to be done by means of lighters to the anchorage, a mile below town.

The officers of the P. W. & B. and Del. R. R. Co., gave an excursion over their roads and the E. S. R. R. and W. & P. R. R., to Ocean City for the benefit and entertainment of their employees last Saturday and Sunday, and about one hundred and fifty of the boys availed themselves of the opportunity to see the little city on the beach, and all expressed themselves as being well pleased. They returned to Wilmington on Sunday night.

The inhabitants of that portion of our town called Jersey, are greatly blessed by having a new bridge over the falls. The rail is white, in order that it may be seen at night. We always thought that a rail on the side of the road next to the pond would be a protection to teams crossing there. We have often wondered why accidents have not happened by teams going in the pond; but it is not too late.

CURIOSITIES.—Our esteemed friend Luther M. Williams, Esq., left at our station on Monday last, a basket full of the smallest peaches of the Sequanah variety we have seen. They are second growth, having blossomed some time the forward crop was gathered. They are fully ripe and the flavor is fine.

Several ripe strawberries were brought up in our office on Wednesday last. They were from the patch of Mr. W. S. Gordy, and were of the Wilson Albany variety.

Mr. W. W. Mitchell left at our station, a piece of the end of a cymal, vine, fifteen inches long, having on it 87 cymals. The vine is a flat one about 8 inches wide.

Grand Rally of the Democracy of Wicomico county, Democrats, remember Tuesday 28th inst! Hon. John Lee Carroll, Hon. J. M. Gwynn, Col. Lerin Woolford, and other distinguished speakers will be in Salisbury, and address their fellow citizens. Come one come all. Come from Pittsville with a will; all the way from Sharptown come right along down; from Tyskinn come without asking; from Quantico come up with a show; from the Trappe come and give them a rap; from Barron Creek come right along quick; from Dennis and Nutters come and sweep the "Potato Bugs" in the gutters; from Parsons and Salisbury come out and give them old Harry.

The Wicomico county, Teacher's Institute will convene at the Court House in this place on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday the 3rd, 4th and 5th days of November. Every teacher in the county is expected to attend

Letter from San Francisco.

CUSTOM HOUSE, San Francisco, Cal. Sept. 27th, 1875.

FRANK MALONE.—At your request I promised to write you from time to time. I left Washington on Sunday, 22d ult., for this city. I arrived in Chicago Tuesday morning, and Omaha Wednesday morning. There is a city opposite Omaha called Council Bluffs, from what it derives its name I am unable to learn (see history of Missouri), as it is situated on a flat, level plain, scarcely above the level of the river and no hills near by. This city is the beginning of the Union Pacific railroad, and is connected with Omaha by one of the finest bridges in the country, the St. Louis bridge only excepted. The eastern foot of this bridge is about one mile from the depot at Council Bluffs, and is reached by a grade of at least 100 feet. The structure is about one mile long, and built of iron, and on piers. Omaha, situated on the west side of the Missouri river, and on bluffs some 200 feet above low water, is a city that shows signs of prosperity and rapid growth. Here we change cars, and re-check baggage to Omaha, Salt Lake City, the end of U. P. R. Each person is allowed one hundred pounds, and all excess is charged fifteen cents per pound. From Omaha the road follows the Platte river, a wide stream, but said to be only six inches deep. The valley of the Platte is about fifteen miles wide, and on either side hills are seen in the distance. This valley is very productive. Corn, wheat and barley grow almost without cultivation. The stations are about eight miles apart, and at each is seen a fine school house and church. These are generally built of brick and cost not less than $30,000. The other buildings are small and built of wood. At Bushnell the road crosses the Nebraska line and enters Wyoming Territory. Here, or before we arrive here, the Platte river disappears, and the hills are the distance. We now soon reach Cheyenne, 6,441 feet above the level of the sea, 1,400 miles from San Francisco, and 515 miles west of Omaha. This is the junction of the Denver road. From here to Sherman is 33 miles. We ascend a grade 2,211 feet. There are no stations, except salt and spars. The next station is Laramie, where cars stop 30 minutes for passengers to get meals. This is quite a place. The company have a round house and other buildings. From this place Pike's Peak can be seen some 100 miles with, capped with snow. This is the only place where the Rocky Mountains can be seen. From this station to Bryan, 285 miles, the scenery continues about the same, except occasionally a snow shed. At Bryan the road crosses the Wyoming line and enters Utah territory. From here on the scenery improves. We pass through Wasatch and Echo canons. The hills or mountains are high and almost perpendicular. Pulpit Rock, Devil's Gate, and Castle Rock are objects of some interest. We now arrive at Ogden, the terminus of the Union Pacific R. R. It is 683 miles from San Francisco, 1032 miles from Omaha. This city is a Mormon settlement, and shows signs of prosperity. Here we change cars and re-check baggage for San Francisco. This section of country has seldom rail, and the lands are irrigated by artificial means. From this city to Kelton we run along the northern shore of the Great Salt Lake, of which I have not time to speak. We are now on the Central Pacific road, and proceed to a small station called Loveland. Here the road crosses the Utah line and enters Nevada. Now we begin to enter the gold regions, and observe on either side the work of the miner. Timber is sometimes seen along the road, but seldom before we reach Ogden. From Kelton to Elko, 184 miles, we pass in the night and saw but little, and indeed there is but little to be seen, except and hills, sage brush, snow sheds and alkaline soil until we get to Reno, near the California line, 294 miles from San Francisco. I will now close this, and continue some other time. J. D. M.

Lippincott's Magazine

Lippincott's Magazine

Lippincott's Magazine for November is full of pleasing and interesting reading. The number opens with the first of a series on "Up the Thames," by John Bruce, and is, profusely illustrated. Among the sketches of the famous and picturesque scene along the river, we have a great metropolis, we notice those of Chelsea, Putney, Fulham, and Chiswick, while the paper recalls, with sprightly allusion and anecdotes, the associations that cluster round such places as Richmond, Windsor, and Leamington. "St. Augustine in April," also illustrated, is from the pen of Sidney Lanier, the poet, who gives a glowing picture of the quaint old town, with many details of special interest to those persons intending a visit to Florida. Mrs. E. Lynn Lippincott furnishes the third part of her interesting serial story. The "Monthly Gossip" loses none of its interest while the "Literature of the Day" embraces able notices of several new works. It is for sale by all periodical dealers. 35 cents per No.; $4.00 per year. Specimen number mailed on receipt of 20 cents. J. B. Lippincott & Co., Publishers, 715 and 717 Market St., Philadelphia.

cisely in that particular that gave them the New York reform measure its value. Mr. Wallis required the republicans to endorse him before he would become a candidate. When was it heard that Tilden refused to stir until he could gain republican co-operation? It may be easier to defeat a corrupt party by deserting to the enemy than by risking a contest single-handed, but it is an abandonment of principle, unless the opposing party be of unsullied reputation. In any other case it would involve only a change of clients, republican to republican.

of evils—republican tyranny instead of democratic misrule; reform allied with corruption, with usurpation and with contempt of the rights of states and of their inhabitants. Tilden stood firm, solicited democratic aid to overthrow both republicanism and dishonest democracy, and though once defeated, finally prevailed against both. Harpagon is a remarkable form. That party did not induce him, and at the same time profess allegiance to its principles. He welcomed all deserters from its ranks, and is true, for Tilden well knew, what the history of this country has repeatedly shown, that whatever be the individual politics of a candidate, his success is a triumph to the party.

Should that victory be won the next General Assembly will be in the hands of the republicans. They will elect a treasurer, who, together with the comptroller, forms a majority on the Board of Public Works. They will put in their control the Chesapeake and Ohio canal, running through the disaffected portion of the State, and a judicious use of a part of its revenues may give them in that canal includes may give them in the permanent dominion. The Legislature can also increase the Board of Baltimore from three to five, and by making the two new members republicans, and filling the vacancy to occur next winter with a Republican they can put that power into the hands of the custom-house politicians. It is commonly stated that a fraudulent use of it will make Baltimore go republican. What there in the past career of the Maryland republicans to guarantee that they will not make such use of it? Plunder of the treasury, wholesale intimidation of voters, political oppression, both State and national have ever been their creed, and from professing a change of sentiment, at the very moment that they endorse Mr. Wallis they herald their own unalterable devotion to their old opinions. This is the reform we are to look for in Mr. Wallis's new departure, if we can judge of anything from his experience.

ity, that to overthrow the Democratic party and to place in its stead a republican, is not reform.

The great Reform Republicans held a meeting last Monday in the Court House here. It being the first political meeting which has been held in this county by either party, of course some persons felt an interest as to what was to be said, who was to say it, and what kind of reforms were to be brought about by the two gentlemen who appeared in town, or by those who were to come after them, provided they ever arrived.

The ringing of the bell by James

James, colored, who did not attend the meeting, after having by his clear ringing voice announced that a meeting of the Reformers would be held at the Court House at 2 o'clock or as soon as the audience were assembled. Promptly on time the distinguished gentlemen repaired to the Court House, where the meeting was called to order by the appointment of T. R. Moore, Chairman, who immediately introduced Mr. Francis Miller, of Montgomery County, to the meeting. Mr. Miller is a smooth talker, but not an orator. He was frank in his remarks—told his audience that he was a Republican—was not a candidate for office, but was moved to take up the cause of the Reformers in consequence of the en-ormities of the party in power in Maryland. Strange to tell that he should be moved to come here on a missionary tour when he resides so near the corruptions of Boss Sheppard and his ring in and around

Washington. We are disposed to think that that field demands his labor quite as much as this. But he told us that the enormities of the Democratic party were terrible, yet

he did not say the party had deprived anybody of their liberties or even the trifling matter of the elective franchise, but they had increased the taxes in Baltimore City during the last seven years to almost double what they were. He did not tell us that a City Hall had been built in that time, rivaling the finest structures in the country, in architectural grandeur if not in magnitude of proportions, neither did he tell us of the other vast improvements which have been made in that great city, demanding tremendous outlays of money, nor did he tell of the increasing demand for police extension communications with the steady growth and extension of the city. Neither did he tell us that it was now the best governed city in the country, and he was as one dumb so far as relates to the eighty thousand dollars per annum laid to the city's proportioned of the State's taxes to educate the colored children alone, to say nothing of the wonderful increase required to educate the whites in the public schools, under the present excellent yet very expensive public school system of the State. But as Mr. Miller said nothing beyond a few generalities, winding up with a history of his political career, which he said had always been in opposition to the Democratic party, and we suppose always will be, we will pass on to the other speaker who next addressed the meeting. Hon.

J. Morrison Harris. He, too, was very tame. He said among other things that the success of his ticket was necessary to save the life of the Democratic party. We are disposed to think that this advice would drive

Republicans from his support, for it is very evident that the destruction of that party is the hope and desire of the Rads.

He said the Independent or Reform movement in Maryland was similar to the movement of Tilden in

New York. But who ever heard of Tilden being endorsed by a Republican state convention, or when did he appeal to the Republican party to help him beat the Democrats?

No such appeal has been made by Tilden or his party, nor will such move be made, and we will here remark that if Mr. Wallis and such men as he were as ready to work with their friends in the party as they are willing to join with its enemies to chastise their old friends, there would be no need of reform in the Democratic party. But Messrs.

Harris and Wallis are not disposed to see reform in the party effected by those who are now serving the party lest they might receive the applause of the people, and the calling of our friends the reformers would cease.

The meeting was attended by about two hundred people, more than half of whom will vote for Mr.

Carroll. But we understand that

Mr. H. should say that he nor Mr.

Wallis would be elected, but his friend Col. Wilkins certainly will, as in Western Maryland all parties were opposed to Col. Woodford. We have no doubt that Col. Woodford has many opponents among the large corporations who have been compelled by his vigilance to pay into the State Treasury out of the abundance of their wealth a due proportion of taxes according to their means, thereby relieving the agriculturists

from the heavy burdens of taxation.

While this works to the prejudice of Col. Woodford's chances there, it certainly ought to induce the people of the Eastern Shore to support him the more ardently, which we have no doubt will be the case, and which ought to be the case if our farming community is true to itself, unless they want to see the brave stay-at-home, Col. Wilkins, put at the head of the State Treasury department, and the State once more turned over to Radical rule a calamity which we would regard as direful indeed. It is therefore the duty of the Democratic party of Wicomico, of the Eastern Shore, and indeed of the whole State, not only to stand by Col. Woodford, but the whole ticket, and roll up such a majority on the 2nd of November as will make glad the hearts of the Democracy all over the land.

The eyes of the people of this whole country are turned to Maryland in this contest, her contiguity to the seat of corruption of Grantism at Washington must be indorsed or rebuked. If we go over to the Rads, it will be indorsing Grant and his minions. If we stick to our ancient faith it will be a rebuke to the outrages and corruptions of Grantism.

Then why fail in your whole duty?

Wallis as a Reformer.

Was Mr. S. Particular Wallis ever a Democrat? It strikes us that he never has been guilty of that enormity. He was an original Whig until he sought the nomination for States Attorney of Baltimore, and when his party did not value his services as highly as they did those of Mr. Coleman Yelland, whom they nominated, they straddled and immolated the Reformer "got mad" and himself. For nobody else was running him, just as he is now doing in opposition to the regular nominee, and he was badly beaten by the very same gentleman, Mr. Gwin, whom he now sets himself against. He would have gotten "mad" then, only he did not have any party to get mad at, so he had his own party until 1861 when he thought that it was a good thing in Baltimore to secede, that line of business suiting him exactly. And so he went along and finally found himself in the Democratic wagon and as that party did not seem to pay him the attention that he thought he deserved, he flew the track and there he is. If one could buy him for what he is worth and sell him at his own price that a splendid speculation it would be Mene, mene Tekel Wallis, you have been weighed several times and found lacking, but the way the people of this State will stamp you of light weight on the 2nd of November will last for the balance of your life.—Twice-A-Week.

The Premium Engraving, issued by "Peterson's Magazine" for 1876, like everything else from that quarter, is of rare excellence and beauty. It is not one of the cheap, colored litho graphs, with which the country is flooded, but a first-class line and simple engraving, executed in the highest style of art. The artists are Illman & Brothers, and they have engraved it, (size, 24 inches by 20), expressly for "Peterson's Magazine." It is such a plate as would sell, at retail, for five dollars. The picture represents two charming little children, still in their night-dresses, at papa and mamma's chamber door, at early dawn, coming to wish them a "Merry Christmas." It is a picture that will go to every heart. In artistic merit, and beauty it is, we think, the finest "Peterson" has ever issued. You can get it, gratis, by raising a club for "Peterson" for 1876, or by remitting $2.50 for it and for the magazine, the magazine alone being two dollars. This is a rare chance. Address Chas. J. Peterson, 306 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Oct. 15, 1875.

Mr. Editor: I have read your communications from Leitersburg and Boonsboro and they have put me to thinking, or rather they have made me think more of what I was thinking about before. I listened to Mr. Harris patiently the other day, anxious to be convinced that there was some good reason why a Republican should vote for him. I had been bothered all about it before for I did not see how or why I should vote for Harris and Wallis, two men who every day write letters or make speeches to prove that they are still Democrats and have no sympathy with Radicals. So I thought I'd like to hear what Mr. Harris had to say. He may have been speaking to catch Potato Bugs but it did not suit me. His eulogy on Mr. Hamilton (just as if he was dead) and his assertion that he was a Democrat of Democrats and all that sort of talk may have been all right for some of the men who did all the applauding, but little there was of it, but it was a queer speech for Republican voters to swallow. It is likely the Herald will have a report of it, make out a great speech, but if Mr. Harris is such an uncompromising Democrat, he ought to have stuck to his party. Now Greeley did say that he would have nothing more to do with the Republican party and there was excuse for Democrats who voted for him. But Mr. Harris has the same opinions he always had yet wants to be elected by Republicans. Now, if we are to vote for Democrats, I think Carroll is a great deal more honest, in politics at least, than Harris, and as for that man Wallis, not any for me. I would a great deal rather vote for Jeff. Davis. But the fact is, I will not vote for any of them for what it is worth and ask the Herald and Torch to copy it. When you see how badly Wallis gets beaten in Baltimore for Mayor, you will understand why Republicans do not like to vote for such double-faced candidates.

DISTRICT NO. 17.

[Well gentlemen, fight it out, it is none of our funeral. If you like "turkey buzzard" eat it like a man and vote for Harris and Wallis; perhaps if you mix a little Wilkins with it, it will not taste so bitter. But if you do not want to eat such a dish, go to the polls and vote for Carroll, Gwin and Woodford and be happy. Ed.]—Twice-A-Week.

MR. WALLIS THE OVERSIGHT.—Mr. William Goldsborough made a good hit in his speech at Trappe on Saturday week. He said "The Republican party had made an oversight of S. Teackle Wallis, to give it the appearance of respectability." This is true to life. Strip the "oversight" off, and it is "the same old cock" the Democrats have been fighting ever since 1860.—Easton Star.

THE Episcopal Methodist states that the increased membership of the M. E. Church South last year was 36,165, making the number in that connection, of white members, 712,765. During the past two months the revivals have aggregated 1,000 to 1,200 conversions a week.

Wallis as a Reformer.

A little imagination and describe the ascent of the cars as they wind around the end of the valley, which borders Donner Lake, and crossing Cold Stream commences the ascent of the mountains. As the train skirts the eastern base, rising higher and higher, Donner Lake is far below, looking like a lake of silver, set in the shadows of green forests and brown mountains. Up still, the long black line of the road, bending around, and seemingly stealing away in the same direction in which we are moving, though far below us, points out the windings we have followed. Up still, up, higher and higher, rolls the train, through the long line of snow sheds leading to the first tunnel, while the locomotives are snorting an angry defiance as they enter the gloomy, rock-bound chamber. Here we arrive at Summit, the highest point on the Sierra Nevada mountains, passed over by the Central Pacific road, 7,017 feet above the level of the sea. Distance from Omaha 1,669 miles, and from San Francisco 215 miles. The next station is Cascade. Here we cross one of the branches of the Yuba, which is in summer a rapid stream and in winter nothing is seen except a bed of ice and snow. Tamerack is the next station and of little importance. Cisco, 5,939 feet above the sea, was once of some importance but now of little. Emigrant Grove is the next station. No importance. Blue Canon, the next station, 4,677 feet above the sea, is a lumber station. We next arrive at Shady Run, where passenger trains seldom stop. On the left or South side of the road, we see one of the grandest gorges in the Sierra Nevada mountains. "The great American Canon." At this point the American river is compressed between two walls 2,000 feet high, and is so near perpendicular that one can stand on the brink and look down on the waters below. We next arrive at Alta. This is the most ancient looking place along the line. We next come to Dutch Flat. Old settlers call this "German Level." This place shows some enterprise. The houses are rather fine and surrounded with gardens and fine orchards. The next station is Chin Ranch. Here the water is conveyed by a hydraulic power. Water is conveyed in pipes of boiler iron from some tanks far above. To these pipes hose are attached and the miner directs the nozzle to some sandy strata at the side of the mountain and the force of the water is so great that it runs down the level plains in a few hours. The place we arrived at is more important and interesting than before. It is called "Cape Horn." Here the train winds around the summit of the mountain 2,600 above the bed of the river or below. The train stops here five minutes for passengers to see the grandeur of the scene. You can look down almost perpendicular and behold the rapid stream. Timid ladies frequently draw back with a shudder and sometimes faint. I will close for the present. S. D. M.

John P. Owens & Co. have on hand a fresh supply of Mince Meat, put up expressly for their trade.

A few breaks in the side walks still remain on Division St. We hope ere long they will be attended to as it is quite unpleasant to persons up town to have to step off in the mud when it rains. Town fathers take note.

The schooner Ridic came up to the wharf of Messrs. Humphreys & Tilghman this week and took on a full load of lumber for Baltimore, and left without difficulty. This is an improvement on the slow method of lightening heretofore in practice.

On our first page will be found an interesting communication from Gen. Reformer to the Baltimore Sun of last Saturday. Read it and see if Mr. S. T. Wallis is right in his tirade of abuse of the Democratic candidates.

Come out to the meeting on Tuesday next, 26th inst., and tell your neighbors to come also, and see the next Governor of Maryland. It will be a fine opportunity, and a great pleasure to Mr. Carroll to see his friends in Wicomico.

For fresh butter, cheese and all other family groceries, go to J. P. Owens & Co.

The Peninsula Agricultural and Mechanical Society, will hold its second annual fair at Laurel, Del., on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, the 27th, 28th, and 29th insts., and we are requested to invite the ladies of Salisbury and vicinity to take up some of their productions for exhibition. All are invited to attend.

FOR SALE CHEAP.—A Second-hand Grover & Baker Sewing Machine, Inquire at this office.

We say again to the Democracy of Wicomico, come out next Tuesday and see the next governor of Maryland. Also the Attorney General and Comptroller of the Treasury, and learn what will become of the "Potato Hugs" after the 2nd day of November.

Persons having real estate for sale, and desiring to advertise the same, during the ensuing year, will find the Terra Vender the best medium to advertise it in published in Maryland, as it will have an extensive circulation in the North, East and West. Advertisements left at the office of the SALISBURY ADVERTISER, during the coming month will find a place in its columns, and on reasonable terms. It will issue about the first of January 1876.

FOR SALE CHEAP.—Two first class Parlor Organs—Plotts & Esley's. Also an elegant Steiff Piano. Inquire at this office.

The Rev. Mr. Tagg gave a lecture on the subject of Intemperance last Sunday, and evinced a fine degree of talent in its preparation, and no lack of force in its delivery. There was really more in it than we have heard gotten out of the subject for a long time. After he had concluded his lecture, Rev. Dr. Uric followed in his usual vigorous style, for no one is more prolific in resources than the Dr.

SHOOTING ACCIDENT.—On Wednesday morning last two sons of Gillis Bussell, of Nutters' District, were out hunting. One of them shot at a rabbit, and two of the shot struck some hard substance and glanced off in the direction of the young man, one striking him in the face, the other in the hand, without doing him any serious injury. This is another warning of careless gunning, which does not pay at best in our country, where game is so scarce. This said that who guns for fun this year will gun for food next. The business is extremely unprofitable.

IMPROVEMENTS AROUND TOWN.—Mr. A. J. Lowe has erected a large two-story house on his lot in that part of the town called Canton; also Wm. H. Gray on the adjoining lot has just completed a commodious two-story dwelling, and M. E. Hastings, in the same neighborhood, has added largely to his dwelling, and has now a fine two-story house. It seems that Canton will take the lead of all our suburban appendages, and perhaps rival Camden or Newtown.

The Salisbury Lyceum has changed its time of meeting from Monday to Wednesday night. On last Wednesday night the question was as follows: "Resolved, That unanimity ought to be required of juries, in rendering their verdict." The question was decided in the affirmative. Holland and Ellegood, affirmative; Malone and Cooper for the negative. For next Wednesday night the question reads as follows: "Resolved, That the demands of trade require an increase of the volume of the currency." E. S. Toadvine and Wm. H. Warren for the affirmative; Holland and Malone for the negative.

A new monthly newspaper, to be called the Terra Vender, is to be started in Salisbury about the first of January, 1876. The object of the paper is to bring into notice this long neglected and unknown region of country. It will contain maps of the Peninsula, advertisements of real estate for sale, general news, and contributions from a number of the best writers in the State. Its main object will be the development of this part of the country. Subscription price, postage prepaid to all parts of the country, 50 cents per annum. Persons desiring to subscribe may send their names to the office of the SALISBURY ADVERTISER, and they will receive the first number. It is proposed to start the paper with a circulation of 2,000 copies.

The return Judges of Election will make return on Thursday 4th day of November.

At an informal meeting held at the Peninsular House on the evening of Oct. 17th, the following officers and committees were appointed for the occasion of the Grand Democratic Mass Meeting, which will be held in this town on Tuesday next, Oct. 26th.

Committee of Reception:—Gen. Humphreys, Chairman. Hon. A. J. Crawford, Messrs. E. E. Jackson, Wm. Waller, S. P. Toadvine, G. R. Rider, B. B. Gordy, Dr. F. M. Slemmons, C. F. Holland and Huston Humphreys.

DIED.

LEATHERBURY.—On October 10th 1875, departed this life Mary Leatherbury, aged about 70 years.

MORRIS.—In Wicomico county, on the morning of Oct. 1st, 1875, after a lingering illness, Perry Alexander Warren, youngest son of Jacob and Annie E. Morris, aged two years, three months and nine days, and interred at Asbury Church, Upper Trappe.

There's many an empty cradle,
There's many a vacant bed,
There's many a lonely room,
Where joy and light are dead,
For thick in every graveyard
The little hillocks lie,
And every hillock represents
An angel in the sky.

ROBERTSON.—On September 24th, 1875, at his residence in Tyaskin District, Wicomico County, Md., of cancer, Washington H. Robertson, aged 50 years.

At a meeting of Wicomico Lodge, No. 81, E. of P., at their Lodge held on the 28th day of Sept., the following resolutions of respect and condolence were adopted:—
Resolved, that in the demise of Brother Washington H. Robertson, This Lodge has lost a valuable and an esteemed member, society one of its ornaments, and the community at large a true man and a Christian.

Resolved, that we deeply condole with those dear ones he has left at home, for he was a faithful and affectionate husband, a devoted father, and a dear one to his household and nearest friends.

He was a devoted member of the M. E. church, and his death leaves a vacant place, among its worshippers, but we hope and have good reason to believe that his spirit has winged its way to the mansions of bliss beyond the skies, where angels and spirits of just men made perfect are rejoicing around his father's throne in heaven.

Let us, with his bereaved family, hope to join him in the abodes of bliss when done with mortal cares.

Resolved by the members of Wicomico Lodge, that a copy of these resolutions be published in the Salisbury Advertiser and also a copy be sent to the family of deceased.

By order of the Lodge,
WM. J. WAILES, Sec'y.

The Business of OAK HALL is Conducted upon what we believe to be

The Fairest and Most Equitable System Ever Inaugurated, viz:

ONE PRICE. CASH Payment. FULL Guarantee. MONEY Returned.

This treats every individual purchaser exactly alike. When there is but One Price it must of necessity be the Very Lowest for which the article can be sold. There is No Second Price for anything at Oak Hall.

Accompanying every sale we make at Oak Hall, we give a printed slip with the following signed GUARANTEE:— "That the price of our goods shall be as low as the same quality of material and manufacture are sold anywhere in the United States. That the price shall be precisely the same to everybody for the same quality on the same day of purchase. That the quality of goods is as represented on printed labels. That the goods are returned to us if not satisfactory within 10 days of date of purchase. This receipt perfect safety to all who deal at Oak Hall.

Any article purchased at Oak Hall that does not fit well, is not the proper color or quality, does not please the buyer at home, or is not perfectly satisfactory, should be brought back at once, and if it is returned as purchased, we will refund the MONEY. If our intention always to give Value for Value in every sale, and those who are not pleased with what they buy at Oak Hall will do us a positive favor to return the goods and GET THE MONEY BACK. By this plan we remove every possible objection and make the purchase of clothing at Oak Hall pleasurable as well as profitable.

Officers in arrears.

STATE OF MARYLAND,
TREASURY DEPARTMENT.
COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE,
Annapolis, Oct. 1st, 1876.

In compliance with Section 6, Article 89, Code Public General Laws, to wit:
"The Comptroller shall furnish each officer of the State, whose accounts are in arrears, at least sixty days prior to a general election, a full statement of his accounts, and in default of his accounting for such deficiencies within thirty days, then it shall be the duty of the Comptroller to have published, weekly, for one month, in one or more newspapers in the several counties of the State, and the city of Baltimore, the names and titles of said officers, with the amount of such deficiencies."
I herewith publish the following list which embraces the names of accounting officers in arrears to the State of Maryland, together with the amount of of principal and interest due by each, as of September 30th, 1876.

Governor's Proclamation.

State of Maryland.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS The Constitution of the State of Maryland, by Article 1, Section 1, directs amendments to the Constitution to be made as follows:

"The General Assembly may propose amendments to the Constitution, which shall be submitted to the people of the State, and if a majority of the people shall approve thereof, the same shall be valid and binding as if they had been proposed and passed by the General Assembly."

AND WHEREAS, An Act of the General Assembly, passed at the Session of 1874, Chapter 284, for amending the Constitution of the State, as follows:

"An Act to amend Section 8, of Article 4, of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, to read: 'The General Assembly may propose amendments to the Constitution, which shall be submitted to the people of the State, and if a majority of the people shall approve thereof, the same shall be valid and binding as if they had been proposed and passed by the General Assembly.'"

AND WHEREAS, The said Act of the General Assembly, passed at the Session of 1874, Chapter 284, for amending the Constitution of the State, as follows:

"An Act to amend Section 8, of Article 4, of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, to read: 'The General Assembly may propose amendments to the Constitution, which shall be submitted to the people of the State, and if a majority of the people shall approve thereof, the same shall be valid and binding as if they had been proposed and passed by the General Assembly.'"

AND WHEREAS, The said Act of the General Assembly, passed at the Session of 1874, Chapter 284, for amending the Constitution of the State, as follows:

Carroll, Gwin and Woolford to the Front.

Our Mass Meeting on Tuesday last, was a complete success. In order to give Mr. Charles J. M. Gwin, candidate for Attorney General, an opportunity to address his fellow citizens here in time to leave on the 2 o'clock train for Baltimore, the meeting was called to order at 12 o'clock, M., by General H. Humphreys, Chairman of the State Central Committee for Wicomico Co., on whose motion L. Malone, Esq., was called to the chair, and J. Augustus Parsons, Esq., was appointed Secretary. On motion the Secretary was directed to read over the names of the Vice-Presidents and Secretaries appointed at a meeting held a week ago, and whose names were published in our columns last week, and on motion those persons whose names thus appeared were declared to be the officers of the meeting. Mr. Gwin was then introduced and proceeded to address the meeting. He stated that the Democratic State Convention had nominated him as a candidate for the office of Attorney General of Maryland, and if elected he would discharge the functions appertaining to the duties of the office to the best of his ability. His speech was enthusiastically received, and we would be led to believe that his audience were satisfied with his ability, and that they intended on the 2nd day of November to manifest their confidence by a hearty support. Mr. Gwin, among other things, said to the colored people present that he was one of the Trustees of the Johns Hopkins' fund, a part of which fund had been set apart for the support of colored schools in Baltimore, and in its management he had always had their best interests at heart, and he believed that the best interests of the colored people would be subserved if they as a class would think more independently, and not be led by the party lash of their new masters, the white Republicans, who seemed to believe that they had a lease upon them. Mr. Gwin's speech was altogether a good one, and fully came up to the expectations of his most ardent friends. At one o'clock the meeting took a recess for dinner, and on reassembling at 2 o'clock, Hon. John Lee Carroll, candidate for Governor, was introduced and greeted by a round of applause. Mr. Carroll was unable to speak in consequence of his voice having failed him, caused by constant speaking and out door efforts. But Mr. Carroll met a great number of his political friends on the ground at the meeting, and also at his room at the Peninsula House, and while it was a subject of regret both to him and his friends, that he was unable to address them, yet he and they had the pleasure of a sight of each other and a hearty shake of the hand, and no one ever sees Hon. John Lee Carroll to his disadvantage, he makes a favorable impression wherever he appears.

Col. Samuel Hambleton, of Talbot, was next introduced, who made an excellent speech of over an hour's length. The Col. was also well received by our people. His presence among us reminded us of the glorious victory achieved here for him five years ago, and his labors in the Congress of the United States to procure for our river improvement an appropriation is kindly remembered and appreciated.

The next speaker introduced was Hon. L. L. Waters, of Somerset county, who made one of his characteristic speeches. He brought home to the door of the Radical party many of their sins, and told them some pointed truths which they do not like to hear. Mr. Waters fully stirred up the young Democracy of Wicomico. He was enthusiastically cheered, and although the hour was growing very late the audience manifested a desire to compel him to go on. Mr. Waters always a good speaker, rose above himself on this occasion, and by many he was pronounced a first-class stump orator. At the conclusion of Mr. Waters' speech the meeting adjourned to meet at the Court House at 7 o'clock.

At the hour appointed the Court House was filled with an earnest crowd and were addressed in turn by Thomas Humphreys, Esq., candidate for State Senator; J. E. Ellegood, candidate for States' Attorney; J. Augustus Parsons, Esq., candidate for States' Attorney; Wm. H. Warren and G. W. M. Cooper, Esq., all of whom made good and acceptable speeches. The meeting adjourned at 9 o'clock, when all retired to their homes, fully satisfied with the candidates of the Democratic Conservative Party, both State and County, and by three hearty cheers for the whole ticket, evinced a determination to give a majority in Wicomico on Tuesday next that will send joy and gladness to the hearts of the lovers of good Government all over the land. In conclusion, let us say, let no Democrat fail to do his duty next Tuesday. See that your neighbors are all out at the polls, and beware of spurious tickets and bogus reformers and Radicals.

Religious Proscription as far Back as 1865.

It will be remembered that during the bitterness engendered by the war, that the Radical party were not satisfied with depriving others of the right to vote, but even denied them the social right of worshipping the Lord as they saw fit. In the City Council (Radical), on the 24th day of April, 1865, they drew up and passed a series of resolutions, which for want of space, we are precluded from publishing in full, calling upon General Wallace, then commanding at the city of Baltimore, to close certain churches because, as the preamble and resolutions say, their pastors and members were rebel sympathizers. Among these were four Methodist churches especially named and designated, and it is a matter of history outside of this action that the same spirit was manifested towards two Episcopal churches, and also one Presbyterian, namely, Dr. Bullock's church, and it is a well known fact that the Methodist church at which Rev. J. Dashiell, a native of this town was pastor, was closed by these fanatics because he did not desire it to appear like a military barracks by having a flag placed over the door. At the close of the preamble the resolution reads as follows:

Resolved by both Branches of the City Council of Baltimore. That the commander of the department be respectfully requested to close those churches named in the foregoing preamble, and such others as are governed by such dialog and unparliamentary purposes.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions and resolutions be sent to General Wallace.

On motion of Mr. Wayson the resolution was read a second time by special order.

Mr. Wayson moved to amend the preamble by striking out the word "temporarily" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "so-called places of worship," which was determined in the affirmative.

The question being on the adoption of the resolution, it was determined in the affirmative by the following vote, the yeas and nays being regulated by Mr. Jones:

Yeas—Messrs. President, (Young), Larrabee, Rappert, Landon, Stewart, Wayson, Kraft, Herring, Gorsuch, Hatch, Nicholls, Cox, Keyser, Price, Green, Caulk, Jones, Ewalt, Foreman—19.

Nays—None.

Thus it will be seen that those Radical reformers are not satisfied with political rule, but they desire to invade the sacred precincts of religion also. Beware, therefore, all ye who desire political and religious liberty and all the rights intended to be secured by the Constitution. Suffer none of these monsters again to deprive you of either. Vote the straight Democratic ticket, and be sure you are right. Try no expedients the tendency of which you know nothing, but stand by the party which has proclaimed the same fundamental doctrines from the days of Jefferson to the present time, and so long as that doctrine shall triumph you will be safe, and none of your rights will be disturbed.

Tax election in Baltimore resulted in favor of the regular Democratic ticket, that party electing the Mayor and eighteen out of thirty members of the City Council. The Reformers elected eleven Democrats, and one Republican. A more peaceful election never was held in the city, but great efforts were made by the Custom House and Post Office Brigade to vote a large number of fraudulent foreigners, of whom they succeeded to get through on the names of others. This trick was soon discovered and a stop put to it after about two hundred had voted on the names of registered citizens. While the majority was not quite so large as was anticipated, yet we may be pretty sure to carry the city for the State ticket by from six to ten thousand, as it is well known that the merchants reform are not opposed to the regular State ticket, and have declared their intention of voting for it. They were from the first opposed to making a State campaign, but apart from this, they are not partial to J. M. Harris who was sent to Congress by fraud and violence over the Democratic nominee, and while many of these same gentlemen were driven from the polls by the roughs and awl brigade, all of whom were the mere tools of J. Morrison Harris and his cohorts, and it will be a long time before these men, if they desire reform, will place in the executive chair the man who was benefitted by the exhibition of a human head on a pole with the inscription below, in large letters thus, "Thus it will be with any reformer who dares vote here to-day." Thus it was in Baltimore sixteen years ago, where J. Morrison Harris was elected to Congress by those who opposed reform. Now what has he done since to convince the people that he is a better man.

Those who aid in the election of the opposition State ticket, or any of them, will no longer be regarded by the Democracy of Wicomico county as Democrats. We care not what they may call themselves, they will be considered aliens from the fold, no longer worthy the confidence of the good old party. Those who fight against us during the battle we do not want to break bread with us after the smoke leaves the field. This is no idle talk. It has been written after due deliberation, and by the request of many Democrats from every district in the county. We have a good and acceptable ticket, both State and county, and no Democrat has any excuse to go over to the enemy.

DEMOCRATS AND CONSERVATIVES! beware of spurious tickets. A great effort will be made to deceive voters next Tuesday. Compare your ticket with the one at the head of our column, and if it differs in any respect cast it aside, and vote the ticket which has been pronounced by all parties to be a good one. Designing men for selfish purposes are endeavoring to impose upon voters a spurious ticket.

ECCLIASTICS—Governor elect Hayes, of Ohio, in his speech at Mt. Joy, Pa., the other day, said the people of Ohio are a sensible people, "and they showed their good sense in their choice for Governor." Ah! modesty! where art thou! Thou art a bright jewel, and cannot be found in such a haze. (Hayes.)

GENERAL F. C. LATROBE (Democrat) was elected Mayor of Baltimore last Wednesday by about 2,700 majority, and the same party elected eighteen out of the thirty councilmen. Notwithstanding the efforts of the Radicals so called reformers "Potato Bugs," Custom House and Post Office Squads.

One of the facts exhibited by the vote in Baltimore on Wednesday last is, that the average majority of the Democratic Candidates for City Councilmen was 4,100, showing that Mr. Wardlaw, candidate for Mayor, was stronger than his party.

DEMOCRATS, beware of a spurious ticket with small spread eagle at the top, with J. Morrison Harris and the other Potato Bug candidates, Wallis and Wilkins. Be sure to vote for Carroll, Gwin and Woolford.

A Democratic Address.

A committee of the Jackson Democratic Association of Washington has issued an address to "The Democratic Public of the District of Columbia," designed for mutual encouragement in regard to the political situation. Official figures of the results of general elections in all the States during several years are given, showing in almost every instance a gain in favor of the Democratic party and hostile to the administration, and the committee contend that these facts have emphatic significance, showing "that the second-saber thought and integrity of the people may be relied on for the preservation of our institutions." The result of the recent election in Ohio, it is claimed, was accomplished by bribery in Cincinnati and Cleveland, whilst the gains for Allen in the rural districts are cited to show that when the issue of reform is singly made against the administration the verdict of the people of that State will be overwhelming for condemnation. The address concludes:

"Our foreign commerce and shipping interests are depressed and destroyed, and tax-gatherers swarm over the land. Yet the country prospers from abundant resources, and bears the abuses with patience, which, if prevented, would leave it free to realize wealth and grandeur unexampled. It is by the sweat of the brow that by the Divine law must be bread. But by the law of our fathers and kingly executive and Congress poor men become millionaires and by the signing of a few government contracts, and such kindred results indicate wrongs at the expense of the people. They are well known and ought to be fully exposed. There is no need of discouragement. There is no more doubt that the people of the United States will set the seal of reprobation on them when fully brought to light than there is whether they have virtue enough, in spite of money, fear, favor and influence, to sustain and perpetuate in their integrity the institutions of our fathers. To this end we now speak, and ask good men to unite with us in this District in doing what may be in our power for the promotion of the public good. The returns of elections we have given indicate a slow progress and gradual change of public sentiment from which the country will be equally slow to retrograde. We are confident of the result in 1876. But the great end is to be reached by expenditure and labor, and that is required not from the people of the States alone, but from the residents of the District of Columbia as well. Let every democrat have a shoulder to the wheel. A good record in 1876 will be a record of glory, for the triumph will be overwhelming."

To the People

OF THE STATE OF MARYLAND.

Nearly two weeks have elapsed since three of the undersigned, being the Senator and two of the Delegates from Somerset county in the Legislature of 1872, published a card in refutation of the charge so industriously circulated against Col. Woolford, the democratic nominee for the office of Comptroller. Since that time Mr. Earle and Mr. Wallis have not only failed to retract the charge, but both of them have reiterated it, and Mr. Earle has made the additional assertion that it was the bill for the relief of Noah Webster in regard to which Col. Woolford appeared before the committee on finance on the occasion referred to, but an entirely different bill, which he also says in his communication to the Baltimore Gazette was passed by the House of Delegates, and by the Senate referred to the finance committee, and reported upon adversely by that committee. We therefore feel bound in justice to Colonel Woolford, whom we know to be one of the most conscientious and faithful public officers ever holding position in Maryland, and with a view to put an end to the controversy, to say that it is within our knowledge, and we assert that no bill was passed by the House of Delegates in 1872 for granting a pension to any man from Somerset county, or was referred to the committee on finance in the Senate. The bill for the relief of Noah Webster was passed by the House at that session and referred to the committee on finance in the Senate and reported against by Mr. Earle, but at the session of 1874 the same bill in nearly the same words, was introduced in the Senate and reported favorably by Mr. Earle from the committee on finance, and passed both branches of the Legislature.

J. W. DOUGHERTY, ROBERT J. WALLIS, WM. H. ROACH, Delegates.

GEO. R. DENNIS, Senator, Princess Anne, Md., Oct. 25, 1875.

The mayors of Baltimore from 1797 have been twenty-three in number, as follows: James Calhoun, Thorogood Smith, Edward Johnson, George Stiles, John Montgomery, Jacob Small, William Stewart, Jesse Hunt, Samuel Smith, Sheppard C. Leakin, Samuel Brady, Solomon Hillen, James O. Law, Jacob G. Davies, Elijah Stansbury, John H. T. Jerome, John Smith Hollins, Samuel Hinks, Thomas Swann, George Wm. Brown, John Lee Chapman, Robert T. Banks, Joshua Vansant, and F. C. Latrobe, elected on Wednesday last.

Notice.

We are authorized to announce Mr. JOSEPHUS HUMPHREYS, as an Independent Candidate for Judge of the Orphan's Court of Wicomico county.

WIDE AWAKE, the Boston juvenile magazine, for November, comes like a wonder-box, packed full with delightful pictures and stories and poems. The number opens with a poem, "The Sad Story of a Little Girl," by Mrs. S. M. B. Platt, the most eminent of our American female poets. The most noticeable paper is one by T. A. Cheney. "An afternoon with an Indian Princess," embodying a visit with the Inroquois chief, "Gov. Blacksnake," who was living at the time in one of the Indian Reservations in New York. It is full of interesting reminiscences, and finely illustrated. The serials, especially the "Cooking Club," are eminently healthful in tone, which may be said of the entire magazine. We are glad to commend it to parents, and to add that it is only $2.00 per annum. D. Lothrop & Co., Boston.

Scribner's Monthly for 1876.

The publishers invite attention to the following list of some of the attractive articles secured for Scribner's Monthly, for the coming year. In the short list, besides numerous novelettes and stories, there will be:

TWO REMARKABLE SERIAL STORIES BY AMERICAN AUTHORS.

The first of these, now complete in our hands, "GARDEN CONVOY," BY ANNE WATSON, begins in the November number, and will run for twelve months. This is Mr. Hart's first serial work. The scenes and characters which the author has chosen from his favorite field, California, are painted with characteristic vividness and power, and the work is without doubt, the most graphic record of early California life that has yet appeared.

We shall also begin in the January number, "PHILIP NOLAN'S FRIENDS," OR, SHOW YOUR PASSPORTS," BY ANNE WATSON.

The scene of this story is laid in the Southwest territory, now forming the States of Louisiana and Texas, at the time of Aaron Burr's treason. The characters lived in a section which was now American, now French, and now Spanish, and this record of their adventures lives makes a story of intense and unflagging interest throughout.

SECOND "FARMER'S VACATION," BY COL. W. W. WATSON, JR.

Col. Waring is now in Europe, visiting in a row-boat ride of two hundred and fifty miles, one of the most fertile and interesting of the vine-growing valleys of Europe. This second series of papers promises to be even more interesting than that with which our readers are already familiar.

CENTENIAL LETTERS, EDITED BY JOHN VANCE CREESE.

A rare collection of Revolutionary Letters, mainly from the hands of the distinguished men of the Revolution. They are full of interest, and are bound in a handsome and durable binding with the Centennial celebration of the BRILLIANTLY ILLUSTRATED ARTICLES ON AMERICAN COLLECTORS.

Written especially for the Library, will appear during the year. The revised interest in college life makes these papers especially timely, and will secure for them unusual attention.

OLD NEW YORK. ELEGANTLY ILLUSTRATED ARTICLES ON OLD NEW-YORK. John P. Fiske, will appear at once, and will attract the attention of all, in city or country, who mark with interest the development of the great metropolis, and affectionately remember the quaint peculiarities of its olden time.

Every number is profusely illustrated, containing an interest and permanent value never attained in a non-illustrated periodical. Under the management of the magazine will be a record of the day in the past, the past, the present and the future.

THE EDITORIAL DEPARTMENTS, occupy twenty pages of each number and contain Dr. Holland's vigorous and timely editorials, as well as Reviews of the latest works in Art, Literature, and Science.

On Wednesday night last, after the marriage of two colored persons, our town was thrown into a considerable excitement by the noise of some masked colored persons following the procession, but was soon quieted by the approach of our bailiff.

B. Franklin Waller, Esq., has our thanks for a lot of the largest and nicest apples we have had the pleasure of getting this season, and the only fruit we have seen superior to it was a lot of California pears which sold in New York for $20 per box.—Mr. Waller is an excellent farmer and fruit grower.

To ADVERTISERS.—Next week we shall have more room in our columns for advertisements and reading matter which have been necessarily crowded out for the past four weeks.

Democrats, Beware of the spurious ticket headed State ticket, with a small spread eagle below these words. Don't be deceived by it.

Mrs. M. E. Purner would most respectfully call the attention of the public to her nice stock of Family Groceries just received from the city. Churches and families can be furnished at publishers' prices, viz.: $2.50, $3.00, $3.50 and $4.00. She has also on hand the Life and Labors of Dr. David Livingstone, the great explorer, also other interesting and popular works from Hubbard Bros., for whom she is agent.

FOR SALE CHEAP.—A Second-hand Grover & Baker Sewing Machine, Inquire at this office.

Since our meeting on the 26th, we are pleased to learn that a greater interest is manifested for the State ticket. Messrs. Carroll and Gwinn, who were strangers to our people, have made a very favorable impression, and we are glad to learn that the people are proud of their candidates. Col. Woolford made a favorable impression, and since the people have seen the efforts which have been made to slander him, and found out that he was innocent of the charges against him, they are more anxious to see him triumphantly elected. We are glad to see this wholesome feeling manifesting itself.

For fresh butter, cheese and all other family groceries, go to J. P. Owens & Co.

SUB SIGNS.—Whenever you see a man professing to be a Democrat rejoicing at Republican victories, it is a sure sign that he desired some place on the ticket of his party, and that his party did not put up high a value on him as he places upon himself.

Whenever you see a man calling himself a Democrat and at the same time speaking evil of the chosen standard bearers of the party, it is a sign that he wants some excuse to go over to the enemy, and if the other side will only make him believe that he values himself, away he will go, and in a majority of cases, his party is bettered by his departure, as the best thing he can do, is to sow the seeds of discord wherever he is.

John P. Owens & Co. have on hand a fresh supply of Mince Meat, put up expressly for their trade.

CHEERING NEWS FROM BALTIMORE.—We received yesterday a note from a gentleman in Baltimore, saying that "since the Police Commissioners have decided to appoint honest Judges in Baltimore, the Reformers are sanguine of carrying the city by at least 5000 majority."

The above from the Annapolis Gazette, (Republican), has reference to the election last Wednesday, and now they say they were not fairly beaten. Still they acknowledge that honest Judges were appointed. They failed in their calculation between 7,000 and 8,000, so they will next Tuesday from 10,000 to 15,000.—Grant's boys will have other elections in their hands next Tuesday beside the City of Baltimore.

FOR SALE CHEAP.—Two first class Parlor Organs—Plotts and Estey's. Also an elegant Steiff Piano. Inquire at this office.

Let no Democrat stay at home next Tuesday. His vote might be requisite to secure and perpetuate his rights as a freeman. Don't trust J. Morrison Harris who drove you from the polls in Baltimore; nor Col. Edward Wilkins, who drove you from the polls on the Eastern Shore, and desired to prevent young men from returning to Maryland after the war to see their parents. These are the men who are opposing Carroll and Woolford. Do you want to see them again in power? If so stay at home. We do not believe that you will stay at home, but that you will march out like freemen, and exercise the dearest right of an American citizen—a right which you were deprived of when these men were last in power. See to it, therefore, that you protect these rights while you can. It will be too late when they are gone.

The Eastern District Association No. 1 convened in the Salisbury Baptist Church October 27th at 3 o'clock, P. M. In the absence of Elder J. T. Craig, moderator, and Elder N. C. Naylor, clerk of the last session, Elder George Bradford was chosen moderator and R. L. W. Probasco clerk pro tem. This Association, which embraces all the Baptist churches on the Eastern Shore of Maryland, besides those in Baltimore east of the Falls, then listened to letters from the churches represented, after which a permanent organization was effected by the election of Elder Bradford moderator, Dr. Sydney Handley clerk and A. D. Merrill treasurer, as permanent officers. At 4 P. M. the Association adjourned.

Met again at 7 P. M. The introductory sermon was preached by Elder Bradford from Rev. 3-21. The report on Home and Foreign Missions was taken up, and after interesting and able remarks from Elders Nelson, Pauling and Dr. Marsters, was unanimously adopted. Adjourned at 10 P. M.

Thursday, Oct 28th, 9 A. M.—Association met—moderator in the chair. Proceedings of yesterday read and approved. Time was granted Rev. Geo. Braxton (col'd) to present the claims of his mission, which, after remarks from several of the members, resulted in the passage of a resolution commending him and his missionary work sympathy and contributions of the Baptists in the State and District of Columbia. The report on state of the churches was next presented by Rev. Mr. Pauling, which was unanimously adopted. The report showed the churches to be in a prosperous condition, revival meetings having been held in nearly all of them with encouraging results. Committee on obituaries next reported through R. L. W. Probasco, chairman, which showed that only five deaths occurred during the past Association year. The report, after interesting remarks from Messrs. Probasco, Nelson and Raymo, was also adopted. Adjourned to meet at 3 P. M.

AFTERNOON SESSION.—Association met Treasurer's report presented by Raymo, showing the Treasury in good condition, was adopted. Committee on time and place for next Association reported Rehoboth as the place and the third Wednesday in April, 1876, as the time. Rev. I. T. Craig to preach the introductory sermon, and Rev. Geo. Bradford, alternate. Report adopted. Mr. Probasco, chairman, then offered the report on temperance, which after remarks by the chairman, and Mr. Raymo, was passed. This report advocated the use of moral and legal force in banishing intemperance from our midst. Adjourned until 7 P. M.

NIGHT SESSION. Met again. Sermon at 7 P. M., by Rev. Mr. Pauling, from Matthew 11th chapter, and 28th verse. The sermon was worthy of admiration, but time and space forbade noticing it as we would wish. After this, report on Sabbath School, by Rev. Mr. Pauling, chairman, the discussion of which occupied the balance of the session. This report was adopted. There were present, five ministers and about twenty delegates, a fair attendance for a District Association. A rising vote of thanks was tendered the people of Salisbury for their hospitality to the delegates and visitors. Thus passed a very pleasant and harmonious session.

DIED.

TOWNSEND.—On Tuesday, Oct. 19th, at her residence, other mother in Salisbury, Annie Bella, wife of William E. Townsend, aged 26 years, 9 months and 2 days.

A husband and three young children, besides a host of friends are bereaved by this early death. Just entered on her duties and trials of her life, just in the meridian of womanhood, "her sun went down while it was yet day." The flower's bloom was brief, but intensely fragrant. "The days of her pilgrimage" were few, yet she had attained a high degree of christian piety, fortitude and resignation for one so young. Entirely submissive, she murmured not at the unfoldings of God's providence, and, aside from a separation from her children, was perfectly willing to die at any time. Like the immortal Addison, she could invite her friends to her side, and teach them "how a christian can die." There was a triumph in her departure that made the thought of death less gloomy and terrifying.

"The chamber where the good man meets his fate, is privileged beyond the common wall. Or virtuous life, quite on the verge of heaven, His God sustains him in his final hour, His final hour brings glory to his God."—T.

Letter from San Francisco.

We have passed Cape Horn, and arrived at Colfax. This town has about 1,000 inhabitants, and is a place of some importance for distribution of freights. From this town to Sacramento, there is little to interest you. Sacramento City is situated on the bank of Sacramento river, south of the American river, which unites with the Sacramento at this point. The city is mostly built of brick; the streets are wide, well paved and bordered with shade trees. There are numerous elegant public and private buildings. The State Capitol very much resembles that at Washington. The population is about 20,000. The next station is Vallejo. This town is situated on the south-eastern point of the high rolling grass-covered hills bordering Vallejo bay, which is about four miles long and a half mile wide, with twenty-four feet water at low tide. In this bay or harbor the vessels of the United States lay up when not in use. On Man Island, across the bay, are the Government works, dry dock, arsenal, &c. The population of Vallejo is about 7,000. This is a port of delivery, and many large vessels load with wheat for Liverpool and other foreign ports. The next station is called Brighton. Near this place is where gold was first discovered at "Coloma" in El Dorado county, Jan'y 19th, 1848, by J. W. Marshall, in the mill race of Gen'l Sutter. Leaving Brighton we enter the California Wind-Mill county. You can see from fifty to two hundred at a sight, scattered in every direction over wheat fields, and the number increases as we approach Stockton, sometimes called Wind Mill City. These mills are used for irrigation. As we pass on we find the beautiful valley widening before us, and we begin to realize that nature has done much for this august land. We have now arrived at Stockton, the county seat of San Joaquin. "San Joaquin" county population about 12,000. The next city on the road is Lathrop, nine miles further west. Butte, the next station, four miles further on, is of little note. We pass on without much to interest us until we arrive at San Leandro, the county seat of Alameda county. This county is noted for its rich and fertile soil, which seems especially adapted to the cultivation of all kinds of vegetables, the size and weight of which are truly marvelous. Carrots grow three feet long and weigh thirty five pounds. Cabbages 75 pounds; onions 5 pounds; water melons 85 pounds; pumpkins, it is held that no scales can weigh them; pears 84 pounds; cherries 3 inches in circumference; strawberries 3 ounces; and beans 200 pounds. All kinds of grain yields are enormous. We now arrive at Brooklyn, formerly San Antonio. This city is separated from Oakland by a bridge. We cross the bridge and enter Oakland. The Brooklyn of New York, in which is our misfortune to be unable to find a Beecher, but Elizabeth is there. This city is a beautiful one, having churches, schools, and every thing that is necessary to make it a desirable location for residences. It is connected to San Francisco by a bridge extending out 2 1/2 miles into San Francisco bay, where regular ferry boats run every thirty minutes. Crossing this bay we feel the change of atmosphere. The winds from the Pacific come over the mountain which borders the shore and lie between the bay and ocean. We have been traveling through a country where linen clothes seemed uncomfortable and warm, but now flannel, serge and heavy ULSTER overcoats, seem insufficient to protect the body from cold. We now enter the great city of earthquakes and stock exchanges, of which I will in future speak. Goodbye, S. D. M.

HAIR VEGETABLE SIGILLIAN HAIR RENEWER. This standard article is compounded with the greatest care. Its effects are so wonderful and so satisfactory as ever. It restores gray or faded hair to its youthful color. It removes all eruptions, itching and dandruff. It gives the head a cooling, soothing sensation of great comfort, and the scalp by its use becomes white and clean. By its tonic properties it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, preventing baldness, and making the hair grow thick and strong. As a dressing, nothing has been found so effective or desirable.

Price, One Dollar.

Buckingham's Dye FOR THE WHISKERS.

This elegant preparation may be relied on to change the color of the beard from gray or any other undesirable shade, to brown or black, at discretion. It is easily applied, being in one preparation, and quickly and effectively produces a permanent color, which will neither rub nor wash off.
